Cook County Farm Bureau this month completed another successful year—the 30th in its history. While the organization deals directly with the farmers, its influence is felt in mercantile, civic and social life of the county.

The tieup of the farm bureau with the University of Illinois enlarges the service that the local organization is able to give to members, as well as to the community.

Much of the work of the bureau throughout the county is directed from the Arlington Hts. office, although a similar office with the assistant farm adviser in charge is located at Blue Island. In both places the Cook County Farm Bureau owns its own home.

The magnitude of its operation can be gained from these figures:

Present assets of the Bureau amount to over $110,000, of which nearly $70,000 can be called liquid. The Farm Bureau is not operated for profit but it had a net income last year of over $8,000.

The membership of the Bureau increased by 300 during the year that just closed, bringing it to 4,796. Howard Mills, in charge of membership expects it to reach 5,000 by 1952 but admits that it is nearing the saturation point. There just isn't many more farmers in Cook County.

THE LAKE-COOK Farm Supply is a cooperative organization serving both Cook and Lake county farmers. Members of the respective farm bureaus receive patronage checks annually. Stations in Cook county are at Des Plaines, Arlington Hts. Schaumburg and Tinley Park.

1949 sales were approximately $1,650,000 for year. This represents 5,000,000 gallons gasoline and fuel oil; 30,000 gallons lubricating oil; 25,000 lbs. grease; 40,000 sacks Blue Seal feed; 40,000 tons plant food; 20,000 lbs. small seed; 5,000 bushels seed grains and numerous incidentals.

INSURANCE, both life and vehicle is another major activity of the farm bureau set-up. The Cook County Agency was awarded first place in the State for all around production and service achievement. Production includes $1,194,500.00 life, 1,154 vehicle and liability policies, and 81,732 premium dollars Fire, etc., coverage.

A resume of the extension service that deals with the control of diseases of livestock and crops would probably not interest the urban reader but these figures show the effort that local milk producers are making to improve their herds.

12,956 cattle tuberculin tested with .20% reactors; 2,980 cattle Bang's tested with 6% reactors; 1,377 calves vaccinated for Bang's. Illinois State Health Department rules that all Grade A Milk by 1955 must be from Bang's free herds.

C. A. Hughes, under whose direction the farm bureau has experienced the greatest growth in its history is retiring Jan. 1. His place will be taken by C. F. Mees, of whom C. A. Hughes says in the current issue of the Cooperator, "I believe that the Cook County Farm Bureau has made a good selection. He is a man who has done an outstanding piece of work in publicity and getting information to the farmer."

TAX SERVICE has been added the past year to the other services that are available to members. Mr. J. P. O'Brien who came to the farm bureau with a wide knowledge of taxation is at the beck and call of local tax committees which have made good use of him the past year. $245,459 in taxes were protested this year for 587 members. Five new governmental bodies were organized for farmers to block expansion of urban areas into farm property for taxes.

This new program is a positive answer to the farmers' most pressing tax problem, the expansion of urban areas at the expense of farm-owned property.

The recent successful 4-H Club fair held at the Arlington Park race track brought home to many village folk the efforts that are being put forth by the Farm Bureau in cooperation with the University of Illinois to make better farmers of the next generation.

Members depend on the farm bureau to keep them posted on new legislation, both state and federal that concern them such as the new social security provisions under which farmers will begin payments this year.

Contrary to the general impression, the average farmer today wishes the government would end its control over farm products. The farmer of 1951 wishes to be on his own, not collecting dole from Uncle Sam.

Mother recognizes her fighting son in published news picture

Mrs. Frances Martin, 20 N. Vail, Arlington Heights is a very much worried mother because her son, Jack is fighting in Korea. The last letter from him was received by his mother on her birthday.

This week a picture of U. S. fighters marching thru snow in sub-zero weather in Korea included her son, whom she immediately recognized. Since the publication of disquieting news in Korea, Mrs. Martin does not even look at the newspapers and it was only by chance that her daughter, Corrinne, brought one home Monday.

Jackie enlisted in the armed forces shortly after his 17th birthday. He was a member of the 25th division.

Residential A zoning placed on previous business and flat areas

In order to get the official zoning records straight, two ordinances were passed Monday night by the Arlington Heights village board that reduces to "residential A" properties that were zoned otherwise.

One ordinance refers to Davis street in Scarsdale, opposite the railroad track that was originally zoned for business and on which single residences have recently been built. Lots 269 to 319 are now officially classified as residential A.

The other ordinance, which was passed at the request of the Northwest Bettermen association covers various parcels in Arlington Park and Arlington Ridge subdivisions. The parcels covered by the ordinance are at present zoned either for business or Residential "B". Both were rezoned to residential "A".

The blocks included are situated on the Northwest Highway, Chicago ave., Race avenue and certain lots facing Illinois avenue.

Arlington choirs to sing carols over PA system

The old familiar Christmas carols will again be aired in Arlington Heights. This year's broadcasts are sponsored by George C. Poole, Inc., Lattof Motor Sales Co., Harry H. Knaack Motor Sales, Inc., and Arlington Heights National Bank.

Recordings have already been broadcast, including a tape recording of the "Messiah" sung by the Congregational church choir of Des Plaines. The first live show will be given this afternoon, Thursday, when the high school chorus will sing, beginning at 2 o'clock.

Tonight, from 7:30 to 8 o'clock the Presbyterian choir will be heard. Friday the St. Peter's Adult and Children's choir will be heard from 7 to 7:30 p. m. All music is being broadcast from a public address system installed at the village hall.

A special thanks is given to the Merchants Delivery Service which assisted in bringing the field house piano to be used in these broadcasts, to the village hall.

10 more new homes

Permits for 10 more new homes in Arlington Heights were issued during November. The total cost of the homes amounts to $131,600. Permits were also issued for eight garages, $6,054; one library, $79,996; and two additions and alterations, $1,950.

Public hearing on mobile home January 8

A permit for a Mobile home to be erected on the northeast corner of Orchard and Evergreen, Arlington Heights, was denied by Building Commissioner E. J. Ahmer, and his committee, the denial being presented to the village board Monday night in the form of a letter.

In part the letter read: "We find the building will be inferior to buildings in the vicinity and to buildings proposed to be constructed on Evergreen ave., for which building permits have been issued. We find that the building will impair marketability or property values of existing buildings and buildings now in process of construction in the same immediate vicinity."

THE LETTER also stated that the Commissioner and his committee had attempted to find a different location for the Mobile home, but did not find one that suited the buyer.

Glen Iles, who seeks to build the Mobile home, was present at the meeting and asked the board for a formal appeal. Homeowners in the immediate vicinity will be asked to attend a public hearing on the matter January 8, at 8 p. m., at the village hall.

Manufacturing firm seeks location in Arlington Heights

Emerol Mfg. Co., the main office of which is at Port Chester, N. Y., is considering the location of its Chicago branch in Arlington Heights. It has under consideration about four acres adjoining the crop-saver plant near the village treatment plant.

The owners of the land are reserving 200 feet right-of-way for the possible extension of the Tri-State Highway.

Arlington Heights village board was sounded Monday night as to municipal services that would be available and its approval of the plant. The company is now operating a plant on the Chicago southside. It processes an oil for use on high compression engines and claims the plant is odorless and noiseless. The board is investigating the claims and will probably give its answer at the Jan. 8 meeting.

Over 600 persons, most of them wide-eyed youngsters, enjoyed the Village Theatre's performance of "Sleeping Beauty," given last Sunday at the Methodist church in Arlington Hts.

Youngsters and adults alike were agog over the colorful costumes and the effective transparent curtain, behind which most of the fairy scenes were played. The staging was particularly effective and sustained the mood for the fairyland world of castles and kings from start to finish.

Part of the proceeds from this production will be used to offset expenses when the same show is presented at several orphanages in the near future.

Arlington man in auto collision

Neither driver was injured last Friday morning when a car and truck collided on the icy pavement at rtes. 64 and 83, south of Wood Dale.

According to Deputy John Eyer of the county sheriff's office at Wheaton, the car being driven by Elmer Dietze, 24, Chicago, skidded into the rear of the truck which had Lawrence Lundy, 40, Arlington Heights, behind the wheel.

Christmas is here again! It is the season for much celebrating and the spreading of good will. Do many people stop to think what we are really celebrating? Do they realize that it is the birthday of our Christ, the Saviour of the world?

Yes, I think they do, but that is as far as the thought goes in the hearts of many men. On with the merry making, on with the gift buying. But wait! Aren't we forgetting something?

The biggest gift of all that this troubled world needs cannot be bought. That gift is "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men"'

Peace on earth can come only from the hearts of men. They must have faith in God. They must pray, more than they have ever prayed before. They must mean what they pray!

"Do unto others as ye would have done unto you," reads the Bible. Would we want the atom bomb released on us? Then why even think of using it on others?

We must pray that our leaders see the light. No war, ever in the history of this world has brought the Peace on Earth that they fought for. Isn't it time we used a new method? Greed, hate and prejudice must be banished from this earth, then, and only then, will there be peace.

Have You Prayed About It?

A. M. Conger, former high school head, dies after lingering illness

Funeral services for A. M. Conger, former head of Arlington Heights high school, were held Sunday afternoon at Lauterburg & Oehler funeral home, Rev. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church officiating. Arlington Heights Lodge No. 1162 A. F. & A. M. conducted last rites. Burial was at Memory Gardens. A salute in memory of his service to his country in the 1st world war was given by the firing squad of Merle Guild post No. 208, American Legion.

The veteran school man, who after his resignation as school head later became township school treasurer passed away Dec. 14 after a lingering illness. He was born Nov. 12, 1894 and spent his boyhood in Elgin. He graduated from the University of Illinois and joined the faculty of the local school in 1925. Ten years later on the retirement of Mr. Brown, he became principal filling that position 10 years when he retired, partly on account of his health.

When the deceased joined the faculty the school had an enrollment of 200 with twelve teachers. When he retired the enrollment had passed 700 and the faculty number 28. During the twenty years that Conger was with the school, the building was remodeled or enlarged twice.

He was employed four years as a cost engineer with Arlington Seating Co. and later left that position to become township school treasurer. He resigned the latter position early this year.

There remain his wife, Mildred; one daughter, Lorayne Woodyatt and a sister Reba C. Grosse.

Grade school children to be guests of Arlington Theatre

A free Christmas show will be given for all grade school children in Arlington Heights by the Arlington Theatre.

Due to the seating capacity of the theatre two shows will be held. The St. James Catholic school, St. Peter Lutheran school, two country schools, Wilson and Forest View, and morning kindergarten classes of the Public schools, will be entertained Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, as they have no school on that afternoon.

Saturday, at 9:30 a. m., the public school children will be entertained. Doors on both days will open a half hour before show time, and each performance will take two hours.

Cartoons, comedy, and a western feature will highlight both shows.

Santa finds Arlington Heights after all

Hey kiddies! Santa Claus found Arlington Heights after all!

Up to last week old Saint Nick was covering the rest of the country but was unable to locate Heights due to lack of lights. Then suddenly the business area blossomed out with the colored holiday arcs, and Santa spotted them from the air.

This Thursday, Friday and Saturday Santa is slated to be at Hagenbring's store in Arlington Heights from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m. He'll be ready to greet all comers.

Reserved tournament tickets now on sale

Reserved seat tickets for the Arlington-DeKalb tournament game Tuesday, December 26, are now on sale at the high school office until Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The tickets will then be available from athletic director Wally Grace until Tuesday morning at 10:30.

Price of the tickets is 80c for adults and 50c for students. Complete details of the tournament can be found on the sport page.

Arlington high teachers to take part in teacher training program

Principal LeRoy J. Knoeppel of Arlington Heights township high school has received word from C. W. Sanford, Associate Dean of the College of Education of the University of Illinois that because of the recognized efficiency of the high school teaching staff that the high school has been chosen of one of thirty in the state to cooperate with the university in its teacher training program.

Principal Knoeppel has accepted an invitation to attend a meeting of leaders in educational administration at the University of Illinois December 10 to formulate the new plan by which student teachers will spend six weeks in local communities in close contact with the entire teaching staff and receive training by direct experience with superior teachers.

Arlington Heights was chosen to participate in this training program because of the recognition which many of the teaching staff have attained in their chosen fields and because of the fine scholastic records which graduates of the high school have maintained at the state university.

Nurse's club seeks storage space for growing Lending Closet

Members of the Arlington Hts. Nurse's club appeared at the village board meeting Monday night to make a plea for more space for their Lending Closet and proposed Red Cross work.

Since the Lending Closet was opened eight months ago, the club has received 97 calls for articles needed in the sick room. Some articles requested, which were not already in the closet, were purchased outright by the Nurse's club. The service they have rendered in the past has been greatly appreciated by the citizens of Arlington Heights. If they had more space to store their supplies they could enlarge the closet to include all needed small hospital equipment.

Their object of appealing to the board at this time was to have them take under consideration their need for space so that when the library moves to its new building they might have first chance at the vacated room.

Upon recommendation of the planning committee the village board approved the resubdivision of the Arlington Country Club addition, bounded by Oakton, Olive, Douglas and Dryden avenues. The plat will be changed from a rigid iron to a curvilinear style.

A. C. Jacobs, Inc. tendered a tentative plat of Eastwood Terrace which was turned over to the planning committee for its recommendation.

Bakery truck driver killed by fast train

Ted Wolff, 36, Elder and Prospect sts., Round Lake, met death instantly Wednesday afternoon when the Milwaukee Road's crack westbound Hiawatha train crashed into his bakery truck at Maple street crossing, Itasca. Witnesses to the accident said that the train crashed into the truck broadside and that his body was hurled 150 feet through the air after the impact.

Parts of the truck were carried several hundred feet as the fast train was brought to a stop quickly.

Albert Richert, deputy coroner, picked up the body and brought it to Roselle where an inquest is scheduled.

He said that the truck belonged to Omar Bakery and that the accident occurred at 1:30 p. m. The truck was going south.

District 24 postpones opening of school bids

Due to the holiday season school directors of School District 24 have postponed the opening of bids for the new addition until Jan. 16. An official notice published in this paper states that separate bids will be received on individual portions of the contract.

Arlington pulls upset in Palatine win, 52-37

Let's Know Arlington

This series of articles is being written by a reporter who recently accompanied Building Commissioner Ahmer on a tour about Arlington Heights. They are written as the reporter saw them and special praise given any development is not intended as a reflection against any other area.

The writer of this department wishes he could take readers on a tour of Eastwood Ranch Estates. By a tour, he does not mean merely an auto trip along Dryden and Lincoln Lane, but a tour that would enable the visitor to meet some of the residents who are occupying homes that have been built by Paul Petersen, who is not only developing Eastwood, but is a resident there himself.

As one man told the reporter this week, "Paul has so much confidence in the houses he is building that he does not hesitate to live with us. If any of us fellows have any kicks we just walk over to Neighbor Petersen and personally ask 'how come?' Of course he has to do right by us."

EASTWOOD for over 50 years was owned by the Klehms Nurseries and the developer found "self-made" woods for the setting of the homes he intended to build. Three-quarters of those trees have had to be cut to make way for roads and homes, but as the Petersen homes practically all face to the rear, with kitchens and garage entrances adjoining the street all have picturesque views from their living room.

While the subdivision was only laid out on paper when Mr. Petersen became interested, there was a lot of "ground work" that had to be done before he was ready to offer the property to home seekers. He installed under supervision of the village engineers modern streets, sewers, water mains, sidewalks, etc. When a man bought a home in Eastwood, which he would tell his friends is "out in the country" he got with that home all the conveniences that make for comfortable living.

Mr. Petersen attributes a large part of the popularity of Eastwood among women folk to its neighborly arrangement. From her kitchen window she can see all that is taking place—who is arriving and where. While at the rear of the home she can have picturesque gardens away from public view. "That arrangement is what is selling the homes," says Petersen. "I have not had to resort to newspaper advertising in over a year."

THE DEVELOPER "fenced-in" his property in 1947 with construction of 37 homes on Euclid, and Dryden, which sold at that time between $12,500 and $15,000. Homes along Dryden were then built. Most of these homes were of the four room class.

With the completing of the street work in Lincoln Lane, Petersen was ready to develop the interior areas. With five and six room homes, costing from $20,000 upward. There are 32 of these homes, either completed or nearing that stage; the purchasers are occupying half of them.

ALL HOMES built in Eastwood are masonry constructed. Paul's dad, Ingebal, a real Norwegian, who has never learned to skimp on construction is the mason contractor on all his son's homes. Paul told the reporter, "with dad on the job I do not have to worry about the class of workmanship that is going into my homes."

About half of Eastwood is yet to be developed. With the construction of needed street work on Beverly and Hickory streets Mr. Petersen expects to get a good start on the additional homes the coming year.

Petersen never does things by halves. He intends to stay with the Eastwood project many years. He was not content to erect a screen to the old village dump, south of his property. He purchased it and will gradually fill it in. It may be many years before the 3½ acres will be ready for development, but residents of Eastwood can look forward to the time when that vacant area will also become a residential area.

It was too cold the day of the reporter's visit to Eastwood to start ringing door bells, but he did get the names of a few of the newer residents.

E. T. POWELL, organizer and first president of Eastwood Community Club, is one of the oldest residents, but it was not until this week that the Herald learns that he has as much right to the title of "Colonel" as the publisher of one of the Chicago newspapers. Roy Meyer is the present head of Community club.

Arlington Heights people are naturally interested in who are their new neighbors. Here are a few of those in Eastwood.

John Petrie, president of Executone is engaged in the communication field, but when he comes home every evening at 416 N. Lincoln Lane and is welcomed by his two year old daughter Sandy, and his wife he forgets all about business. During the summer he finds plenty to keep him busy about his new home, which was discovered by him and his wife when driving around Arlington they "discovered" exactly the home they were dreaming about.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmar R. Fraizer smile when their neighbors complain about the present cold weather. They spend some time in Alaska, where during World War II Mr. Fraizer was with Uncle Sam's forces. At its close he was engaged in directing construction of the Ladd airfield at Fairbanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Griffin, 306 N. Dryden, have been residents of Arlington Heights three years. Mr. Griffin is a buyer for Marshall Field. They had always thought that Arlington was too far away from the loop, but on Decoration Day while visiting some friends on Euclid so fell in love with Eastwood that three days later they bought their present home which was then under construction.

Mrs. John Guilfoil and Mr. Guilfoil are looking forward to the time when they will also be Eastwood residents. She thinks that her husband has earned the right to a nice home in Arlington Heights.

He was one of the Americans in the Bataan march after the fall of Corregidor. He was a prisoner of the Japs 3½ years and has spent so much time in China that he can speak that language.

Arlington schools close this week with Christmas programs

It hardly seems possible that there will be anything but a white Christmas this year, the present deep blanket of snow adding color to all the pre-Christmas school programs in Arlington Heights.

Every school in the village is alive with activity this week. Caroling, plays, decorations are filling the students with Christmas spirit.

All decked out . . .

The village of Arlington Heights is the very essence of Christmas this year, decorated from head to toe with garlands of evergreens, jolly Santas and colorful lights.

The Chamber of Commerce is to be commended for its hard work in making these decorations possible. The Chamber in turn thanks the street department of Arlington Heights, who so willingly assisted with the decorating.

A party for village employees will be held Saturday between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., in the municipal building garage. All employees are urged to attend.

St. Peter Lutheran school children have decorated Christmas trees in all their classrooms, as well as putting up streamers and bells all over the rooms.

The St. Peter children will give their annual Christmas program Sunday in two separate, but identical, programs. The 4 o'clock program will be given by children whose family names begin with the letters M through Z. Students whose family names begin with A through L will give their program at 5:30 p.m.

"Wonders of Christmas," compiled by Allan Hart Jahsmann, will be the theme of the programs. The Children's choir will participate in both services.

ST. JAMES CATHOLIC school pupils are holding their Yule parties Thursday afternoon. The first through fourth grades will meet in room two (old church building) where each class will entertain with a playlet. Refreshments will be served.

The fifth through eighth grades will hold individual room parties at 2 p.m., with Christmas caroling as the main theme. Refreshments will also be served.

Wednesday the entire school toured the individual classrooms to see the Christmas decorations made by the children.

JUNIOR HIGH school boys and girls have been engaged in a variety of appropriate Yule festivities. Members of the band and chorus were working on Christmas music which was presented for the PTA Tuesday evening.

In practice for the evening program the chorus sang some of their numbers at an all-school assembly. Christmas decorations and Christmas cards were made by many of the art students.

Seventh and eighth grade students planned individual Christmas parties, the latter being held December 15. The seventh grade party is tonight, Thursday. They will be entertained with social dancing, student talent, games and jolly old Saint Nick, which also highlighted the eighth grade party.

The sixth graders sang Christmas carols in the school halls Wednesday, under the direction of Harold Brunt.

NORTH SCHOOL children are busy this week making gifts for their parents, decorating their rooms, and making aluminum foil ornaments for their Christmas tree, which is in the corridor of the first floor.

Singing of carols and reading of Christmas stories is also in evidence this week, both in the rooms and around the Christmas tree.

Four assemblies will be held Friday, thus making it possible for each child to attend one assembly program. At each assembly the children will sing Christmas carols, listen to a story read by one of the teachers and be entertained with story, poem, song, or play by each group at the program.

SOUTH SCHOOL pupils enjoyed "A Christmas Carol," a play taken from Charles Dickens' story, given by the five-two group under the direction of Miss Margery Lawrence.

Traditional Christmas carols will be sung at intervals by different groups in the halls and around the Christmas tree Friday.

HIGH SCHOOL students will enjoy a special Christmas assembly at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. Rev. B. T. Anderson of the Mt. Prospect Evangelical Lutheran church will address the group on the Christmas theme.

Following his address, the combined high school choirs and band will sing and play "The Christmas Story," which will be narrated by Leigh Peterson. Charles Anderson, president of the Student Senate, will preside.

The annual Senior Ball, given by the senior class, will be held Saturday night in the high school gym, from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Preparations are being made to make this year's ball one of the best in the history of the school.

The various committees and their chairmen have been working hard to promote the dance at which Bruce DeYoung and his orchestra will play. Dress is to be semi-formal. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

St. James school will close for the holidays Thursday afternoon, classes resuming January 2. St. Peter school closes Friday noon and will resume classes January 3.

The public grade school and high school close Friday afternoon and resume classes January 3.

A Merry Christmas To Everyone

Cook County Farm Bureau this month completed another successful year—the 30th in its history. While the organization deals directly with the farmers, its influence is felt in mercantile, civic and social life of the county.

The tieup of the farm bureau with the University of Illinois enlarges the service that the local organization is able to give to members, as well as to the community.

Much of the work of the bureau throughout the county is directed from the Arlington Hts. office, although a similar office with the assistant farm adviser in charge is located at Blue Island. In both places the Cook County Farm Bureau owns its own home.

The magnitude of its operation can be gained from these figures:

Present assets of the Bureau amount to over $110,000, of which nearly $70,000 can be called liquid. The Farm Bureau is not operated for profit but it had a net income last year of over $8,000.

The membership of the Bureau increased by 300 during the year that just closed, bringing it to 4,796. Howard Mills, in charge of membership expects it to reach 5,000 by 1952, but admits that it is nearing the saturation point. There just isn't many more farmers in Cook County.

THE LAKE-COOK Farm Supply is a cooperative organization serving both Cook and Lake county farmers. Members of the respective farm bureaus receive patronage checks annually. Stations in Cook county are at Des Plaines, Arlington Hts. Schaumburg and Tinley Park.

1949 sales were approximately $1,650,000 for year. This represents 5,000,000 gallons gasoline and fuel oil; 30,000 gallons lubricating oil; 25,000 lbs. grease; 40,000 sacks Blue Seal feed; 40,000 tons plant food; 20,000 lbs. small seed; 5,000 bushels seed grains and numerous incidentals.

INSURANCE, both life and vehicle is another major activity of the farm bureau set-up. The Cook County Agency was awarded first place in the State for all around production and service achievement. Production includes $1,194,500.00 life, 1,154 vehicle and liability policies, and 81,732 premium dollars Fire, etc., coverage.

A resume of the extension service that deals with the control of diseases of livestock and crops would probably not interest the urban reader but these figures show the effort that local milk producers are making to improve their herds.

12,956 cattle tuberculin tested with .20% reactors; 2,980 cattle Bang's tested with 6% reactors; 1,377 calves vaccinated for Bang's. Illinois State Health Department rules that all Grade A Milk by 1955 must be from Bang's free herds.

C. A. Hughes, under whose direction the farm bureau has experienced the greatest growth in its history is retiring Jan. 1. His place will be taken by C. F. Mees, of whom C. A. Hughes says in the current issue of the Cooperator, "I believe that the Cook County Farm Bureau has made a good selection. He is a man who has done an outstanding piece of work in publicity and getting information to the farmer."

TAX SERVICE has been added the past year to the other services that are available to members. Mr. J. P. O'Brien who came to the farm bureau with a wide knowledge of taxation is at the beck and call of local tax committees which have made good use of him the past year. $245,459 in taxes were protested this year for 587 members. Five new governmental bodies were organized for farmers to block expansion of urban areas into farm property for taxes.

This new program is a positive answer to the farmers' most pressing tax problem, the expansion of urban areas at the expense of farm-owned property.

The recent successful 4-H Club fair held at the Arlington Park race track brought home to many village folk the efforts that are being put forth by the Farm Bureau in cooperation with the University of Illinois to make better farmers of the next generation.

Members depend on the farm bureau to keep them posted on new legislation, both state and federal that concern them such as the new social security provisions under which farmers will begin payments this year.

Contrary to the general impression, the average farmer today wishes the government would end its control over farm products. The farmer of 1951 wishes to be on his own, not collecting dole from Uncle Sam.

Mother recognizes her fighting son in published news picture

Mrs. Frances Martin, 20 N. Vail, Arlington Heights is a very much worried mother because her son, Jack is fighting in Korea. The last letter from him was received by his mother on her birthday.

This week a picture of U. S. fighters marching thru snow in sub-zero weather in Korea included her son, whom she immediately recognized. Since the publication of disquieting news in Korea, Mrs. Martin does not even look at the newspapers and it was only by chance that her daughter, Corrinne, brought one home Monday.

Jackie enlisted in the armed forces shortly after his 17th birthday. He was a member of the 25th division.

Residential A zoning placed on previous business and flat areas

In order to get the official zoning records straight, two ordinances were passed Monday night by the Arlington Heights village board that reduces to "residential A" properties that were zoned otherwise.

One ordinance refers to Davis street in Scarsdale, opposite the railroad track that was originally zoned for business and on which single residences have recently been built. Lots 269 to 319 are now officially classified as residential A.

The other ordinance, which was passed at the request of the Northwest Bettermen association covers various parcels in Arlington Park and Arlington Ridge subdivisions. The parcels covered by the ordinance are at present zoned either for business or Residential "B". Both were rezoned to residential "A".

The blocks included are situated on the Northwest Highway, Chicago ave., Race avenue and certain lots facing Illinois avenue.

Arlington choirs to sing carols over PA system

The old familiar Christmas carols will again be aired in Arlington Heights. This year's broadcasts are sponsored by George C. Poole, Inc., Lattof Motor Sales Co., Harry H. Knaack Motor Sales, Inc., and Arlington Heights National Bank.

Recordings have already been broadcast, including a tape recording of the "Messiah" sung by the Congregational church choir of Des Plaines. The first live show will be given this afternoon, Thursday, when the high school chorus will sing, beginning at 2 o'clock.

Tonight, from 7:30 to 8 o'clock the Presbyterian choir will be heard. Friday the St. Peter's Adult and Children's choir will be heard from 7 to 7:30 p. m. All music is being broadcast from a public address system installed at the village hall.

A special thanks is given to the Merchants Delivery Service which assisted in bringing the field house piano to be used in these broadcasts, to the village hall.

10 more new homes

Permits for 10 more new homes in Arlington Heights were issued during November. The total cost of the homes amounts to $131,600. Permits were also issued for eight garages, $6,054; one library, $79,996; and two additions and alterations, $1,950.

Public hearing on mobile home January 8

A permit for a Mobile home to be erected on the northeast corner of Orchard and Evergreen, Arlington Heights, was denied by Building Commissioner E. J. Ahmer, and his committee, the denial being presented to the village board Monday night in the form of a letter.

In part the letter read: "We find the building will be inferior to buildings in the vicinity and to buildings proposed to be constructed on Evergreen ave., for which building permits have been issued. We find that the building will impair marketability or property values of existing buildings and buildings now in process of construction in the same immediate vicinity."

THE LETTER also stated that the Commissioner and his committee had attempted to find a different location for the Mobile home, but did not find one that suited the buyer.

Glen Iles, who seeks to build the Mobile home, was present at the meeting and asked the board for a formal appeal. Homeowners in the immediate vicinity will be asked to attend a public hearing on the matter January 8, at 8 p. m., at the village hall.

Manufacturing firm seeks location in Arlington Heights

Emerol Mfg. Co., the main office of which is at Port Chester, N. Y., is considering the location of its Chicago branch in Arlington Heights. It has under consideration about four acres adjoining the crop-saver plant near the village treatment plant.

The owners of the land are reserving 200 feet right-of-way for the possible extension of the Tri-State Highway.

Arlington Heights village board was sounded Monday night as to municipal services that would be available and its approval of the plant. The company is now operating a plant on the Chicago southside. It processes an oil for use on high compression engines and claims the plant is odorless and noiseless. The board is investigating the claims and will probably give its answer at the Jan. 8 meeting.

Over 600 persons, most of them wide-eyed youngsters, enjoyed the Village Theatre's performance of "Sleeping Beauty," given last Sunday at the Methodist church in Arlington Hts.

Youngsters and adults alike were agog over the colorful costumes and the effective transparent curtain, behind which most of the fairy scenes were played. The staging was particularly effective and sustained the mood for the fairyland world of castles and kings from start to finish.

Part of the proceeds from this production will be used to offset expenses when the same show is presented at several orphanages in the near future.

Arlington man in auto collision

Neither driver was injured last Friday morning when a car and truck collided on the icy pavement at rtes. 64 and 83, south of Wood Dale.

According to Deputy John Eyer of the county sheriff's office at Wheaton, the car being driven by Elmer Dietze, 24, Chicago, skidded into the rear of the truck which had Lawrence Lundy, 40, Arlington Heights, behind the wheel.

Christmas is here again! It is the season for much celebrating and the spreading of good will. Do many people stop to think what we are really celebrating? Do they realize that it is the birthday of our Christ, the Saviour of the world?

Yes, I think they do, but that is as far as the thought goes in the hearts of many men. On with the merry making, on with the gift buying. But wait! Aren't we forgetting something?

The biggest gift of all that this troubled world needs cannot be bought. That gift is "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men"

Peace on earth can come only from the hearts of men. They must have faith in God. They must pray, more than they have ever prayed before. They must mean what they pray!

"Do unto others as ye would have done unto you," reads the Bible. Would we want the atom bomb released on us? Then why even think of using it on others?

We must pray that our leaders see the light. No war, ever in the history of this world has brought the Peace on Earth that they fought for. Isn't it time we used a new method? Greed, hate and prejudice must be banished from this earth, then, and only then, will there be peace.

Have You Prayed About It?

A. M. Conger, former high school head, dies after lingering illness

Funeral services for A. M. Conger, former head of Arlington Heights high school, were held Sunday afternoon at Lauterburg & Oehler funeral home, Rev. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church officiating. Arlington Heights Lodge No. 1162 A. F. & A. M. conducted last rites. Burial was at Memory Gardens. A salute in memory of his service to his country in the 1st world war was given by the firing squad of Merle Guild post No. 208, American Legion.

The veteran school man, who after his resignation as school head later became township school treasurer passed away Dec. 14 after a lingering illness. He was born Nov. 12, 1894 and spent his boyhood in Elgin. He graduated from the University of Illinois and joined the faculty of the local school in 1925. Ten years later on the retirement of Mr. Brown, he became principal filling that position 10 years when he retired, partly on account of his health.

When the deceased joined the faculty the school had an enrollment of 200 with twelve teachers. When he retired the enrollment had passed 700 and the faculty number 28. During the twenty years that Conger was with the school, the building was remodeled or enlarged twice.

He was employed four years as a cost engineer with Arlington Seating Co. and later left that position to become township school treasurer. He resigned the latter position early this year.

There remain his wife, Mildred; one daughter, Lorayne Woodyatt and a sister Reba C. Grosse.

Grade school children to be guests of Arlington Theatre

A free Christmas show will be given for all grade school children in Arlington Heights by the Arlington Theatre.

Due to the seating capacity of the theatre two shows will be held. The St. James Catholic school, St. Peter Lutheran school, two country schools, Wilson and Forest View, and morning kindergarten classes of the Public schools, will be entertained Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, as they have no school on that afternoon.

Saturday, at 9:30 a. m., the public school children will be entertained. Doors on both days will open a half hour before show time, and each performance will take two hours.

Cartoons, comedy, and a western feature will highlight both shows.

Santa finds Arlington Heights after all

Hey kiddies! Santa Claus found Arlington Heights after all!

Up to last week old Saint Nick was covering the rest of the country but was unable to locate Heights due to lack of lights. Then suddenly the business area blossomed out with the colored holiday arcs, and Santa spotted them from the air.

This Thursday, Friday and Saturday Santa is slated to be at Hagenbring's store in Arlington Heights from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m. He'll be ready to greet all comers.

Reserved tournament tickets now on sale

Reserved seat tickets for the Arlington-DeKalb tournament game Tuesday, December 26, are now on sale at the high school office until Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The tickets will then be available from athletic director Wally Grace until Tuesday morning at 10:30.

Price of the tickets is 80c for adults and 50c for students. Complete details of the tournament can be found on the sport page.

Arlington high teachers to take part in teacher training program

Principal LeRoy J. Knoeppel of Arlington Heights township high school has received word from C. W. Sanford, Associate Dean of the College of Education of the University of Illinois that because of the recognized efficiency of the high school teaching staff that the high school has been chosen of one of thirty in the state to cooperate with the university in its teacher training program.

Principal Knoeppel has accepted an invitation to attend a meeting of leaders in educational administration at the University of Illinois December 10 to formulate the new plan by which student teachers will spend six weeks in local communities in close contact with the entire teaching staff and receive training by direct experience with superior teachers.

Arlington Heights was chosen to participate in this training program because of the recognition which many of the teaching staff have attained in their chosen fields and because of the fine scholastic records which graduates of the high school have maintained at the state university.

Nurse's club seeks storage space for growing Lending Closet

Members of the Arlington Hts. Nurse's club appeared at the village board meeting Monday night to make a plea for more space for their Lending Closet and proposed Red Cross work.

Since the Lending Closet was opened eight months ago, the club has received 97 calls for articles needed in the sick room. Some articles requested, which were not already in the closet, were purchased outright by the Nurse's club. The service they have rendered in the past has been greatly appreciated by the citizens of Arlington Heights. If they had more space to store their supplies they could enlarge the closet to include all needed small hospital equipment.

Their object of appealing to the board at this time was to have them take under consideration their need for space so that when the library moves to its new building they might have first chance at the vacated room.

Upon recommendation of the planning committee the village board approved the resubdivision of the Arlington Country Club addition, bounded by Oakton, Olive, Douglas and Dryden avenues. The plat will be changed from a rigid iron to a curvilinear style.

A. C. Jacobs, Inc. tendered a tentative plat of Eastwood Terrace which was turned over to the planning committee for its recommendation.

Bakery truck driver killed by fast train

Ted Wolff, 36, Elder and Prospect sts., Round Lake, met death instantly Wednesday afternoon when the Milwaukee Road's crack westbound Hiawatha train crashed into his bakery truck at Maple street crossing, Itasca. Witnesses to the accident said that the train crashed into the truck broadside and that his body was hurled 150 feet through the air after the impact.

Parts of the truck were carried several hundred feet as the fast train was brought to a stop quickly.

Albert Richert, deputy coroner, picked up the body and brought it to Roselle where an inquest is scheduled.

He said that the truck belonged to Omar Bakery and that the accident occurred at 1:30 p. m. The truck was going south.

District 24 postpones opening of school bids

Due to the holiday season school directors of School District 24 have postponed the opening of bids for the new addition until Jan. 16. An official notice published in this paper states that separate bids will be received on individual portions of the contract.

Let's Know Arlington

This series of articles is being written by a reporter who recently accompanied Building Commissioner Ahmer on a tour about Arlington Heights. They are written as the reporter saw them and special praise given any development is not intended as a reflection against any other area.

The writer of this department wishes he could take readers on a tour of Eastwood Ranch Estates. By a tour, he does not mean merely an auto trip along Dryden and Lincoln Lane, but a tour that would enable the visitor to meet some of the residents who are occupying homes that have been built by Paul Petersen, who is not only developing Eastwood, but is a resident there himself.

As one man told the reporter this week, "Paul has so much confidence in the houses he is building that he does not hesitate to live with us. If any of us fellows have any kicks we just walk over to Neighbor Petersen and personally ask 'how come?' Of course he has to do right by us."

EASTWOOD for over 50 years was owned by the Klehms Nurseries and the developer found "self-made" woods for the setting of the homes he intended to build. Three-quarters of those trees have had to be cut to make way for roads and homes, but as the Petersen homes practically all face to the rear, with kitchens and garage entrances adjoining the street all have picturesque views from their living room.

While the subdivision was only laid out on paper when Mr. Petersen became interested, there was a lot of "ground work" that had to be done before he was ready to offer the property to home seekers. He installed under supervision of the village engineers modern streets, sewers, water mains, sidewalks, etc. When a man bought a home in Eastwood, which he would tell his friends is "out in the country" he got with that home all the conveniences that make for comfortable living.

Mr. Petersen attributes a large part of the popularity of Eastwood among women folk to its neighborly arrangement. From her kitchen window she can see all that is taking place—who is arriving and where. While at the rear of the home she can have picturesque gardens away from public view. "That arrangement is what is selling the homes," says Petersen. "I have not had to resort to newspaper advertising in over a year."

THE DEVELOPER "fenced-in" his property in 1947 with construction of 37 homes on Euclid, and Dryden, which sold at that time between $12,500 and $15,000. Homes along Dryden were then built. Most of these homes were of the four room class.

With the completing of the street work in Lincoln Lane, Petersen was ready to develop the interior areas. With five and six room homes, costing from $20,000 upward. There are 32 of these homes, either completed or nearing that stage; the purchasers are occupying half of them.

ALL HOMES built in Eastwood are masonry constructed. Paul's dad, Ingebal, a real Norwegian, who has never learned to skimp on construction is the mason contractor on all his son's homes. Paul told the reporter, "with dad on the job I do not have to worry about the class of workmanship that is going into my homes."

About half of Eastwood is yet to be developed. With the construction of needed street work on Beverly and Hickory streets Mr. Petersen expects to get a good start on the additional homes the coming year.

Petersen never does things by halves. He intends to stay with the Eastwood project many years. He was not content to erect a screen to the old village dump south of his property. He purchased it and will gradually fill it in. It may be many years before the 3½ acres will be ready for development, but residents of Eastwood can look forward to the time when that vacant area will also become a residential area.

It was too cold the day of the reporter's visit to Eastwood to start ringing door bells, but he did get the names of a few of the newer residents.

E. T. POWELL, organizer and first president of Eastwood Community Club, is one of the oldest residents, but it was not until this week that the Herald learns that he has as much right to the title of "Colonel" as the publisher of one of the Chicago newspapers. Roy Meyer is the present head of Community club.

Arlington Heights people are naturally interested in who are their new neighbors. Here are a few of those in Eastwood.

John Petrie, president of Executone is engaged in the communication field, but when he comes home every evening at 416 N. Lincoln Lane and is welcomed by his two year old daughter Sandy, and his wife he forgets all about business. During the summer he finds plenty to keep him busy about his new home, which was discovered by him and his wife when driving around Arlington they "discovered" exactly the home they were dreaming about.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmar R. Fraizer smile when their neighbors complain about the present cold weather. They spend some time in Alaska, where during World War II Mr. Fraizer was with Uncle Sam's forces. At its close he was engaged in directing construction of the Ladd airfield at Fairbanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Griffin, 306 N. Dryden, have been residents of Arlington Heights three years. Mr. Griffin is a buyer for Marshall Field. They had always thought that Arlington was too far away from the loop, but on Decoration Day while visiting some friends on Euclid so fell in love with Eastwood that three days later they bought their present home which was then under construction.

Mrs. John Guilfoil and Mr. Guilfoil are looking forward to the time when they will also be Eastwood residents. She thinks that her husband has earned the right to a nice home in Arlington Heights.

He was one of the Americans in the Bataan march after the fall of Corregidor. He was a prisoner of the Japs 3½ years and has spent so much time in China that he can speak that language.

Arlington schools close this week with Christmas programs

It hardly seems possible that there will be anything but a white Christmas this year, the present deep blanket of snow adding color to all the pre-Christmas school programs in Arlington Heights.

Every school in the village is alive with activity this week. Caroling, plays, decorations are filling the students with Christmas spirit.

All decked out . . .

The village of Arlington Heights is the very essence of Christmas this year, decorated from head to toe with garlands of evergreens, jolly Santas and colorful lights.

The Chamber of Commerce is to be commended for its hard work in making these decorations possible. The Chamber in turn thanks the street department of Arlington Heights, who so willingly assisted with the decorating.

A party for village employees will be held Saturday between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., in the municipal building garage. All employees are urged to attend.

Arlington pulls upset in Palatine win, 52-37

Arlington Heights cage squad won their first game of the season Wednesday night at Paltine, 52-37. The frosh-sophs lost, 32-31.

St. Peter Lutheran school children have decorated Christmas trees in all their classrooms, as well as putting up streamers and bells all over the rooms.

The St. Peter children will give their annual Christmas program Sunday in two separate, but identical, programs. The 4 o'clock program will be given by children whose family names begin with the letters M through Z. Students whose family names begin with A through L will give their program at 5:30 p.m.

"Wonders of Christmas," compiled by Allan Hart Jahsmann, will be the theme of the programs. The Children's choir will participate in both services.

ST. JAMES CATHOLIC school pupils are holding their Yule parties Thursday afternoon. The first through fourth grades will meet in room two (old church building) where each class will entertain with a playlet. Refreshments will be served.

The fifth through eighth grades will hold individual room parties at 2 p.m., with Christmas caroling as the main theme. Refreshments will also be served.

Wednesday the entire school toured the individual classrooms to see the Christmas decorations made by the children.

JUNIOR HIGH school boys and girls have been engaged in a variety of appropriate Yule festivities. Members of the band and chorus were working on Christmas music which was presented for the PTA Tuesday evening.

In practice for the evening program the chorus sang some of their numbers at an all-school assembly. Christmas decorations and Christmas cards were made by many of the art students.

Seventh and eighth grade students planned individual Christmas parties, the latter being held December 15. The seventh grade party is tonight, Thursday. They will be entertained with social dancing, student talent, games and jolly old Saint Nick, which also highlighted the eighth grade party.

The sixth graders sang Christmas carols in the school halls Wednesday, under the direction of Harold Brunt.

NORTH SCHOOL children are busy this week making gifts for their parents, decorating their rooms, and making aluminum foil ornaments for their Christmas tree, which is in the corridor of the first floor.

Singing of carols and reading of Christmas stories is also in evidence this week, both in the rooms and around the Christmas tree.

Four assemblies will be held Friday, thus making it possible for each child to attend one assembly program. At each assembly the children will sing Christmas carols, listen to a story read by one of the teachers and be entertained with story, poem, song, or play by each group at the program.

SOUTH SCHOOL pupils enjoyed "A Christmas Carol," a play taken from Charles Dickens' story, given by the five-two group under the direction of Miss Margery Lawrence.

Traditional Christmas carols will be sung at intervals by different groups in the halls and around the Christmas tree Friday.

HIGH SCHOOL students will enjoy a special Christmas assembly at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. Rev. B. T. Anderson of the Mt. Prospect Evangelical Lutheran church will address the group on the Christmas theme.

Following his address, the combined high school choirs and band will sing and play "The Christmas Story," which will be narrated by Leigh Peterson. Charles Anderson, president of the Student Senate, will preside.

The annual Senior Ball, given by the senior class, will be held Saturday night in the high school gym, from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Preparations are being made to make this year's ball one of the best in the history of the school.

The various committees and their chairmen have been working hard to promote the dance at which Bruce DeYoung and his orchestra will play. Dress is to be semi-formal. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

St. James school will close for the holidays Thursday afternoon, classes resuming January 2. St. Peter school closes Friday noon and will resume classes January 3.

The public grade school and high school close Friday afternoon and resume classes January 3.

Faith church to offer prayers for peace during Yule service

Prayers for peace will be offered at all services of Faith Lutheran church during the Christmas Season. Members and friends are invited to have a part in these earnest intercessions to God.

At the Sunday morning service at 10:45 the Advent Season will come to a close with the ringing appeal: "Rejoice in the Lord Alway," and Faith Choir will sing "Gloria! Sing all our Voices" by Bach. Another feature of this service will be the confirmation of adults.

Sunday afternoon at 4:30 Faith Sunday school under the direction of Superintendent Henry Schroeder and the teaching staff will present the beautiful Christmas Eve service, "Wonders of Christmas." There will be recitations by the little ones and singing of Luther's cradle hymn, "Away in a Manger."

The older children will tell the Christmas Gospel and lead the worship of the Congregation in Song and Prayer. The Junior Choir will offer several Anthems to the Christ-Child. All pupils of the school and also visiting children will be remembered with a gift. After the service members of the Walther League and Choirs will bring cheer to the homes of the sick and shut-in by singing their favorite carols.

Faith Church will conduct festival services Christmas Day at 10 a. m. There will be special music by both choirs and Pastor Behrens will speak on "God's Christmas Gift of Grace to the Lost." Sincere wishes of a Blessed Christmas and an invitation to worship is extended to all.

Junior Woman's club Santa, visit children's homes

December 16 and 17 were two important days for about fifty children in the children's homes at Bensenville and Addison, for on those days Santa, accompanied by members of the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club, made special visits to the two homes.

Saturday, thirteen young women journeyed to Bensenville where they had a party for twenty-five boys and girls ranging in age from five to eight years. Preceding Santa's visit, the children played games and had ice cream and cookies. Then, with the coming of the "man with the whiskers," all gathered around to receive his or her individual gift straight from Santa's pack. In addition to the individual gifts, Santa had also brought along toys to be placed under their Christmas tree for the use and enjoyment of all the children.

Sunday afternoon, fifteen members of the club made a trip to Addison with Santa in order to bring a preview of Christmas to the little boys and girls of pre-school age in that home. From the moment the young women entered the room, they found themselves gazing into may pairs of bright eyes—all were looking for Santa! Before he arrived, however, they had ice cream and cookies, and then Santa popped in the door! Immediately, they all rushed to greet him—even the two-year old twins, Teddy and Eddy! Each little girl found upon opening her gift from Santa, that she was the proud "mother" of a brand-new baby doll, complete with bottle and her own personal wardrobe. The little boys discovered they had received bright trucks and fire engines. Both the boys and girls found enjoyment in the completely furnished doll house and also from Santa's pack emerged a rocking-horse, a musical top, and several other gifts for their playrooms.

The Arlington Heights Juniors discovered, for the second year, what a wonderful feeling comes with bringing Christmas to the children in these homes. Somehow, it seems to give Christmas even more meaning than usual to help make it a merry day for the tiny tots at Bensenville and Addison! This year Santa was portrayed at Bensenville by Mrs. Robert Busse and at Addison by Mrs. Edward Crofoot.

Arlington man says train was at fault in accident that nearly cost his life

Henry Hahn, rte. 1, Arlington Heights, claims that the North Western railroad is to blame for the accident last week which involved his car and the commuter streamliner at Emerson st. crossing, Mt. Prospect.

This paper published that Hahn had hit the first car a short distance from the front. Hahn claims that after coming to a complete stop he had started across the track when his car was hit by the diesel operated car.

The train was stopping for Mt. Prospect and Hahn's car was damaged at both ends and one side.

Dr. Muench recovers from highway accident

Dr. R. J. Muench has sufficiently recovered from the highway accident last week to return to his practice. The accident occurred when due to road conditions there was only one lane on which to travel. Dr. Muench met a car going in the opposite direction.

Several new Christmas books for children and adults have been added to our previous collection this week.

"The Animals' Merry Christmas" is a large book with a Santa Claus who pops out at you when you open it. It is a collection of stories about different animals, and is illustrated with fascinating pictures in color.

Two pretty little books for little people are "The Dolls' Christmas" and "I Like Winter."

"This Way to Christmas" is a beautiful fairy tale including some wonderful stories of Christmas all over the world.

F. Van Wyck Mason has written a short Christmas story entitled "Valley Forge 24 December 1777," which is a story of great courage at a crucial time in our history.

"The World's Greatest Christmas Stories," a 1950 book, edited by Eric Posselt, is an excellent and unusual anthology. Previous collections have been limited almost exclusively to American and English authors, but here for the first time, the masterpieces of 23 different nations are brought together. Most of the European stories are completely unknown to the English-speaking world. In fact, 14 of the 39 stories were translated especially for this volume. Young people and adults will enjoy these unique and interesting tales.

United Toy Drive committee thanks all contributors

With the completion of their first annual toy drive for underprivileged children and more than 3000 children having their Christmas made merrier as a result of the distribution of toys collected, repaired and painted by the employees of the United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines, the chairman of that committee, William Bullis, wishes to formally thank the public for their splendid response to this civic project.

'49'ers' class reunion

The Arlington Heights township high school graduating class of 1949 known as the "49'ers" will hold its first class reunion December 30, at the field house.

American Legion open house is success

The open house of Merle Guild Post 208, American Legion held December 12 was a great success.

A regular Legion business meeting was held so that nonmembers could see what goes on in a typical Legion meeting, and how the local post enters into local, state and national affairs. Special guests were Father Chaffee of St. John's Episcopal church, Mt. Prospect; John Hawk, Ninth District Commander of the Legion, and Captain Garcia of the U. S. Army. Captain Garcia served in Korea from early summer until November and was in charge of a platoon usually operating behind enemy lines. He returned to the United States November 3 after being wounded. He spoke briefly on conditions in Korea and the capabilities of North Korean soldiers.

Special speaker for the evening was Harry Harmon, past commander of the Ninth District and present chairman of the Legion Boy Scout program for the Department of Illinois. Mr. Harmon spoke on the over-all program of the Legion and its importance now and in the crucial days ahead. Refreshments were served.

"The World's Greatest Christmas Stories," a 1950 book, edited by Eric Posselt, is an excellent and unusual anthology. Previous collections have been limited almost exclusively to American and English authors, but here for the first time, the masterpieces of 23 different nations are brought together. Most of the European stories are completely unknown to the English-speaking world. In fact, 14 of the 39 stories were translated especially for this volume. Young people and adults will enjoy these unique and interesting tales.

United Toy Drive committee thanks all contributors

With the completion of their first annual toy drive for underprivileged children and more than 3000 children having their Christmas made merrier as a result of the distribution of toys collected, repaired and painted by the employees of the United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines, the chairman of that committee, William Bullis, wishes to formally thank the public for their splendid response to this civic project.

The Arlington Heights township high school graduating class of 1949 known as the "49'ers" will hold its first class reunion December 30, at the field house.

Festivities, which will include dancing to the music of the "Polka Dots," will begin at 8:30 p. m. and end at midnight. Refreshments will be served. Admission is one dollar per person.

American Legion open house is success

The open house of Merle Guild Post 208, American Legion held December 12 was a great success.

A regular Legion business meeting was held so that nonmembers could see what goes on in a typical Legion meeting, and how the local post enters into local, state and national affairs. Special guests were Father Chaffee of St. John's Episcopal church, Mt. Prospect; John Hawk, Ninth District Commander of the Legion, and Captain Garcia of the U. S. Army. Captain Garcia served in Korea from early summer until November and was in charge of a platoon usually operating behind enemy lines. He returned to the United States November 3 after being wounded. He spoke briefly on conditions in Korea and the capabilities of North Korean soldiers.

Special speaker for the evening was Harry Harmon, past commander of the Ninth District and present chairman of the Legion Boy Scout program for the Department of Illinois. Mr. Harmon spoke on the over-all program of the Legion and its importance now and in the crucial days ahead. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin C. Meyer celebrated their fifteenth wedding anniversary December 17 by entertaining 18 guests at a turkey dinner. Later in the evening the Busse family surprised the Meyers by dropping in on them and helping them observe the event.

Miss Lucille Hagman, teacher at Illinois State Teachers college, Normal, Ill., and former teacher at the North school in Arlington, was a week-end guest in the home of Miss Marian Elliott last week-end.

Romuald Raichert arrived at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Raichert, this week to spend the holidays here. Mr. Raichert is from Los Angeles, Calif.

See Wink for a good deal on batteries, bikes, tires, car jacks, miscellaneous Xmas presents for all members of the family.

Building here

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodbridge of Chicago are building a new home at the corner of Vail and South st., in Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. William Arnold returned last week after spending two weeks in the East.

Mrs. Bernice Poole has been confined to her home the past week because of influenza.

Miss Kathryn Flinspach, teacher at the South school, will spend the holidays in Bloomington, Ill., visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Olson will have as their guests Christmas Day, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clarbour, Sr. and family of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Nels Olson and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clarbour, Jr. and sons of Arlington Heights.

Miss Taps Hines of Leo, Ind., spent last week end in Arlington Heights visiting friends.

Miss Marian Elliott was hostess at a party given in her home Saturday evening for several friends. The guest of honor was Miss Lucille Hagman of Normal, Ill., formerly Arlington Heights.

Vacationing in Arizona

Friday afternoon Joyce Whitton celebrated her 7th birthday by inviting several of her little friends over for a birthday party.

December 22 Ronald Raichert will celebrate his eleventh birthday by taking several of his friends to the movies and having refreshments in the Raichert home.

Baptized Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Moehling of Wilke rd., Arlington Hts., had their three-weeks-old baby, Larry Earl, baptized Sunday afternoon at St. Peter Lutheran church. Rev. L. V. Stephan officiated.

The sponsors were Mrs. Raymond Pingel, Mrs. Harold Moehling and George Schimming. Following the christening the Moehlings held a dinner at their home for 20 relatives.

Circling the Town

BY PHYLLIS KNIGHT

Where Arlington Heights people find the time to take in all the special events planned for this holiday season is hard to see, but attendance at programs already held—like "The Sleeping Beauty," the choir programs, and Sunday school parties—and others to come surely indicates that villagers do get around.

The greatest time consumer this year, it seems, is package mailing. The town, of course, has far outgrown its facilities, and any federal inspector who visits here this time of year and sees customers jammed to the doors would certainly recognize our need for enlarged quarters. The railroad strike, of course, added to the jam the first of the week when the ban on parcel post was raised. Oh well, one met many friends standing in the lines, and the waiting time passed more quickly with pleasant conversation.

The PTA's Christmas program was held Tuesday night at South school, with the entertainment done by the children of the three schools. Harold Brunt presented his band and Miss Florence Zwane directed the chorus in holiday music, while the kindergarteners from Mrs. Buchholz's and Mrs. Foster's afternoon groups at North school offered songs and choric speaking, to an attentive audience of parents and brothers and sisters.

THE CHRISTMAS season at the Addison and Bensenville orphanages was brightened considerably by the appearance of Santa—in person—with members of the Junior Woman's club, who last week end brought a full pack to these two homes. Members of the club repaired and repainted toys that were donated. They also sewed clothes for baby dolls, which were given in complete detail, even to bottles.

Christmas at the churches, of course, has more meaning than just parties, and local groups have planned special services as well as get-togethers for their members and friends.

At St. Peter Lutheran church the Sunday school presented its program last night, and the children of the Christian day school will have two services on Christmas Eve, one at 4 and another at 5:30 p.m. The church will also hold two regular services on Christmas Day.

THE PRESBYTERIAN church will hold its traditional family vesper service from 7 to 8 p.m. Christmas Eve. It is planned to last one hour so that families may still spend Christmas Eve at home together and so that young children—many of whom participate in the caroling—may attend.

Members of the Tuxis groups are cast in the Biblical Christmas story, with the narration by Rev. C. Victor Brown. In the cast are Barbara Ransdell, Pat Sim, Jo Walker, Joan Bernthall, Dawn Niemeyer, Ralph Page, David Page, Bert Goldthwaite, Tom Williams, Dick Lull, Warren Lattof and Bruce Collard. Miss Roberta King has charge of the music.

At Faith Lutheran church, the holiday programs started last Friday with a parish Christmas party at the Field house. On Christmas Eve at 4:30 p.m. there'll be a children's service with recitation and song, and on Christmas day at 10 a.m. a festival service.

A fine addition to that "Christmas feeling" in Arlington Heights is brought by bright overhead lights in the business district—any one visiting the village knows at once what this town and its merchants think of the holidays! The music from the loud speakers is another seasonal touch, and helps make hurried shopping trips less of a chore and more of a pleasure.

Newcomers' club to hold Holiday tea December 28

Invitations have been extended to members of the Arlington Heights Newcomers Club for a Holiday tea which will be held on Thursday afternoon, December 28, from 2 to 4 at the field house.

Mrs. Sigmund Hollinger is chairman of the tea. Her committee includes Mrs. Thomas Goodrich, Mrs. Edward Fortin, Mrs. Carl Gran, Mrs. Donald Harnachek, Mrs. T. W. Hammarberg, Mrs. Robert Hannah, Mrs. John H. Hauser, Mrs. Geo. Hitchcock, Mrs. Kenneth Hull, Mrs. John M. Huskey, Mrs. Joe Grant, Mrs. Wilbur Inman, Mrs. Fred E. Jorden, Mrs. Alex Keller, Mrs. R. E. Kellogg, Mrs. David Kimble, Mrs. Edward Klamm, Mrs. Frank Kroll, and Mrs. James T. Lambdin. Mrs. Charles Stewart is in charge of program arrangements.

Guests are also invited to attend. Reservations for members and non-members can be made by calling Mrs. David Kimble, Arlington Heights 324-R, by Saturday, December 23. A small fee of 50c will be charged for non-members.

St. Peter school children to present two Yule services

St. Peter Lutheran Parish School children of Arlington Heights, will present two appealing Christmas services in the church Sunday, Dec. 24. The first will begin at 4 p. m., the other at 5:30 p. m. Both programs will be identical except that they will be given by different children. Those whose last names begin with the letters M to Z will be heard first; those from A to L will be in the second service. The public is invited to either of these services.

A well arranged program, "Wonders of Christmas" by Allan Hart Jahsmann, will form the basis of the services. The children's choir will be featured, the old favorite Christmas carols will be sung, and the age-old Christmas story according to St. Luke will be retold.

Miss Jeanne Muller and Milton Magruder are wed

Community Camera

At a 4 o'clock ceremony which took place December 9, Miss Jeanne Muller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Muller of Arlington Heights, became the bride of Milton Magruder of Ashdown, Arkansas.

Rev. R. Robert Ismay officiated at the wedding in the Arlington Heights Methodist church. Richard Everett was the organist.

The bride wore a white satin gown with an overskirt and bodice of embroidered nylon net, and a peter pan collar embroidered with seed pearls. A cap of embroidered net held her veil in place and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and orchids.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Dorothy Lee, who wore a gold taffeta gown, a close-fitting cap of brown velvet and a corsage of chartreuse carnations.

Connell T. McDermott of Chicago, cousin of the groom, was best man, and Clayton Magruder, another cousin of the groom, was an usher.

Dorothy Dueball weds Theodore Goebbert, Jr.

Community Camera

Three attendants and a flower girl preceded Miss Dorothy Caroline Dueball down the aisle when she became the bride of Theodore H. Goebbert, Jr., December 9. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Dueball of Arlington Heights, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Goebbert of Des Plaines.

Rev. L. V. Stephan officiated at the double-ring ceremony which took place at St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran church at 7 p. m. O. Kolb was the organist and Mrs. Beverly Hollemback sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer." The altar was decorated with baskets of white mums.

The bride wore a gown of white slipper satin fashioned with a rolled stand-up collar, sweetheart neckline, buttons down the front and long sleeves. The skirt had a pleated peplum and long train. An orange blossom and seed pearl tiara held her fingertip veil of French illusion in place, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and English ivy. She also wore a double-strand pearl necklace, gift from the groom.

The maid of honor, Miss Florence Besander, wore an emerald green slipper satin gown and carried a bouquet of carnations. She also had a spray of carnations in her hair. The bridesmaids were Miss Geraldine Goebbert, sister of the groom, and Miss Frances Murray. Their gowns and flowers were similar to the maid of honor's.

Kathleen McCarthy was the flower girl. She wore a gown fashioned similar to the bride's with a sweetheart neckline, and carried a bouquet of carnations.

Best man for the groom was his brother, Robert, and Earl Dueball and Robert W. Gallagher were ushers. David Allen Goebbert, brother of the groom, was ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a navy crepe dress with blue accessories and the groom's mother wore a navy crepe dress with pink and white accessories. Both had corsages of deep red roses.

A reception was held at the Palatine Legion Hall immediately following the ceremony for 200 guests. Following a honeymoon in the South, the newlyweds are making their home at 38 Elmwood ave., Palatine.

A dinner for the immediate family was held at Sobies December 6. The bride was also honored at two miscellaneous showers before the wedding. The first was given by Mrs. June Gallagher, Mrs. Ruth Goebbert and Miss Geraldine Goebbert. The second was given by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Paul Dueball.

Junior Woman's Club to hold 'Holly Day Formal'

Many a beautifully decked-out Christmas "belle" will help decorate the Mt. Prospect Country club when the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club holds its annual "Holly Day Formal" there December 29. Once again, between Christmas and New Year's Day, the Juniors are sponsoring this dance which proved to be so successful last year. It should be especially interesting to many college students home for the holidays—a real chance to meet old friends!

Music will be furnished by Howie Wendt and his Orchestra. Dancing will begin at nine o'clock.

Miss Pearl Miller, general decorations chairman, promises that it will be a star-studded evening.

Proceeds for this function will be equally divided between two Seventh District projects, namely, the Occupational Therapy fund and the fund for the Trail Rangers. The Occupational Therapy Fund will help finance the education of some young woman interested in such study, and the Trail Rangers is a philanthropic organization whose prime purpose is to rehabilitate wayward boys.

Dress for the "Holly-Day Formal" is optional, and tickets are $3.00 per couple. They may be purchased from any club member or at the door the night of the dance. Additional tickets are available by contacting Mrs. Harold Wolff, dance chairman.

St. Peter school children to present two Yule services

St. Peter Lutheran Parish School children of Arlington Heights, will present two appealing Christmas services in the church Sunday, Dec. 24. The first will begin at 4 p. m., the other at 5:30 p. m. Both programs will be identical except that they will be given by different children. Those whose last names begin with the letters M to Z will be heard first; those from A to L will be in the second service. The public is invited to either of these services.

A well arranged program, "Wonders of Christmas" by Allan Hart Jahsmann, will form the basis of the services. The children's choir will be featured, the old favorite Christmas carols will be sung, and the age-old Christmas story according to St. Luke will be retold.

Miss Jeanne Muller and Milton Magruder are wed

Community Camera

At a 4 o'clock ceremony which took place December 9, Miss Jeanne Muller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Muller of Arlington Heights, became the bride of Milton Magruder of Ashdown, Arkansas.

Rev. R. Robert Ismay officiated at the wedding in the Arlington Heights Methodist church. Richard Everett was the organist.

The bride wore a white satin gown with an overskirt and bodice of embroidered nylon net, and a peter pan collar embroidered with seed pearls. A cap of embroidered net held her veil in place and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and orchids.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Dorothy Lee, who wore a gold taffeta gown, a close-fitting cap of brown velvet and a corsage of chartreuse carnations.

Connell T. McDermott of Chicago, cousin of the groom, was best man, and Clayton Magruder, another cousin of the groom, was an usher.

Dorothy Dueball weds Theodore Goebbert, Jr.

Community Camera

Three attendants and a flower girl preceded Miss Dorothy Caroline Dueball down the aisle when she became the bride of Theodore H. Goebbert, Jr., December 9. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Dueball of Arlington Heights, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Goebbert of Des Plaines.

Rev. L. V. Stephan officiated at the double-ring ceremony which took place at St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran church at 7 p. m. O. Kolb was the organist and Mrs. Beverly Hollemback sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer." The altar was decorated with baskets of white mums.

The bride wore a gown of white slipper satin fashioned with a rolled stand-up collar, sweetheart neckline, buttons down the front and long sleeves. The skirt had a pleated peplum and long train. An orange blossom and seed pearl tiara held her fingertip veil of French illusion in place, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and English ivy. She also wore a double-strand pearl necklace, gift from the groom.

The maid of honor, Miss Florence Besander, wore an emerald green slipper satin gown and carried a bouquet of carnations. She also had a spray of carnations in her hair. The bridesmaids were Miss Geraldine Goebbert, sister of the groom, and Miss Frances Murray. Their gowns and flowers were similar to the maid of honor's.

Kathleen McCarthy was the flower girl. She wore a gown fashioned similar to the bride's with a sweetheart neckline, and carried a bouquet of carnations.

Best man for the groom was his brother, Robert, and Earl Dueball and Robert W. Gallagher were ushers. David Allen Goebbert, brother of the groom, was ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a navy crepe dress with blue accessories and the groom's mother wore a navy crepe dress with pink and white accessories. Both had corsages of deep red roses.

A reception was held at the Palatine Legion Hall immediately following the ceremony for 200 guests. Following a honeymoon in the South, the newlyweds are making their home at 38 Elmwood ave., Palatine.

A dinner for the immediate family was held at Sobies December 6. The bride was also honored at two miscellaneous showers before the wedding. The first was given by Mrs. June Gallagher, Mrs. Ruth Goebbert and Miss Geraldine Goebbert. The second was given by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Paul Dueball.

Junior Woman's Club to hold 'Holly Day Formal'

Many a beautifully decked-out Christmas "belle" will help decorate the Mt. Prospect Country club when the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club holds its annual "Holly Day Formal" there December 29. Once again, between Christmas and New Year's Day, the Juniors are sponsoring this dance which proved to be so successful last year. It should be especially interesting to many college students home for the holidays—a real chance to meet old friends!

Music will be furnished by Howie Wendt and his Orchestra. Dancing will begin at nine o'clock.

Miss Pearl Miller, general decorations chairman, promises that it will be a star-studded evening.

Proceeds for this function will be equally divided between two Seventh District projects, namely, the Occupational Therapy fund and the fund for the Trail Rangers. The Occupational Therapy Fund will help finance the education of some young woman interested in such study, and the Trail Rangers is a philanthropic organization whose prime purpose is to rehabilitate wayward boys.

Dress for the "Holly-Day Formal" is optional, and tickets are $3.00 per couple. They may be purchased from any club member or at the door the night of the dance. Additional tickets are available by contacting Mrs. Harold Wolff, dance chairman.

Theta Upsilon alumni organize afternoon group

The alumnae of Theta Upsilon sorority were entertained last Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Irving Brunstrom of Palanois Park. The group met with the purpose of organizing an afternoon group of the alumnae to accommodate those in the suburban areas who are unable or find it inconvenient to attend evening meetings.

Members residing in the northwest suburban area are welcome to attend, and the next meeting will be a luncheon in Oak Park at the home of Miss Virginia Gunderson, Province President of his area, January 15.

The annual Christmas party given by the Sherwood Improvement association will be held Thursday evening, December 21, instead of December 22 as listed in last week's column. The time is 7 p. m. at the home of James E. Wood, 1106 Clarendon rd. The party is for all children in that area up through the fifth grade. Santa Claus will be on hand to greet each boy and girl and present them with a gift. Movies will also be shown.

Birthday celebrations

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hall and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Monaghan of Chicago, celebrated Norman's birthday December 8 by having dinner downtown and later attending "South Pacific."

Last Wednesday afternoon Nan Rathsam had a party in honor of her fifth birthday. Her guests were Jack Trendel, Kathy Swinbank, Tina Drachman, Sandy Bates and Johnny Buckman. Games were played and refreshments served. Unique Christmas favors were given to each child —miniature Santa Claus mittens of red with white tops on which each child's name was written. These were made by Nan's mother. Even the refreshments were in keeping with the winter theme: ice cream molded in the shape of snow men. Mrs. Homer Eads of Auburn, Neb., maternal grandmother of Nan, was also present at her party. Nan has the distinction of being the first child born in one of the new homes in the Arlington Park section. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rathsam.

Lynn Gooding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Gooding, newcomers to the community the past year, celebrated her seventh birthday by having a party last Friday. Christmas theme was prevalent throughout the party, and there was a plastic gumdrop tree in the center of the table trimmed with tiny Christmas ornaments. Those who gathered in her honor were Mary Jo Utt, Kay Cheney, Bob and Janet Sauer, Peter and Susan Silcher, Margo and Linda Menzel, Susan Lips and Lynn's 2½ year old sister, Tomma.

Mr. and Mrs. William Andres and Mrs. Andres' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jacobs, helped Frank Andres, of Chicago father of William Andres, celebrate his 74th birthday Sunday.

LeRoy Jacobs marked his 20th birthday Friday.

Pre-Christmas activities

Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Willging were among the guests at the Christmas party given in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Faber December 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hubbard and son, Allan, attended the annual I. B. M. Christmas party in Chicago Saturday.

Arlene and Billy Andres, accompanied by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Andres, spent an enjoyable day in Chicago Saturday visiting Toyland, having lunch, and taking in the Christmas sights and decorations.

Holiday guests

Mrs. T. M. Allen of St. Louis, Mo., mother of Mrs. Gustav Dueball, will arrive Saturday to spend the holidays with the family.

The Robert Balfours and Joe Valvos had a pleasant surprise Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Allen Modine, sister of Mrs. Balfour and Joe Valvo, arrived here from their home in Houston, Tex., for the holidays. There will be a big family get-together in the Balfour home this Christmas when they will be joined by other members of the family.

The parents and sister of John Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Hoover and Miss Helen Hoover, of Norfolk, Neb., will join the family for the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Ann Doty of Lafayette, La., sister of Mrs. David Kenyon will be with the family over the holidays.

Mrs. Homer Eads of Auburn, Neb., mother of Mrs. Russell Rathsam, has been visiting the family for the past few weeks and shall be with them through the holidays.

More activities

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Witt accompanied their children and guests to the Christmas party at Rolling Green Saturday. Leanne's guest was Jean Fisher, and Harold and Kenneth's guest was Frederick Fisher. The Fisher family are recent newcomers in our community.

Sympathy

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. John Minton and family on the death of her mother, Mrs. Joseph Fair, December 15. Funeral services were held at St. James church December 18 with interment at All Saints cemetery in Des Plaines. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hall of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Fair's other daughter and son-in- law, were also here.

Merry Christmas to everyone!

Roberts Photo

Raymond Nick, son of Mrs. Eva Nick of Mt. Prospect, took as his bride Miss Ruth Clarkens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Clarkens of Morton Grove, November 25 at St. James Catholic church, Arlington Heights. Father Rosemeyer officiated at the 11:30 a.m. ceremony.

The bride wore a ballerina-length gown of blue lace over taffeta, a pink feather hat and pink gloves. Her flowers were white roses and pompons.

Mrs. John Nicola, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gray taffeta gown with a black velvet hat and white gloves. Her flowers were pink carnations and pompons.

Clyde Coryell, nephew of the groom, was best man.

A dinner was held at the groom's home immediately following the ceremony. At 8 o'clock a reception for 125 guests was held at the VFW hall in Glenview.

After a short honeymoon, the newlyweds will make their home on Milwaukee ave. near Wheeling.

Barbershop chorus gives first concert

The Barbershop Chorus, recently organized in Arlington Heights as a part of the adult educational program at the high school, gave is first concert December 12. Joseph Bryson directed the group, which presented its program before the Holy Name Society of St. James Catholic church.

A quartette composed of Stan Myers, bass; Don Krebsbach, baritone; Fred Jasper, led and Barney Erickson, tenor, was a feature of the program. The entire program was well-received by the audience.

All men, both young and old, who like to sing are welcome to join this group. Rehearsals are held each Monday evening in Room 206 of the high school. There are 18 members in the chorus at the present time. It is hoped that some day Arlington Heights will be represented by a men's chorus of 100 voices.

New Neighbors ....
IN THE CITY OF GOOD NEIGHBORS

Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Meyer
210 E. Orchard St.

The real newcomer in this family is Mrs. Meyer, for Mr. Meyer was raised in Arlington Heights (his mother, Mrs. Emil Meyer, lives on Euclid) but had lived in Barrington in more recent years.

The spacious ranch house in Scarsdale Estates suits this family perfectly for there are three young children, Nancy, who is 4½, James, who will soon be 2, and 10-month-old Christine. The latter, incidentally, is named for two grandparents, a Christine and a Christian.

Mr. Meyer is vice president of the Rotary Seal Co. in Chicago.

When we asked about hobbies, Mrs. Meyer reported that for obvious reasons their current one is their family just about exclusively.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Middleton
635 S. Newbury Place

Mr. and Mrs. Middleton, with their daughter, Nancy, a sophomore in Arlington high, and son, Page, a sixth grader in the Junior high, moved into their new home in Scarsdale in September. Their former home was Winnetka and they looked for a new home in Arlington Heights on the advice of a friend; they found a house they liked, and moved in.

Mr. Middleton is chief engineer of the Zurich General Insurance Co. in Chicago.

A family with varied hobbies, Mr. and Mrs. Middleton share an interest in the arts. They both paint and do sculpture, and Mrs. Middleton won two firsts and three seconds in North Shore Art league contests. Her husband some years ago won first prize in a national photographic contest. Nancy was a member of the cast of "The Sleeping Beauty," given last Sunday by the Village Theatre, Inc.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh E. Bynum
26 S. Ridge ave.

When Hugh Bynum was transferred to Chicago by the Reynolds Metals Co., he and his wife started a search for a house to rent, and they found just what they wanted in Arlington Heights. Now that they live here they have become very fond of the town and consider themselves more than lucky.

The Bynums formerly lived in St. Louis for a short time and before that in Pittsburgh.

Though Mr. Bynum is unaccustomed to commuting trips of much more than 10 minutes, he considers it well worth his time to travel from Arlington Heights into the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss A. Dahl
204 S. Highland ave.

Practically neighbors, the Dahls lived in Prospect Heights before moving here. Mrs. Dahl's parents, the R. S. Whites, live in Stonegate, and that fact combined with the convenience of being within walking distance of stores and transportation were factors contributing to their move.

The Dahl children, Sherry, who will be eight in January, and Tommy, who was just four, are fond of their new home. Mrs. Dahl is already serving as co-leader of Sherry's Brownie troop.

The real hobbiest of this family is Mrs. Dahl, who has done considerable painting and has had several exhibits in Chicago. She gave a talk on ceramics to a high school art class about a year ago. Up until last year she was also a model for Patricia Stevens.

Mr. Dahl, a member of the accounting department at Kraft Foods in Evanston, is so busy with his house that it has become his hobby.

Open house to mark 89th birthday of Wilhelmina Nielsen

Community Camera

Mrs. Wilhelmina Nielsen, who was born and raised in Arlington Heights, will mark her eighty-ninth birthday Friday, when relatives and friends are invited to attend an open house at the home of her granddaughter and family, the Carl Klehms.

The Klehms live on the northeast corner of State and Algonquin rds., and the party will be from 3 to 10 p. m.

Other grandchildren who will help her celebrate are Mrs. Jack Bretsnyder, Villa Park; Leonard Bolte, Cincinnati, Ohio; Roland and Wallace Bolte, both of Arlington Heights. Mrs. Nielsen also has seven great grandchildren who will attend the party.

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout Troop 20 of Arlington Heights made a dozen and a half Christmas decorations for the Oak Forest Infirmary. They have 150 trees to decorate this Christmas.

The troop will have a Christmas party at the Gregory's home and Mrs. Archibald will teach the girls to square dance. At this party the troop will also celebrate its birthday.

The Robert Balfours and Joe Valvos had a pleasant surprise Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Allen Modine, sister of Mrs. Balfour and Joe Valvo, arrived here from their home in Houston, Tex., for the holidays. There will be a big family get-together in the Balfour home this Christmas when they will be joined by other members of the family.

The parents and sister of John Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Hoover and Miss Helen Hoover, of Norfolk, Neb., will join the family for the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Ann Doty of Lafayette, La., sister of Mrs. David Kenyon will be with the family over the holidays.

Mrs. Homer Eads of Auburn, Neb., mother of Mrs. Russell Rathsam, has been visiting the family for the past few weeks and shall be with them through the holidays.

More activities

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Witt accompanied their children and guests to the Christmas party at Rolling Green Saturday. Leanne's guest was Jean Fisher, and Harold and Kenneth's guest was Frederick Fisher. The Fisher family are recent newcomers in our community.

Sympathy

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. John Minton and family on the death of her mother, Mrs. Joseph Fair, December 15. Funeral services were held at St. James church December 18 with interment at All Saints cemetery in Des Plaines. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hall of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Fair's other daughter and son-in- law, were also here.

Merry Christmas to everyone!

Roberts Photo

Raymond Nick, son of Mrs. Eva Nick of Mt. Prospect, took as his bride Miss Ruth Clarkens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Clarkens of Morton Grove, November 25 at St. James Catholic church, Arlington Heights. Father Rosemeyer officiated at the 11:30 a.m. ceremony.

The bride wore a ballerina-length gown of blue lace over taffeta, a pink feather hat and pink gloves. Her flowers were white roses and pompons.

Mrs. John Nicola, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gray taffeta gown with a black velvet hat and white gloves. Her flowers were pink carnations and pompons.

Clyde Coryell, nephew of the groom, was best man.

A dinner was held at the groom's home immediately following the ceremony. At 8 o'clock a reception for 125 guests was held at the VFW hall in Glenview.

After a short honeymoon, the newlyweds will make their home on Milwaukee ave. near Wheeling.

Barbershop chorus gives first concert

The Barbershop Chorus, recently organized in Arlington Heights as a part of the adult educational program at the high school, gave is first concert December 12. Joseph Bryson directed the group, which presented its program before the Holy Name Society of St. James Catholic church.

A quartette composed of Stan Myers, bass; Don Krebsbach, baritone; Fred Jasper, led and Barney Erickson, tenor, was a feature of the program. The entire program was well-received by the audience.

All men, both young and old, who like to sing are welcome to join this group. Rehearsals are held each Monday evening in Room 206 of the high school. There are 18 members in the chorus at the present time. It is hoped that some day Arlington Heights will be represented by a men's chorus of 100 voices.

New Neighbors .... IN THE CITY OF GOOD NEIGHBORS

Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Meyer
210 E. Orchard St.

The real newcomer in this family is Mrs. Meyer, for Mr. Meyer was raised in Arlington Heights (his mother, Mrs. Emil Meyer, lives on Euclid) but had lived in Barrington in more recent years.

The spacious ranch house in Scarsdale Estates suits this family perfectly for there are three young children, Nancy, who is 4½, James, who will soon be 2, and 10-month-old Christine. The latter, incidentally, is named for two grandparents, a Christine and a Christian.

Mr. Meyer is vice president of the Rotary Seal Co. in Chicago.

When we asked about hobbies, Mrs. Meyer reported that for obvious reasons their current one is their family just about exclusively.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Middleton
635 S. Newbury Place

Mr. and Mrs. Middleton, with their daughter, Nancy, a sophomore in Arlington high, and son, Page, a sixth grader in the Junior high, moved into their new home in Scarsdale in September. Their former home was Winnetka and they looked for a new home in Arlington Heights on the advice of a friend; they found a house they liked, and moved in.

Mr. Middleton is chief engineer of the Zurich General Insurance Co. in Chicago.

A family with varied hobbies, Mr. and Mrs. Middleton share an interest in the arts. They both paint and do sculpture, and Mrs. Middleton won two firsts and three seconds in North Shore Art league contests. Her husband some years ago won first prize in a national photographic contest. Nancy was a member of the cast of "The Sleeping Beauty," given last Sunday by the Village Theatre, Inc.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh E. Bynum
26 S. Ridge ave.

When Hugh Bynum was transferred to Chicago by the Reynolds Metals Co., he and his wife started a search for a house to rent, and they found just what they wanted in Arlington Heights. Now that they live here they have become very fond of the town and consider themselves more than lucky.

The Bynums formerly lived in St. Louis for a short time and before that in Pittsburgh.

Though Mr. Bynum is unaccustomed to commuting trips of much more than 10 minutes, he considers it well worth his time to travel from Arlington Heights into the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss A. Dahl
204 S. Highland ave.

Practically neighbors, the Dahls lived in Prospect Heights before moving here. Mrs. Dahl's parents, the R. S. Whites, live in Stonegate, and that fact combined with the convenience of being within walking distance of stores and transportation were factors contributing to their move.

The Dahl children, Sherry, who will be eight in January, and Tommy, who was just four, are fond of their new home. Mrs. Dahl is already serving as co-leader of Sherry's Brownie troop.

The real hobbiest of this family is Mrs. Dahl, who has done considerable painting and has had several exhibits in Chicago. She gave a talk on ceramics to a high school art class about a year ago. Up until last year she was also a model for Patricia Stevens.

Mr. Dahl, a member of the

Open house to mark 89th birthday of Wilhelmina Nielsen

Community Camera

Mrs. Wilhelmina Nielsen, who was born and raised in Arlington Heights, will mark her eighty-ninth birthday Friday, when relatives and friends are invited to attend an open house at the home of her granddaughter and family, the Carl Klehms.

The Klehms live on the northeast corner of State and Algonquin rds., and the party will be from 3 to 10 p. m.

Other grandchildren who will help her celebrate are Mrs. Jack Bretsnyder, Villa Park; Leonard Bolte, Cincinnati, Ohio; Roland and Wallace Bolte, both of Arlington Heights. Mrs. Nielsen also has seven great grandchildren who will attend the party.

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout Troop 20 of Arlington Heights made a dozen and a half Christmas decorations for the Oak Forest Infirmary. They have 150 trees to decorate this Christmas.

The troop will have a Christmas party at the Gregory's home and Mrs. Archibald will teach the girls to square dance. At this party the troop will also celebrate its birthday.

PIRATES CARRY CLEAN LEAGUE SLATE TO BARRINGTON JAN. 5

Ela, Wauconda win upsets in NW league play; Palatine has close one

by G. A. McELROY

Palatine stayed at the head of the Northwest Conference basketball parade as the holidays brought an end to league cage hostilities this past weekend. The Pirates beat Antioch 51-38 and slipped by a tough Grant team 45-33 to post a 6-0 record as the first half of the schedule near completion with only the Palatine at Barrington game January 5 remaining. The Pirates gained two games on Grant and one on Northbrook with only Barrington a game behind threatening the Palatine championship hopes at the present. It was the Wauconda win over Northbrook by 35-32 Saturday which caused the most joy in the Pirate camp, for the Vikings next to Barrington, were regarded as Palatine's chief rivals for the league title.

Buenzow scores 34 points over weekend

Big six foot seven Don Buenzow began to hit his stride for Palatine the past weekend as he led the attack in both games. His six field goals and six straight free throws for 18 points helped sink Antioch Friday and his 16 points at Grant, nine of which were tallied in the last quarter, aided the Pirates in coming from behind to nip Grant.

Palatine had control of the situation throughout against Antioch as they ran up a 15-5 lead in the first quarter and continued to score consistently with a 31% average from the field and 15 hits in 19 tries from the charity line. The Haviland twins got few good shots against the tall Palatine boys and made but 10 points against them. Sievers scored 11 and Rogers nine along with Buenzow's 18 for Palatine.

Come from behind to beat Grant, 45-43

Saturday night on a road trip to Fox Lake Palatine barely got by the Grant Bulldogs for a 45-43 win. Trailing 8-5 at the quarter and 16-14 at half time the Palatine boys finally got underway as Schrage and Abrahamson paced a rally which gave them a 27-23 margin starting the last quarter. This lead was increased to eight points at one time as Don Buenzow hit consistently but Art Smejkal and Warren Gotthard of Grant came back with a barrage of baskets which almost gave Grant a victory.

Gotthard scored 18, Stob 14, and Smejkal 7 for Grant. Buenzow had 16, Rogers 12, Schrage nine and Abrahamson six for the Pirates. Palatine made 32% from the field with 18 out of 55 while Grant did almost as well with 17 in 59 attempts.

Bisons make strong bid for upset but lose to Bronchos, 43-35

Except for the Palatine-Antioch clash the conference games Friday were nip and tuck battles. Bensenville led Barrington during most of the first half but finally lost out, 43-35.

Dan Osinski scored 17 points and Steve Roake got 14 for the Barrington five which seems to find tough going on the road. Karrigan scored 11 and Anderson 10 for Bensenville in their unsuccessful bid for an upset to outdo that achieved by Northbrook a week ago.

Barrington's 50% record in shots from the field contributed to the Bison defeat. The winners notched 10 of 21 the first half, and eight of 15 the second, including four by Osinski and two by Roake in under the basket. Bensenville, meanwhile, was sinking 13 out of 47 for 28%.

In the frosh-soph contest Heuer led the young Bisons with five buckets and one charity, with Paetz' eight points second. For Barrington Hohlfeder was tops with eight baskets, with Berghorn's 12 scores ranking second.

Rodney leads Northbrook to 51-49 triumph

Northbrook won a 51-49 slam bang game over Grant Friday night. The Bulldogs led during the first half and were on top 28-21 at the intermission. Northbrook won the game in the third quarter when they outscored the visitors 20-10 but the finish was just as close as the Barrington game the previous week.

Dick Rodney had his eye on the basket for the Vikings and poured in 23 points. Art Landwehr scored 14. Warren Gotthard of Grant led his team with 17.

Ela Bears upset Wauconda in story book finish

Ela's Bears found themselves in the final quarter while trailing by 10 points and tossed in enough baskets to upset Wauconda 57-55 in a thriller which was decided on two free throws

Mac Says-

We take this opportunity to wish all of the coaches, players, fans, and readers of the Paddock sport page a very happy and enjoyable holiday season. We also wish all of you a prosperous and successful New Year. We cannot all be winners all of the time in sports or anything else, but we can be good winners and good losers as the occasion demands.

Cards can redeem themselves by victory at Palatine

Some fans say that Arlington is just waiting for Palatine to notch their first victory and that is just what could happen tonight (Wednesday). The Cardinals are hungry for a victory and there have been so many upsets in the long Arlington-Palatine series that anything could happen. Arlington lost to Geneva, St. Edwards of Elgin, Crystal Lake, Downers Grove, Leyden, and Niles but we will bet that more Arlington fans come to Palatine to see the game this week than the number from Palatine who will turn out to see their Northwest Conference leaders in action. Attendance by adults at Palatine's home games this year has been unusually poor in view of the number of games the team is winning.

Winning combination broken for Arlington game

Coach Stutsman's Pirates will have their winning combination broken up this week by the loss of six foot three Dick Abrahamson, sophomore forward, who is under a physician's care with blistered feet. It is hoped that Dick will be ready for action in the DeKalb tournament when Palatine clashes with Leyden next Wednesday night.

Nolan must maintain 19 point average to crack league mark

Bob Nolan, the Wauconda basket shooting wizard, is scoring at a terrific pace, 19 2/3 points a game to be exact, but he still will have a tough time breaking the league record of 264 points chalked up by Bob Thollander of Bensenville in 1947. To break this mark Nolan must average 19 points a game giving him a 266 total for the 14 league contests. This will be hard to do unless the big Wauconda star can have a few big nights of 25 to 30 points for there are going to be some lean ones when opponents gang up on him.

Nolan is a marked man the rest of the way. Honestly, we hope he breaks the record. He is a fine athlete and the type of boy who is a credit to high school sports. We hope that his athletic success does not turn his head as it has some others, for he is only a junior with another year before going to college.

Morton High rated by many as number one in Illinois

To all appearances Morton High of Cicero, the largest high school in Illinois, has the best basketball team or close to the best this year. Certainly Morton has shown the best stuff in this area, whipping Suburban League opponents by lopsided scores with a team which last year was undefeated in that fast conference.

LaGrange of the West Suburban has given notice that they are likely champs. Argo, with their big center, Grant, scoring at a phenomenal clip has a good chance in the South Suburban. Dundee as usual is the class of the Little Seven. Freeport is being touted over the state as a state tournament repeater with a veteran team which should dominate the Big Eight. Reports are that Chicago does not have a single top flight cage team in the public high schools.

In the North Suburban it is a toss up much as in football with Lake Forest and Woodstock at the moment on our list as leading contenders. Here in the Northwest it is Barrington and Palatine, take your choice.

Mt. Vernon winning streak stopped at 46

On top of the news that Barrington's winning streak of 25 games in the Northwest Conference had ended in a 62-60 defeat at Northbrook comes word of the end of a much longer and more famous streak. Mt. Vernon, state champ last year, had a victory string of 46 in a row before Centralia nipped them, 38-36. They had hoped to top the state record of 48 in a row set by Taylorville in 1943-44-45 under Dolph Stanley who is now coach of Beloit college, Midwest Conference champ.

Leyden best bet from area in holiday tournaments

The DeKalb tournament next week looks just like a one game affair for Arlington Heights, Niles, and Palatine. Leyden might go quite a way but on the other hand it is not out of the realm of possibility that they might lose to Palatine in their opener. They beat Palatine 51-44 at Leyden two weeks ago but that was the only game this season the Pirates were off on their free throwing. Palatine has hit about 70% from the charity line in their first nine games.

Snake Charmer

A snake charmer could play his music instrument like an angel, but he would not get a rise out of the snake if he did not have rhythm. Snakes have no external ears, and cannot hear sound waves in the air; they react only to the charmer's "swing and sway."

Evans sinks this for Arlington

Evans (22) of Arlington leaps up for a basket in Friday's game with Leyden. In the foreground is Clark of Heights. In the background is Vawter (21) of Arlington while under the basket for Leyden, 40-29 winners, are Sorenson (15) and Uvelli (32).

Heights frosh set record 64 points vs Lakers

Arlington Heights high school frosh cage squad added two more scalps to their belt over the week end, providing a hint to the athletic future of the local school in 1952. The yearlings outpointed Leyden, 35-29 Friday afternoon and rolled over Crystal Lake Monday, 64-30.

Those 64 points for the frosh in four seven minute quarters is believed to be a new record for Arlington, aiding Coach Jim Thon's scrappy five in compiling a 3-1 slate thus far this year.

Eleven boys played for Heights in the Lakers' game, nine of them scoring. Turner with 23 was tops, while others followed: Winterbauer 17, Hauff 11, Thomas 4, Ryden 2, Frisk 2, Hinton 2, Bjorkland 2, and Dotts 1. Dick Harting and Mike Shanklin also played.

FOR CRYSTAL LAKE it was Novotny's ten scores which led the losers. Edwards had 9, Parrish 5, Kruse 3, Reading 2, Otto 1.

Score at quarters:

Arlington	11	29	44	64
Crystal Lake	7	17	25	30

Arlington's lone victory against Leyden in the tripleheader Friday. Point makers for Arlington were Dick Winterbauer 9, Bob Turner 9, Dave Ryden 8, Roger Thomas 5, Bob Dotts 3, Dick Hauff 1. Others who saw action for the Cardinals were Bob Fasick, Jack Sieburg, John Milnamow and Jim Hinton.

HEIGHTS GRABBED a 14-4 lead the opening frame, and were never headed thereafter. For Coach Boelter of Leyden scoring was divided between seven boys: Malpones 10, Miller 7, Scardino 4, Opland 3, DeLong 3, Roberts 1, Krupka 1.

Score at quarters:

Arlington	14	23	29	35
Leyden	4	12	17	29

Next freshman contest for the Arlington frosh is the opener of a "quad-header" between Niles and Heights Friday, January 5.

Two bowlers join 250 club at Palatine

200 games are a dime a dozen in the Palatine House league at Meier & Helms Recreation and 250 scores were almost as easy Friday night.

It seems just a week ago that Palatine's Jerry Dean collected $50 for his 258 game after shooting a 226 opener. His 661 series was tops for that night.

But last Friday night, December 15, going into the last frame, four bowlers had chances to reach the 250 figure. Two of them did and collected from the rest of the league.

Top man was Joe Hartman of Palatine with 157-262-172 for a 591 series. Other winner was Fred Kehe of Arlington Heights with 150-253-159 and a 562 series. Two others who just missed the magic figure were George Beyer with 242 and Harry Beyer with 247. Both are from Palatine.

Palatine frosh win

Palatine freshmen won their first game in three starts Tuesday at home with a 26-24 win over Ela-Vernon. Palatine led 15-10 at half time but barely pulled out the winner in the final minute as Peter Abramson broke the tie with a drive in shot. Tinker Meyer led both teams in scoring with 12 points for Palatine while Abramson got six and Kolze five. Valenti had seven, Fenner six, and Chaffin five for the Ela team.

Arlington and Bensenville to open play in two holiday tournaments

by BOB PADDOCK

Christmas time is holiday tournament time for most high schools in Illinois and the Chicago suburban area is certainly no exception. Schools in this area are competing in four different tourneys, though the McHenry county meet will be over by the time this paper reaches the streets.

Palatine, Arlington Heights, Bensenville and Leyden are all competing in extra games next week but only Leyden has much chance to gain anything more than experience.

FOR BENSENVILLE it will be Proviso in the first round of the 16-team holiday tournament at Hinsdale. Coach Frank Navotney's Bisons open the lid on the post-Christmas play at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Just who is favored among those 16 schools is hard to tell. Argo, tied for the South Suburban league lead, is perhaps strongest along with Elgin, while Proviso and Evanston rank close to the top from the Suburban league.

The tournament is a well-balanced affair with no real standout team playing in Hinsdale's new 4500-seat gymnasium.

PALATINE AND Arlington are going to DeKalb strictly for the ride. The Heights-DeKalb fracas opens competition Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 with Palatine meeting Leyden at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Here again it is hard to pick a favorite, unless it would be Thornton or Rock Island. They're in opposite brackets with the lower one rated toughest. Winner of the West Aurora-Glenbard game and Leyden rate, possibly, third and fourth in the group.

Tickets for the Arlington-DeKalb game are now on sale at the high school office until Friday at 4 p.m. Athletic director Wally Grace will then have them in his pocket until Tuesday at 10:30 a.m.

Prices for the seats, all reserved, are 80c for adults, and 50c for students. Games will be played at the college gymnasium. Trophies will be awarded to first and second place teams.

DeKALB HAS two seniors and three juniors on their squad, with only one boy under six feet. Juniors Frank Hoffman, 6' 175 lbs., and Bob Bolen, 6'4" 205 lbs., will be at the forward positions.

Center is senior Jack Carpenter, 6'3½" 180 lbs. The two guard positions are manned by senior Jim Elliott 6'1¼" 200 lbs., and junior Jim Vaughn, 5'11" 179 lbs. Elliott and Carpenter are lettermen from last year's team that took second in the host school meet.

DeKalb AM radio station WLBK will carry the daytime games at 1360 on the dial.

Additional interest at the tournament is always provided through the granting of a sportsmanship trophy to the team and fans showing the best sportsmanship in the tourney. Arlington won the trophy two years ago.

LAKE FOREST rates the favorite in the Grayslake eight team holiday tournament scheduled to open Tuesday night December 27. The Scouts appear to have a made to order pairing meeting Antioch in the first round and either Ela or Warren, both of whom are below par, in the semi-finals.

Chief rivals of Lake Forest for the championship appear to be Grant and Libertyville but one will be eliminated in the opening game when the draw pairs them together. Wauconda, a tournament dark horse, meets the host school Grayslake in the other upper bracket first round game.

UP AT McHENRY the county tourney ended Wednesday night with Hebron meeting Crystal Lake for the championship. Hebron whipped Woodstock and Marengo to reach the finals while Crystal Lake topped McHenry and Harvard.

Larsen quits as Arlington football coach

Coach Curtis Larsen has given up his head football coaching job at Arlington Heights high school, it was revealed this week by athletic director Wally Grace. Larsen, who has been mentoring the varsity four years, will be assigned to the freshman squad in 1951.

Grace stated that Larsen had asked for a transfer of duties in order to allow more time for him to devote to his teaching subjects. Larsen, at the present time, is teaching five classes in the Industrial Arts (mechanical and architectural drawing), in addition to serving as varsity coach. He also stated that the time required for varsity coaching tends to cause him to lessen his efforts on his classroom teaching and that the latter was his first interest.

E. E. "Bus" Ormsbee, assistant to Larsen for the past two years will handle the varsity squad next year. Ormsbee's assistant will not be named until a suitable applicant is found.

LARSEN'S RECORD for the past four years as varsity coach includes seventeen wins, fourteen losses and one tie. Grace stated that Larsen was one of the most popular coaches in the school and that the varsity's loss would be the freshmen's gain. Larsen will be assisted by George Torhan, present freshman coach and varsity wrestling coach.

Plans include the addition of coaches so that the freshman and sophomore teams will each have a head coach with an assistant and the varsity will have one or two assistants.

'5 Yard McCarthy' dies at Arlington Hts. home

Services for Austin McCarty, football great of the University of Chicago, were held Wednesday from Lauterburg and Oehler Arlington Heights chapel.

Living at 634 S. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, McCarty died Sunday night.

McCarty, affectionately dubbed "5 Yard McCarthy," earned that monicer in the Chicago-Illinois game in 1924 when the Illini tied the Maroons, 21-21, with the one and only Red Grange scoring three TDs.

Chicago was having another great year that season, eventually winning the conference title with three wins, three ties. In the crucial Illinois game McCarty gained so much yardage he was called "five yard McCarthy" from then on. Typesetters across the nation always inserted the "h" in his name.

Against Wisconsin, perennially a poor last in the Big Ten, McCarty played just five minutes with cracked ribs, then had to leave the contest. The Badgers went on to a scoreless tie against Chicago.

McCarty was a standout halfback at Hyde Park high school in Chicago before being switched to fullback at Chicago university. He competed on the gridiron for the Maroons in 1923-4-5.

New owners of Mt. Prospect Country club

Henry, Robert and Kenneth Sophie are the new owners of Mt. Prospect country club, effective January 1, it was learned this week.

The father of the family, Henry, purchased the property just recently, and will manage the course with its varied activities with the help of his sons Robert and Kenneth.

The Sophies have gained experience for the country club through operation of a restaurant and tavern in Chicago. Kenneth will join his brother and dad in the business as soon as he graduates from law school in the near future.

PIRATES CARRY CLEAN LEAGUE SLATE TO BARRINGTON JAN. 5

Ela, Wauconda win upsets in NW league play; Palatine has close one

by G. A. McELROY

Palatine stayed at the head of the Northwest Conference basketball parade as the holidays brought an end to league cage hostilities this past weekend. The Pirates beat Antioch 51-36 and slipped by a tough Grant team 45-33 to post a 6-0 record as the first half of the schedule near completion with only the Palatine at Barrington game January 5 remaining. The Pirates gained two games on Grant and one on Northbrook with only Barrington a game behind threatening the Palatine championship hopes at the present. It was the Wauconda win over Northbrook by 35-32 Saturday which caused the most joy in the Pirate camp, for the Vikings next to Barrington, were regarded as Palatine's chief rivals for the league title.

Buenzow scores 34 points over weekend

Big six foot seven Don Buenzow began to hit his stride for Palatine the past weekend as he led the attack in both games. His six field goals and six straight free throws for 18 points helped sink Antioch Friday and his 16 points at Grant, nine of which were tallied in the last quarter, aided the Pirates in coming from behind to nip Grant.

Palatine had control of the situation throughout against Antioch as they ran up a 15-5 lead in the first quarter and continued to score consistently with a 31% average from the field and 15 hits in 19 tries from the charity line. The Haviland twins got few good shots against the tall Palatine boys and made but 10 points against them. Sievers scored 11 and Rogers nine along with Buenzow's 18 for Palatine.

Come from behind to beat Grant, 45-43

Saturday night on a road trip to Fox Lake Palatine barely got by the Grant Bulldogs for a 45-43 win. Trailing 8-5 at the quarter and 16-14 at half time the Palatine boys finally got underway as Schrage and Abrahamson paced a rally which gave them a 27-23 margin starting the last quarter. This lead was increased to eight points at one time as Don Buenzow hit consistently but Art Smejkal and Warren Gotthard of Grant came back with a barrage of baskets which almost gave Grant a victory.

Gotthard scored 18, Stob 14, and Smejkal 7 for Grant. Buenzow had 16, Rogers 12, Schrage nine and Abrahamson six for the Pirates. Palatine made 32% from the field with 18 out of 55 while Grant did almost as well with 17 in 59 attempts.

Bisons make strong bid for upset but lose to Bronchos, 43-35

Except for the Palatine-Antioch clash the conference games Friday were nip and tuck battles. Bensenville led Barrington during most of the first half but finally lost out, 43-35.

Dan Osinski scored 17 points and Steve Roake got 14 for the Barrington five which seems to find tough going on the road. Karrigan scored 11 and Anderson 10 for Bensenville in their unsuccessful bid for an upset to outdo that achieved by Northbrook a week ago.

Barrington's 50% record in shots from the field contributed to the Bison defeat. The winners notched 10 of 21 the first half, and eight of 15 the second, including four by Osinski and two by Roake in under the basket. Bensenville, meanwhile, was sinking 13 out of 47 for 28%.

In the frosh-soph contest Heuer led the young Bisons with five buckets and one charity, with Paetz' eight points second. For Barrington Hohlfeder was tops with eight baskets, with Berghorn's 12 scores ranking second.

Rodney leads Northbrook to 51-49 triumph

Northbrook won a 51-49 slam bang game over Grant Friday night. The Bulldogs led during the first half and were on top 28-21 at the intermission. Northbrook won the game in the third quarter when they outscored the visitors 20-10 but the finish was just as close as the Barrington game the previous week.

Dick Rodney had his eye on the basket for the Vikings and poured in 23 points. Art Landwehr scored 14. Warren Gotthard of Grant led his team with 17.

Ela Bears upset Wauconda in story book finish

Ela's Bears found themselves in the final quarter while trailing by 10 points and tossed in enough baskets to upset Wauconda 57-55 in a thriller which was decided on two free throws

Mac Says-

We take this opportunity to wish all of the coaches, players, fans, and readers of the Paddock sport page a very happy and enjoyable holiday season. We also wish all of you a prosperous and successful New Year. We cannot all be winners all of the time in sports or anything else, but we can be good winners and good losers as the occasion demands.

Cards can redeem themselves by victory at Palatine

Some fans say that Arlington is just waiting for Palatine to notch their first victory and that is just what could happen tonight (Wednesday). The Cardinals are hungry for a victory and there have been so many upsets in the long Arlington-Palatine series that anything could happen. Arlington lost to Geneva, St. Edwards of Elgin, Crystal Lake, Downers Grove, Leyden, and Niles but we will bet that more Arlington fans come to Palatine to see the game this week than the number from Palatine who will turn out to see their Northwest Conference leaders in action. Attendance by adults at Palatine's home games this year has been unusually poor in view of the number of games the team is winning.

Winning combination broken for Arlington game

Coach Stutzman's Pirates will have their winning combination broken up this week by the loss of six foot three Dick Abrahamson, sophomore forward, who is under a physician's care with blistered feet. It is hoped that Dick will be ready for action in the DeKalb tournament when Palatine clashes with Leyden next Wednesday night.

Nolan must maintain 19 point average to crack league mark

Bob Nolan, the Wauconda basket shooting wizard, is scoring at a terrific pace, 19 2/3 points a game to be exact, but he still will have a tough time breaking the league record of 264 points chalked up by Bob Thollander of Bensenville in 1947. To break this mark Nolan must average 19 points a game giving him a 266 total for the 14 league contests. This will be hard to do unless the big Wauconda star can have a few big nights of 25 to 30 points for there are going to be some lean ones when opponents gang up on him.

Nolan is a marked man the rest of the way. Honestly, we hope he breaks the record. He is a fine athlete and the type of boy who is a credit to high school sports. We hope that his athletic success does not turn his head as it has some others, for he is only a junior with another year before going to college.

Morton High rated by many as number one in Illinois

To all appearances Morton High of Cicero, the largest high school in Illinois, has the best basketball team or close to the best this year. Certainly Morton has shown the best stuff in this area, whipping Suburban League opponents by lopsided scores with a team which last year was undefeated in that fast conference.

LaGrange of the West Suburban has given notice that they are likely champs. Argo, with their big center, Grant, scoring at a phenomenal clip has a good chance in the South Suburban. Dundee as usual is the class of the Little Seven. Freeport is being touted over the state as a state tournament repeater with a veteran team which should dominate the Big Eight. Reports are that Chicago does not have a single top flight cage team in the public high schools.

In the North Suburban it is a toss up much as in football with Lake Forest and Woodstock at the moment on our list as leading contenders. Here in the Northwest it is Barrington and Palatine, take your choice.

Mt. Vernon winning streak stopped at 46

On top of the news that Barrington's winning streak of 25 games in the Northwest Conference had ended in a 62-60 defeat at Northbrook comes word of the end of a much longer and more famous streak. Mt. Vernon, state champ last year, had a victory string of 46 in a row before Centralia nipped them, 38-36. They had hoped to top the state record of 48 in a row set by Taylorville in 1943-44-45 under Dolph Stanley who is now coach of Beloit college, Midwest Conference champ.

Leyden best bet from area in holiday tournaments

The DeKalb tournament next week looks just like a one game affair for Arlington Heights, Niles, and Palatine. Leyden might go quite a way but on the other hand it is not out of the realm of possibility that they might lose to Palatine in their opener. They beat Palatine 51-44 at Leyden two weeks ago but that was the only game this season the Pirates were off on their free throwing. Palatine has hit about 70% from the charity line in their first nine games.

Snake Charmer

A snake charmer could play his music instrument like an angel, but he would not get a rise out of the snake if he did not have rhythm. Snakes have no external ears, and cannot hear sound waves in the air; they react only to the charmer's "swing and sway."

Evans (22) of Arlington leaps up for a basket in Friday's game with Leyden. In the foreground is Clark of Heights. In the background is Vawter (21) of Arlington while under the basket for Leyden, 40-29 winners, are Sorenson (15) and Uvelli (32).

Heights frosh set record 64 points vs Lakers

Arlington Heights high school frosh cage squad added two more scalps to their belt over the week end, providing a hint to the athletic future of the local school in 1952. The yearlings outpointed Leyden, 35-29 Friday afternoon and rolled over Crystal Lake Monday, 64-30.

Those 64 points for the frosh in four seven minute quarters is believed to be a new record for Arlington, aiding Coach Jim Thon's scrappy five in compiling a 3-1 slate thus far this year.

Eleven boys played for Heights in the Lakers' game, nine of them scoring. Turner with 23 was tops, while others followed: Winterbauer 17, Hauff 11, Thomas 4, Ryden 2, Frisk 2, Hinton 2, Bjorkland 2, and Dotts 1. Dick Harting and Mike Shanklin also played.

FOR CRYSTAL LAKE it was Novotny's ten scores which led the losers. Edwards had 9, Parrish 5, Kruse 3, Reading 2, Otto 1.

Score at quarters:

Arlington	11	29	44	64
Crystal Lake	7	17	25	30

Arlington's lone victory against Leyden in the tripleheader Friday. Point makers for Arlington were Dick Winterbauer 9, Bob Turner 9, Dave Ryden 8, Roger Thomas 5, Bob Dotts 3, Dick Hauff 1. Others who saw action for the Cardinals were Bob Fasick, Jack Sieburg, John Milnamow and Jim Hinton.

HEIGHTS GRABBED a 14-4 lead the opening frame, and were never headed thereafter. For Coach Boelter of Leyden scoring was divided between seven boys: Malpones 10, Miller 7, Scardino 4, Opland 3, DeLong 3, Roberts 1, Krupka 1.

Score at quarters:

Arlington	14	23	29	35
Leyden	4	12	17	29

Next freshman contest for the Arlington frosh is the opener of a "quad-header" between Niles and Heights Friday, January 5.

Two bowlers join 250 club at Palatine

200 games are a dime a dozen in the Palatine House league at Meier & Helms Recreation and 250 scores were almost as easy Friday night.

It seems just a week ago that Palatine's Jerry Dean collected $50 for his 258 game after shooting a 226 opener. His 661 series was tops for that night.

But last Friday night, December 15, going into the last frame, four bowlers had chances to reach the 250 figure. Two of them did and collected from the rest of the league.

Top man was Joe Hartman of Palatine with 157-262-172 for a 591 series. Other winner was Fred Kehe of Arlington Heights with 150-253-159 and a 562 series. Two others who just missed the magic figure were George Beyer with 242 and Harry Beyer with 247. Both are from Palatine.

Palatine frosh win

Palatine freshmen won their first game in three starts Tuesday at home with a 26-24 win over Ela-Vernon. Palatine led 15-10 at half time but barely pulled out the winner in the final minute as Peter Abramson broke the tie with a drive in shot. Tinker Meyer led both teams in scoring with 12 points for Palatine while Abramson got six and Kolze five. Valenti had seven, Fenner six, and Chaffin five for the Ela team.

Arlington and Bensenville to open play in two holiday tournaments

by BOB PADDOCK

Christmas time is holiday tournament time for most high schools in Illinois and the Chicago suburban area is certainly no exception. Schools in this area are competing in four different tourneys, though the McHenry county meet will be over by the time this paper reaches the streets.

Palatine, Arlington Heights, Bensenville and Leyden are all competing in extra games next week but only Leyden has much chance to gain anything more than experience.

FOR BENSENVILLE it will be Proviso in the first round of the 16-team holiday tournament at Hinsdale. Coach Frank Navotney's Bisons open the lid on the post-Christmas play at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Just who is favored among those 16 schools is hard to tell. Argo, tied for the South Suburban league lead, is perhaps strongest along with Elgin, while Proviso and Evanston rank close to the top from the Suburban league.

The tournament is a well-balanced affair with no real standout team playing in Hinsdale's new 4500-seat gymnasium.

PALATINE AND Arlington are going to DeKalb strictly for the ride. The Heights-DeKalb fracas opens competition Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 with Palatine meeting Leyden at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Here again it is hard to pick a favorite, unless it would be Thornton or Rock Island. They're in opposite brackets with the lower one rated toughest. Winner of the West Aurora-Glenbard game and Leyden rate, possibly, third and fourth in the group.

Tickets for the Arlington-DeKalb game are now on sale at the high school office until Friday at 4 p.m. Athletic director Wally Grace will then have them in his pocket until Tuesday at 10:30 a.m.

Prices for the seats, all reserved, are 80c for adults, and 50c for students. Games will be played at the college gymnasium. Trophies will be awarded to first and second place teams.

DeKALB HAS two seniors and three juniors on their squad, with only one boy under six feet. Juniors Frank Hoffman, 6' 175 lbs., and Bob Bolen, 6'4" 205 lbs., will be at the forward positions.

Center is senior Jack Carpenter, 6'3½" 180 lbs. The two guard positions are manned by senior Jim Elliott 6'1¼" 200 lbs., and junior Jim Vaughn, 5'11" 179 lbs. Elliott and Carpenter are lettermen from last year's team that took second in the host school meet.

DeKalb AM radio station WLBK will carry the daytime games at 1360 on the dial.

Additional interest at the tournament is always provided through the granting of a sportsmanship trophy to the team and fans showing the best sportsmanship in the tourney. Arlington won the trophy two years ago.

LAKE FOREST rates the favorite in the Grayslake eight team holiday tournament scheduled to open Tuesday night December 27. The Scouts appear to have a made to order pairing meeting Antioch in the first round and either Ela or Warren, both of whom are below par, in the semi-finals.

Chief rivals of Lake Forest for the championship appear to be Grant and Libertyville but one will be eliminated in the opening game when the draw pairs them together. Wauconda, a tournament dark horse, meets the host school Grayslake in the other upper bracket first round game.

UP AT McHENRY the county tourney ended Wednesday night with Hebron meeting Crystal Lake for the championship. Hebron whipped Woodstock and Marengo to reach the finals while Crystal Lake topped McHenry and Harvard.

Larsen quits as Arlington football coach

Coach Curtis Larsen has given up his head football coaching job at Arlington Heights high school, it was revealed this week by athletic director Wally Grace. Larsen, who has been mentoring the varsity four years, will be assigned to the freshman squad in 1951.

Grace stated that Larsen had asked for a transfer of duties in order to allow more time for him to devote to his teaching subjects. Larsen, at the present time, is teaching five classes in the Industrial Arts (mechanical and architectural drawing), in addition to serving as varsity coach. He also stated that the time required for varsity coaching tends to cause him to lessen his efforts on his classroom teaching and that the latter was his first interest.

E. E. "Bus" Ormsbee, assistant to Larsen for the past two years will handle the varsity squad next year. Ormsbee's assistant will not be named until a suitable applicant is found.

LARSEN'S RECORD for the past four years as varsity coach includes seventeen wins, fourteen losses and one tie. Grace stated that Larsen was one of the most popular coaches in the school and that the varsity's loss would be the freshmen's gain. Larsen will be assisted by George Torhan, present freshman coach and varsity wrestling coach.

Plans include the addition of coaches so that the freshman and sophomore teams will each have a head coach with an assistant and the varsity will have one or two assistants.

'5 Yard McCarthy' dies at Arlington Hts. home

Services for Austin McCarty, football great of the University of Chicago, were held Wednesday from Lauterburg and Oehler Arlington Heights chapel.

Living at 634 S. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, McCarty died Sunday night.

Niles cops 41-36 victory over Arlington in hard fought game

by RON PRELLBERG

Arlington continued its defeat-laden cage campaign Saturday night on the Nilehi Trojan hardwood where the local varsity gave way to their second loss of the double week end in four quarters of the tightly fought ball, 41-36. This Trojan-Cardinal struggle constituted the sixth loss suffered by the locals from the time of their debut at Geneva.

It was in the seventh encounter, however, of the Arlington grid season that the Cardinals finally turned the tide after six straight losses, thus the local quintet will be striving desperately to redeem their situation in their seventh tilt against Palatine this Wednesday night for the Sleigh Bell Trophy.

A CLOSE RACE took place between Bob Evans of Arlington and Ken Howard of Niles for the individual scoring crown, but at the final whistle Howard of Niles had eeked out a 1 point decision over Evans by racking up 17 counters in comparison to Evans' 16. Jay Vawter was awarded number two position in the tallying department for the locals with seven markers, while Dick Nock did likewise for his Trojan mates by notching 7 tallies.

The Cards found a definite handicap awaiting them in the foul department, when the officials favored the Trojans with 27 attempts at the charity line and Arlington only 17, but the Red Birds' deciding fault lay in the claiming of but a few offensive rebounds.

The red and white of Heights found itself a 2-point underdog as the first period tallies were posted, 11-9, but the locals equaled the Niles second frame total of 11 counters to go into the half time intermission just the same two markers in back. 22-20. Evans, Clark, and Vawter took over the majority of the Cardinal scoring chores in the first half, leaving the defensive responsibilities to Fasick, Baker, and Roche.

THE TENDENCY of the Cards to slip when they enter the final half again took effect and at the termination of the third period, Niles had constructed a four point difference for the locals to overcome before the final buzzer, 33-29. An 8-7 fourth segment favoring the Niles five proved fatal to the Cardinals.

A 40-31 slashing handed the local frosh-sophs in a preliminary encounter by Niles kept the Arlington record from showing any signs of improvement. The loss of Dick McAuliffe and Tom Theis for the majority of the season has already begun to show its effects in the locals' bid for victory, although Jim Whitelaw, substituting pivot man for Arlington, has shown promise in attempting to fill the vacant position.

Niles' deceptive ball handling and field attempts kept the locals on the run through the duration of the opening two periods as the young Trojans posted a 9-8 first period and claimed a 17-13 margin at the end of the second. Marshall Dahlstrom, Tom Bowersox, and Johnny Eakins combined their efforts to pour in ten markers for Heights in the third frame, and as a result cut the Nilehi third period lead to a loan marker, 24-23.

The determined Cardinal cagers knotted it up early in the final segment but five swift successful field goals by Connie Bartels of Niles aided his mates in forcing the Cards to a 40-31 loss.

Palatine frosh-sophs split over weekend

Palatine's frosh-sophs split even in conference games played the past week end. Coach Claude Bailey's five dropped a 32-23 decision at home to Antioch Friday and then picked up their first win of the season Saturday in a 37-21 victory at Grant.

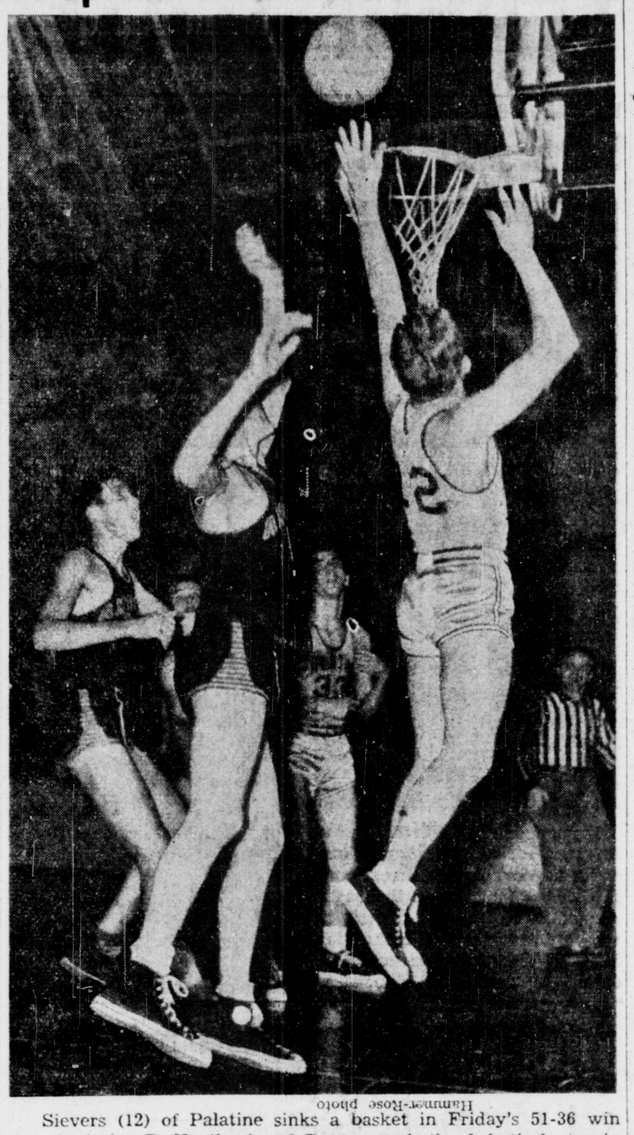

Poor shooting both from the field and especially at the free throw line kept Palatine on the losing end of the Antioch game. The Pirates made but five out of 23 free throws and nine out of 38 from the field. Meanwhile Antioch made over 40% of their field shots with 14 out of 32. Stahmer with 12 points and Floyd with eight were top Antioch scorers. Briggs got half Palatine's points with 12.

Saturday night the shooting improved as Palatine won their first in six league starts. Evan Urhammer hit five out of 12 field shots and got two free throws for 12 points and five others broke into the scoring column. Palatine led 23-15 at half time. Lambert led Grant with 12 points. It was the sixth straight loss for Grant.

It's up and in for Sievers and Palatine

Sievers (12) of Palatine sinks a basket in Friday's 51-36 win over Antioch. B. Haviland and Pregenzer, both of Antioch, try in vain to stop the points, but Palatine went on to victory. Others on the scene for Palatine are: Buenzow (44) ,Abrahamson (33).

Ela upsets —

by Cuscaden in the last second of play. It was Ela's first victory.

Wauconda had a 46-38 lead going into the final quarter. Leading scorers were Cuscaden of Ela and Nolan of Wauconda, both of whom tallied 20 points.

High scoring Vikings dropped by Wauconda

Saturday night Wauconda bounced back from a disappointing finish at Ela, where they were upset, to whip strong Northbrook 35-32 in a surprise victory. Bob Nolan who has averaged better than 20 points dropped off to 11 but his team mates came through with Steiner getting 10 and Gers eight for a team proposition for a change, which paid off. Earlier games had found Nolan having to carry the scoring load as his team mates failed to hit the loop.

A big third period overcame a Northbrook half time lead of 21-19 but put Wauconda on the long end of a 31-23 lead which they were able to hold. Northbrook's high scorers Rodney and Landwehr were off on point production getting but 12 points between them.

Bisons lose two

Antioch's Indians beat Bensenville in both games Saturday on the Lake County court as the varsity won, 41-29, and the frosh-sophs took a 30-24 decision. The Bisons were off their scoring form and fell behind, 20-8, at the half before Antioch's smooth floor play. Antioch had their own way throughout with scoring so evenly divided that Tom and Bob Haviland were high with nine and eight points respectively. Palm's seven was tops for the Bisons who suffered a real scoring decline.

Poor shooting by both squads prevailed in the varsity encounter with Antioch sinking 13 of 52 from the field for 25%, while Bensenville sank but nine of 46 for just under 20%. A cold bus trip to Antioch, including a stop for a frozen gas line at Wheeling, didn't help Coach Navotney's five.

Palatine frosh-sophs split over weekend

Palatine's frosh-sophs split even in conference games played the past week end. Coach Claude Bailey's five dropped a 32-23 decision at home to Antioch Friday and then picked up their first win of the season Saturday in a 37-21 victory at Grant.

Poor shooting both from the field and especially at the free throw line kept Palatine on the losing end of the Antioch game. The Pirates made but five out of 23 free throws and nine out of 38 from the field. Meanwhile Antioch made over 40% of their field shots with 14 out of 32. Stahmer with 12 points and Floyd with eight were top Antioch scorers. Briggs got half Palatine's points with 12.

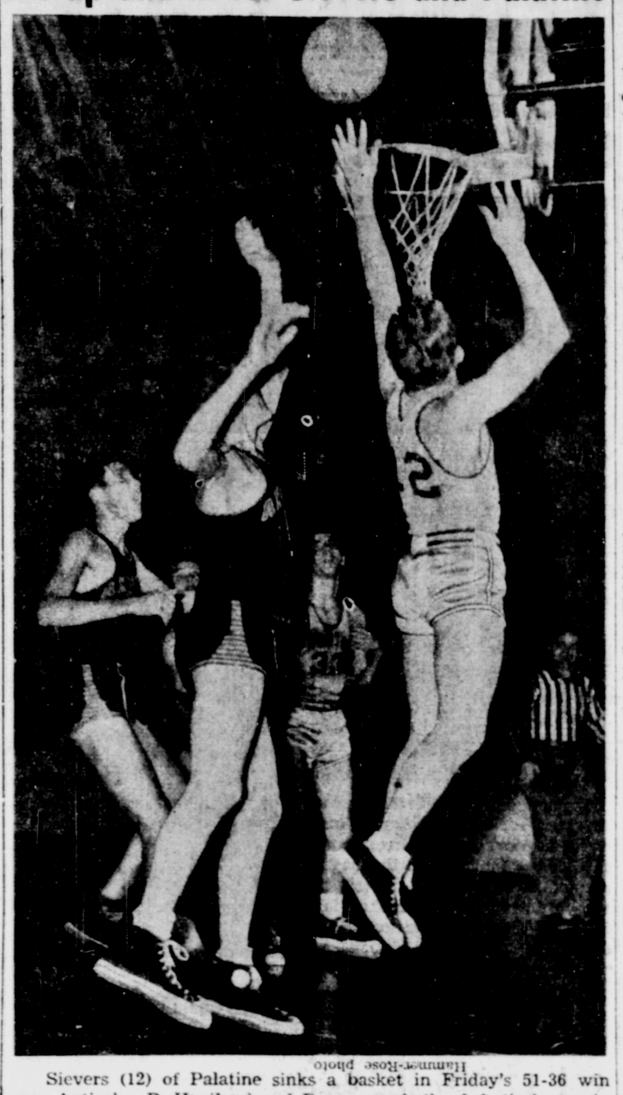

Saturday night the shooting improved as Palatine won their first in six league starts. Evan Urhammer hit five out of 12 field shots and got two free throws for 12 points and five others broke into the scoring column. Palatine led 23-15 at half time. Lambert led Grant with 12 points. It was the sixth straight loss for Grant.

Sievers (12) of Palatine sinks a basket in Friday's 51-36 win over Antioch. B. Haviland and Pregenzer, both of Antioch, try in vain to stop the points, but Palatine went on to victory. Others on the scene for Palatine are: Buenzow (44) ,Abrahamson (33).

The purpose of structural grades of lumber is to offer means for selecting structural material with an assured minimum of strength, in order that appropriate working stresses may be assigned for its use.

by Cuscaden in the last second of play. It was Ela's first victory.

Wauconda had a 46-38 lead going into the final quarter. Leading scorers were Cuscaden of Ela and Nolan of Wauconda, both of whom tallied 20 points.

High scoring Vikings dropped by Wauconda

Saturday night Wauconda bounced back from a disappointing finish at Ela, where they were upset, to whip strong Northbrook 35-32 in a surprise victory. Bob Nolan who has averaged better than 20 points dropped off to 11 but his team mates came through with Steiner getting 10 and Gers eight for a team proposition for a change, which paid off. Earlier games had found Nolan having to carry the scoring load as his team mates failed to hit the loop.

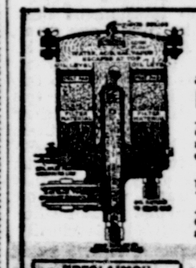

A big third period overcame a Northbrook half time lead of 21-19 but put Wauconda on the long end of a 31-23 lead which they were able to hold. Northbrook's high scorers Rodney and Landwehr were off on point production getting but 12 points between them.

Bisons lose two

Antioch's Indians beat Bensenville in both games Saturday on the Lake County court as the varsity won, 41-29, and the frosh-sophs took a 30-24 decision. The Bisons were off their scoring form and fell behind, 20-8, at the half before Antioch's smooth floor play. Antioch had their own way throughout with scoring so evenly divided that Tom and Bob Haviland were high with nine and eight points respectively. Palm's seven was tops for the Bisons who suffered a real scoring decline.

Poor shooting by both squads prevailed in the varsity encounter with Antioch sinking 13 of 52 from the field for 25%, while Bensenville sank but nine of 46 for just under 20%. A cold bus trip to Antioch, including a stop for a frozen gas line at Wheeling, didn't help Coach Navotney's five.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Arlington falls to Leyden power twice, 40-29, 49-31

by RON PRELLBERG

The Arlington Cardinal varsity quintet took another smashing defeat on the chin Friday night as the Leyden Eagles poured 40 counters through the hoop to subdue the Arlingtonites, 40-29.

Only eight field attempts found their mark for our Cardinal five throughout the entire four periods of play, but because the locals are at low ebb in the shooting department, the team which faces the Cards on their hot night are in for a terrific trouncing. The .500 mark was finally broken by the locals in their free thrown department when the Red Birds netted 13 out of 20 tosses.

A definite lack of aggressiveness has imbedded itself within a few Arlingtonites and with this attitude the effective Oklahoma A&M screening system and expert coaching tips of Cardinal mentor Gene Bell cannot be thrown into effect. The Arlington defense also is falling short of expectations as indicated when the Leydenites outcountered the Cardinals in the second, third, and final segments, 13-8, 10-8, and 10-6 respectively.

JACK CLARK, Arlington's stellar forward, started the show for the evening by faking and driving his way to a set up and two points. A see-saw battle took place the succeeding minutes of play and at the termination of the opening period Arlington's three baskets and one charity knotted the quarter at 7 apiece.

The Eagles began boarding the victory express the second frame by pitching five successful field attempts through the net and three free throws, totaling 13 counters for the quarter, of which Joe Uvelli carded six. Jack Clark and Bob Evans again glued their eyes to the rim and upheld the local cause with 10 markers apiece at the final count.

Sam Mascia, Leyden's flashy forward, who was predicted to be a decided menace to the locals, was held to just eight tallies because of four personals collected by Sam in the first half and the brilliant defensive work of Bob Evans. The scrappy Leyden aggregation refused to give an inch as they emerged from the third segment in possession of a substantial 7-tally lead, 30-23. AHTHS's only ray of hope was completely smothered in the final and deciding frame by a 10-6 onslaught favoring the visitors from Franklin Park. Despite the defeat, Bob Baker proved himself to be a tough rebounder for the locals as he grabbed the majority of the Arlington rebounds while in action.

THE LOCALS' frosh-soph squad met a similar fate, 49-31. The locals entered this contest without the services of their all-important center, Dick McAuliffe, and first string guard, Tom Theis, due to injuries suffered earlier in the week.

A pressing defense and a fast breaking offense applied by the visitors set the Leyden quintet six markers in front in the first period and provided them with an 11-tally lead midway in the tilt. The locals came back in the second half all fired up but still were only able to claim two tallies more than their opponents for the third period, 6-4.

A strong bid for victory was put in by the Eagles in the climaxing frame as the Leydenites outmaneuvered the locals to the tune of 9 markers, thus setting the visitors far in front at the final whistle, 49-31. Johnny Eakins topped the Arlington scorers for the evening with 8 tallies, while Dave Proper and Charley Flick captured the Leyden scoring spotlight with 15 and 9 counters respectively.

Arlington wrestlers lose to Leyden, 35-8

Arlington Heights wrestlers lost their fourth match in as many scheduled Tuesday afternoon against Leyden, 35-8. All matches were pinned bouts except the 138 pound and heavyweight division. Schulze and Lyons were winners for the Cardinals. Leckban was pinned in a surprise decision, while Herb Slottag looked his best for this meet.

Heights has won eight matches thus far, with Schulze's record of three out of four leading the squad. Leckband and Lyons both won two out of four, while Borgardt has won one out of three.

Arlington falls to Leyden power twice, 40-29, 49-31

by RON PRELLBERG

The Arlington Cardinal varsity quintet took another smashing defeat on the chin Friday night as the Leyden Eagles poured 40 counters through the hoop to subdue the Arlingtonites, 40-29.

Only eight field attempts found their mark for our Cardinal five throughout the entire four periods of play, but because the locals are at low ebb in the shooting department, the team which faces the Cards on their hot night are in for a terrific trouncing. The .500 mark was finally broken by the locals in their free thrown department when the Red Birds netted 13 out of 20 tosses.

A definite lack of aggressiveness has imbedded itself within a few Arlingtonites and with this attitude the effective Oklahoma A&M screening system and expert coaching tips of Cardinal mentor Gene Bell cannot be thrown into effect. The Arlington defense also is falling short of expectations as indicated when the Leydenites outcountered the Cardinals in the second, third, and final segments, 13-8, 10-8, and 10-6 respectively.

JACK CLARK, Arlington's stellar forward, started the show for the evening by faking and driving his way to a set up and two points. A see-saw battle took place the succeeding minutes of play and at the termination of the opening period Arlington's three baskets and one charity knotted the quarter at 7 apiece.

The Eagles began boarding the victory express the second frame by pitching five successful field attempts through the net and three free throws, totaling 13 counters for the quarter, of which Joe Uvelli carded six. Jack Clark and Bob Evans again glued their eyes to the rim and upheld the local cause with 10 markers apiece at the final count.

Sam Mascia, Leyden's flashy forward, who was predicted to be a decided menace to the locals, was held to just eight tallies because of four personals collected by Sam in the first half and the brilliant defensive work of Bob Evans. The scrappy Leyden aggregation refused to give an inch as they emerged from the third segment in possession of a substantial 7-tally lead, 30-23. AHTHS's only ray of hope was completely smothered in the final and deciding frame by a 10-6 onslaught favoring the visitors from Franklin Park. Despite the defeat, Bob Baker proved himself to be a tough rebounder for the locals as he grabbed the majority of the Arlington rebounds while in action.

THE LOCALS' frosh-soph squad met a similar fate, 49-31. The locals entered this contest without the services of their all-important center, Dick McAuliffe, and first string guard, Tom Theis, due to injuries suffered earlier in the week.

A pressing defense and a fast breaking offense applied by the visitors set the Leyden quintet six markers in front in the first period and provided them with an 11-tally lead midway in the tilt. The locals came back in the second half all fired up but still were only able to claim two tallies more than their opponents for the third period, 6-4.

A strong bid for victory was put in by the Eagles in the climaxing frame as the Leydenites outmaneuvered the locals to the tune of 9 markers, thus setting the visitors far in front at the final whistle, 49-31. Johnny Eakins topped the Arlington scorers for the evening with 8 tallies, while Dave Proper and Charley Flick captured the Leyden scoring spotlight with 15 and 9 counters respectively.

Arlington wrestlers lose to Leyden, 35-8

Arlington Heights wrestlers lost their fourth match in as many scheduled Tuesday afternoon against Leyden, 35-8. All matches were pinned bouts except the 138 pound and heavyweight division. Schulze and Lyons were winners for the Cardinals. Leckban was pinned in a surprise decision, while Herb Slottag looked his best for this meet.

Heights has won eight matches thus far, with Schulze's record of three out of four leading the squad. Leckband and Lyons both won two out of four, while Borgardt has won one out of three.

MORE THAN A FORTUNE...

A Sun Life annuity is worth more than a fortune. A fortune can be squandered or lost through faulty investment but annuity checks cannot diminish nor can you outlive them. Plan your retirement the assured way.

Season's Greetings

There is something in the very season of the year that gives charm to the festivity of Christmas.
We feel a special glow of warmth and gladness
when we think of our friends and neighbors.
It is in this spirit that we wish every one a joyous Christmas and a Happy New Year.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS NATIONAL BANK

Wilson School Community News

The children of the Wilson school will entertain parents and friends with a Christmas program Friday evening, Dec. 22, at 8 o'clock. Everyone is invited to attend. Following the children's program, the PTA and Community club have arranged to have Santa Claus arrive with gifts and candy.

The Christmas party given for the children at Arlington Knolls at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kowalski last Sunday was a huge success. About thirty children attended and Santa presented them with gifts. A clown added to the fun, and ice cream and cookies were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Bradbury have returned from California where they have been visiting their daughter for the past two months. After basking in that California sunshine, it is difficult for them to get enthusiastic over the frigid weather in this area, and they are now making plans to spend a few months in Florida visiting another daughter. They will leave sometime next month.

Merry Christmas to all.

Diabetic Workers

About 250,000 diabetics are in the labor force in the United States, and the number is growing from year to year. Studies show that the work record of diabetics in industry is generally satisfactory as compared with non-diabetics. The increase in the number of employed diabetics reflects their gains in longevity, and also that, thanks to insulin, few diabetic children now die of the disease, but grow up to become productive members of society.

Arlington girl at Carleton college

A Carleton college couple from the Chicago area take time off from dancing at the first all-college formal dance of the year, "White Magic," held on the campus Saturday, December 16. Miss Joanne Leckband, a junior, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Norbert F. Leckband, 211 N. Belmont, Arlington Heights. She was in charge of publicity for the dance.

In addition to being active in Carleton's Social Co-op, Joanne ranks in the upper ten per cent of her class academically. Her escort is Carleton F. Nadelhoffer, also a junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Nadelhoffer, Downers Grove. Mr. Nadelhoffer is active in intramural sports, Carleton Players, Social Co-op and the Carleton Service Fund.

Campus Capers

At Oklahoma A&M

Miss Elainor Mair recently won the honor of Redskin Beauty Queen, the most coveted title on the campus of Oklahoma A & M college which has over 11,000 students enrolled at this time. Xavier Cugat chose Miss Mair from 40 girls representing different groups on campus for the year book queen. She and the four girls who received honorable mention appeared on his own show.

Eleanor is a senior at Oklahoma A & M college and is a member of Kappa Delta Sorority. She is also WAA publicity manager, Aquatic club program director, a member of Terpsichorean Dance club, Scholarship chairman of her sorority, and is listed on the Dean's list of distinguished students. Eleanor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mair, 332 N. Benton st., Palatine.

At Stephens

The Christmas vacation at Stephens college started December 16 with classes to resume January 4. A series of formal holiday balls will precede the vacation period, as well as numerous informal residence hall and club parties. The formal Christmas dinner Tuesday night, December 12, was followed by the traditional Christmas program presented by the student concert chorus.

Students from Arlington Heights who are expected to spend the holiday at their homes are: Miss Ruth Louise Greener, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ariel J. Greener, 400 E. Park st.; and Miss Taunya Leah Gage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex T. Gage, 721 S. Highland.

At Milwaukee-Downer

Among the students who will be returning home from Milwaukee-Downer college to spend the Christmas holiday from December 22 to January 8, is Miss Barbara Ann Paulus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Paulus, 210 N. State rd., Arlington Heights.

At Iowa State

Richard Desgney, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Desgney, 436 Lincoln Lane, Arlington Heights, has been promoted to PFC in the ROTC at Iowa State College according to information received from Col. McConnell, professor of military science in tactics.

At Illinois

Carolyn Kraybill is a member of Terripin, the women's ballet swimming team at the University of Illinois. Recently Terripin gave an exhibition at the Washington University in St. Louis, Mo. Carolyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kraybill of Mount Prospect.

Bruises

Bruised fingers frequently result from being caught by doors, windows, screens, etc. Children should be warned against this hazard and especially against being caught behind the hinges of doors. Bruises on the head are often the result of insufficient head-room in cellars, on stairways, etc. This is a matter to be considered when building a house.

At Marquette

Richard L. Suter, 234 S. Center st., Bensenville, is among 53 seniors in the College of Engineering at Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis., who were candidates for degrees at the close of the Engineering Fall quarter, Wednesday, Dec. 20.

He was a candidate for the degree of bachelor of mechanical engineering.

Seniors and their guests were honored at a reception held Friday night (Dec. 15) at the Engineering building.

At Bradley

Alice Barloga, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Barloga, 144 N. Linden, Palatine, was chosen queen of the Tau Kappa Epsilon annual Christmas formal at Bradley university, December 8.

A crown of red carnations and silver leaves was placed on her head as the fraternity members sang "Dream Girl of TKE."

From Loras

The Loras College Chicago Club will hold its annual Christmas dance Tuesday night, Dec. 26, in the grand ballroom of the Sheraton Hotel. Music for this holiday ball of Chicagoland alumni of Loras College, Dubuque, Iowa, will be provided by Eddie James and his Velvet Rhythm Orchestra with dancing from nine to one.

At Northwestern

Lois Kroeber, 730 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, has been appointed to the staff of the Daily Northwestern, student newspaper at Northwestern University.

The Daily, winner of five consecutive All-American ratings from the American Collegiate Press association, is circulated to faculty, administration and students at the University.

This year publication has been increased to five times weekly to allow more complete coverage of Northwestern's Centennial celebration, which opens January 28 with a special convocation and the annual candlelighting ceremony.

Miss Kroeber, a sophomore in the Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern, is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

At Ripon

Ripon college was represented by student debater Andy Palm of Mt. Prospect at the Iowa State Teachers college annual debate tournament at Cedar Falls Nov. 30 and Dec. 1.

Mr. Palm upheld the negative of the topic, "Resolved: That the non-Communist nations should form a new world organization." He was one of nine Riponites participating in the forensic contest. Sixty-nine teams from various colleges took part.

The event was Ripon college's first debate contest of the season. Coached by Prof. Art White, forensic instructor, Palm and other Ripon debaters expect to appear in several speech tournaments throughout the year.

Miss Elainor Mair recently won the honor of Redskin Beauty Queen, the most coveted title on the campus of Oklahoma A & M college which has over 11,000 students enrolled at this time. Xavier Cugat chose Miss Mair from 40 girls representing different groups on campus for the year book queen. She and the four girls who received honorable mention appeared on his own show.

Eleanor is a senior at Oklahoma A & M college and is a member of Kappa Delta Sorority. She is also WAA publicity manager, Aquatic club program director, a member of Terpsichorean Dance club, Scholarship chairman of her sorority, and is listed on the Dean's list of distinguished students. Eleanor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mair, 332 N. Benton st., Palatine.

At Stephens

The Christmas vacation at Stephens college started December 16 with classes to resume January 4. A series of formal holiday balls will precede the vacation period, as well as numerous informal residence hall and club parties. The formal Christmas dinner Tuesday night, December 12, was followed by the traditional Christmas program presented by the student concert chorus.

Students from Arlington Heights who are expected to spend the holiday at their homes are: Miss Ruth Louise Greener, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ariel J. Greener, 400 E. Park st.; and Miss Taunya Leah Gage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex T. Gage, 721 S. Highland.

At Milwaukee-Downer

Among the students who will be returning home from Milwaukee-Downer college to spend the Christmas holiday from December 22 to January 8, is Miss Barbara Ann Paulus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Paulus, 210 N. State rd., Arlington Heights.

At Iowa State

Richard Desgney, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Desgney, 436 Lincoln Lane, Arlington Heights, has been promoted to PFC in the ROTC at Iowa State College according to information received from Col. McConnell, professor of military science in tactics.

At Illinois

Carolyn Kraybill is a member of Terripin, the women's ballet swimming team at the University of Illinois. Recently Terripin gave an exhibition at the Washington University in St. Louis, Mo. Carolyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kraybill of Mount Prospect.

Bruises

Bruised fingers frequently result from being caught by doors, windows, screens, etc. Children should be warned against this hazard and especially against being caught behind the hinges of doors. Bruises on the head are often the result of insufficient head-room in cellars, on stairways, etc. This is a matter to be considered when building a house.

At Marquette

Richard L. Suter, 234 S. Center st., Bensenville, is among 53 seniors in the College of Engineering at Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis., who were candidates for degrees at the close of the Engineering Fall quarter, Wednesday, Dec. 20.

He was a candidate for the degree of bachelor of mechanical engineering.

Seniors and their guests were honored at a reception held Friday night (Dec. 15) at the Engineering building.

At Bradley

Alice Barloga, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Barloga, 144 N. Linden, Palatine, was chosen queen of the Tau Kappa Epsilon annual Christmas formal at Bradley university, December 8.

A crown of red carnations and silver leaves was placed on her head as the fraternity members sang "Dream Girl of TKE."

From Loras

The Loras College Chicago Club will hold its annual Christmas dance Tuesday night, Dec. 26, in the grand ballroom of the Sheraton Hotel. Music for this holiday ball of Chicagoland alumni of Loras College, Dubuque, Iowa, will be provided by Eddie James and his Velvet Rhythm Orchestra with dancing from nine to one.

At Northwestern

Lois Kroeber, 730 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, has been appointed to the staff of the Daily Northwestern, student newspaper at Northwestern University.

The Daily, winner of five consecutive All-American ratings from the American Collegiate Press association, is circulated to faculty, administration and students at the University.

This year publication has been increased to five times weekly to allow more complete coverage of Northwestern's Centennial celebration, which opens January 28 with a special convocation and the annual candlelighting ceremony.

Miss Kroeber, a sophomore in the Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern, is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

At Ripon

Ripon college was represented by student debater Andy Palm of Mt. Prospect at the Iowa State Teachers college annual debate tournament at Cedar Falls Nov. 30 and Dec. 1.

Mr. Palm upheld the negative of the topic, "Resolved: That the non-Communist nations should form a new world organization." He was one of nine Riponites participating in the forensic contest. Sixty-nine teams from various colleges took part.

The event was Ripon college's first debate contest of the season. Coached by Prof. Art White, forensic instructor, Palm and other Ripon debaters expect to appear in several speech tournaments throughout the year.

HOBBIES Yours and Mine

BY BETTY AINSLIE

Because it is only a few short days until Christmas I decided to have a talk with Mrs. C. N. Linscott at 11 S. William in Mt. Prospect, and a look-see at her bell collection.

Bells with their gay tinkle are always a special part of this season and Mrs. Linscott has quite a number set out on the mantel to help decorate her home this Christmas.

THE LINSCOTTS and their small son, Jackie, are newcomers to this suburb from Rockford, Ill., and Mrs. Linscott has certainly been a very busy person spending a good part of her life in various interesting jobs. Take fer-instance she spent several years as a doctor's assistant in the mountains of Tennessee where the nearest hospital was about forty miles. Then she has done all sorts of Government Extension Service work, where her education in Home Economics came in mighty handy. Mrs Linscott has an unusual and worthwhile hobby too of giving talks to various groups. Talks on her experiences in Tennessee which can be mighty funny or serious, or lectures on table settings, quick meals, special deserts or trends in clothing are only a few of the things she can discuss informally. So all you club women in need of a speaker for a future meeting keep in mind this attractive and interesting newcomer.

But to go back to the bells Mrs. Linscott can't remember when she actually started collecting them.

"I remember I always liked bells, and we youngsters at home used to have a special one at our bedside when we were isolated in our rooms by illness. the bell was to call mother—and I suppose I've always associated the nice musical sound with the security of home," declared Mrs. Linscott seriously.

"I'm especially partial to the bells with truly musical tones, and there was a time I could play a tune with these bells, but haven't tried that for a long time," she laughed.

Mrs. Linscott has bells of all sizes and shapes. Some like the sleigh bells on her front door are strung together in graduated chains. She has bells made from brass, copper, glass, sterling, silver, stone, crystal and lava. Bells from India, Java, and China seem to have the lovelier tones and strings of bells are coming back as decorations for homes.

THERE ARE the elephant bells from India made from solid brass. These large bells were fastened around the neck of the pet worker elephants because believe it or not they did stray away and were sometimes hard to find—I should imagine the rhythm of these bells of different notes must be a wonderful sound.

Her smallest bell is just about one inch high and has a clapper in it which is unusual in bells so small.

Mrs. Linscott has two china bells that were used to decorate her wedding cake. Instead of the usual bride and groom these two Dresden china bells were used and the cake decorated with small icing bells too.

"I guess I have about fifty bells in all which isn't a large collection, but it is fun to get them all out around holiday time," smiled the very nice Mrs. Linscott.

Say I never realized there are so many different and varied hobbies and collections represented hereabouts — just goes to show more and more people discover that life is a lot more interesting with a hobby or two.

Students and advisor to take part in panels

H. L. Slichenmyer, administrative assistant at Arlington Heights Township high school, accompanied by Charles Anderson, Donna Mills, and Ruth Gronert, members of the Student Senate, attended a planning meeting at the Illinois Institute of Technology December 12 to outline plans for their participation in the panel discussion at the Third Annual Chicago Area Career Conference on December 27, 28, and 29.

Six other students and two other faculty advisers were invited to attend the meeting.

The purpose of the Chicago Area Career Conference is to acquaint students with various fields of work and the requirements, advantages, and disadvantages of each. Sixty experts in more than 200 fields of business, education, and industry will be present. Last year over 5,000 students attended the conference.

Speaking of the conference, Mr. Slichenmyer says, "I feel it is a most worthwhile conference for all the students — for those who have already made their decision concerning their future career as well as for those in doubt. It is particularly important for the student who has not yet made a decision concerning his future work."

Each day the conference will present two panels, one of adults representing professions, industry, and education, and one of students. Wednesday, Mr. Slichenmyer will be moderator for the student panel and Charles Anderson will be one of the participants. Thursday, Donna Mills will be one of the panel members, and on Friday Ruth Gronert will participate on the student panel.

Teachers attend broadcast confab, music clinic

Arlington Heights teachers, Miss Phyllis Shaw, second grade South; Mrs. Corine Radcliffe, fifth grade North; and Joseph Tomlinson, Junior high, attended the School Broadcast conference at the Sherman hotel, Chicago, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

The purpose of the conference is to stimulate a wider use of all media of mass communication—radio and television particularly—through a greater knowledge of the philosophies and practices which motivate educational radio and television broadcasters.

Harold Brunt, music instructor in the grade schools, is attending the Midwest National Band Clinic at the Sherman, today, Thursday, through Saturday.

The clinic is sponsored by Lyons Band Instrument Co., Vandcook School of Music, and Niel Kojos Music Co., and is attended by bandmasters from all over the United States and a few foreign countries. There is a clinic for all instruments, and outstanding grade and high school bands will give demonstrations and play the latest band music. Scores will be flashed on a large screen as the bands play so that the bandmasters can read them as they are being played.

Twirlers and marching maneuvers will also be demonstrated at the clinic.

December deadliest month of year; warn citizens to drive safely

"Death knows no holiday!"

It is this grim thought, Chief Carl H. Skoog of Arlington Hts. said today, that has resulted in the Lions club Safety Committee's intensive program of traffic safety education this month.

"It's against human nature," Chief Skoog said, "to think of the December holiday season in any other terms than of gaiety, joy and devotion. It is easy to forget that December is also the deadliest month of the year. A little extra care can change this gloomy fact."

CHIEF SKOOG pointed out that National Safety Council figures show that last December's traffic accident death toll, on a nation-wide basis, was 150 deaths greater than October's — the second most deadly month—and 430 deaths greater than July's—the month of heaviest highway traffic in terms of miles driven.

"A lot of factors enter into a traffic accident," he said, "but December's unnatural death record is significant in that it coincides with the reduced visibility of December weather, slick and icy roads, and the obscurements of the driver's vision because of ice, sleet, or snow!"

It is the belief of the Lions Safety Committee, whose December public education program has Holiday Hazards as its theme, that the physical factors found in winter driving tend to make it doubly dangerous for the driver who refuses to acknowledge the need for greater caution, less speed, and more defensive driving.

"Excuses for traffic accidents this time of year," Chief Skoog said, "have a familiar, repetitious sound: 'I skidded!' 'I didn't see him coming!' and 'The snow blinded me!' are examples of the excuses the average traffic officer hears time and time again.

"Boil them all down, though," Chief Skoog said. "It is apparent that the real culprit in nine out of ten of these winter accidents is the driver, and that weather conditions are simply accessories before the fact! So, while a very lucky driver may get away with all sorts of reckless and unthinking driving during the rest of the year, the physical factors inherent in winter driving are frequently the stumbling blocks that spell his downfall!"

THE LIONS SAFETY Committee listed the following rules for safe winter driving:

1. Double your caution. Drive as though the unexpected were about to happen at any time, for this may very well be the case.
2. Lower your speed. This almost goes without saying in view of the dangers present in the form of icy or snowy roads and the increased stopping distance arising from such conditions.
3. Use good tire chains. They can reduce your stopping distance by as much as 40 to 50 per cent on slick road surfaces.
4. Never drive after drinking. About one out of every six drivers involved in a fatal accident in 1949, according to the National Safety Council, had been drinking. In the holiday season this figure is very apt to be even higher.
5. Always maintain your brakes, windshield wiper blades, and defrosters in the best possible condition. About one out of five fatal accidents in 1949 was attributed to some form of vision obscurement. Many of these were due to ice, snow, or sleet on the windshields.

"Don't Let Death Take Your Holiday," Chief Skoog said, "can be more than just a slogan—it can be grim reality for the drinking, careless, or speeding driver!"

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Arlington Heights woman constructed first string of Christmas tree lights in 1903

Fighting snow storm 20 years ago

The men who operated the highway snow plows enjoyed their work 20 years ago. It was not all work in those days. Authority for that statement is William A. Meyer, 200 W. St. James, Arlington Heights, who has been a resident of that town ever since his birth 78 years ago. He has time these days to recall other days. He was by trade a carpenter, but when building stopped at the time of the depression he served for a time as a highway foreman.

He says that the story in last week's Herald about the big snow storm was good, but he remembers storms that were nearly as bad. His education was confined to St. Peter and the public elementary schools, but poetry comes natural to Mr. Meyer and he has sent us the following, which he composed 12 years ago.

The Patrolman's Delight — The Routine of Snow Plowing

When the north winds blow over the prairie
And the highways are covered with snow
Then I have my snowplow all ready
And hurray! Through the snowdrifts we go

And when we are tired and weary
At the first good old road house we stop
Where we load up on doughnuts and coffee
Till we're filled clean up to the top.

And again we go out on the highway
And plow through the snowdrifts deep
Till we get to good old La Bountys
Where we stay till we fall asleep.

While we sleep and have dreams of great pleasure
By chance somebody steps in
Nobody but good Joe Hinsberger
And then's when the fun begins.

"Get out! You sleepy old rascal
On the highway is where you belong,"
Are the orders we get from Hinsberger
And all our sweet dreams are gone.

So once more we go out on the highway
And plow our lanes all clear
That ends the patrolman's workday
And he has no more orders to fear.

William A. Meyer
January 1950

He does not know how many

Mrs. Leon N. Wells, 24 N. Belmont, Arlington Heights constructed the first string of electric lights for a Christmas tree 47 years ago. She was then Miss Bessie Hertzog of Schenectady, N. Y.

It was her husband, Leon Wells, who made possible that distinction. He was employed 33 consecutive years by the General Electric Co., the first 12 years in the Schenectady office, the remainder in Chicago.

It was while employed in the Schenectady office that a Mr. Lucas, a foreman told him that he wanted to make a certain little girl happy on Christmas by providing a string of electric lights for a Christmas tree.

He told Wells that he would like to have a young lady who had nimble fingers at his office by seven o'clock the next morning.

Mr. Wells told Lucas that he was keeping company with a young lady who was a milliner by trade and as it was the snow season for millinery work he would ask her to be at his office at 7 a. m. the next day and he would soon see that she had nimble fingers.

Miss Hertzog made the string of lights with sockets and attachment plug, filling the socket with carbon filament lamps.

A tree was cut from the Mohawk Valley hills and the string of lights was placed upon it. That string was the forerunner of billions of other strings that have since graced Christmas trees throughout the world.

General Electric Co. and other organizations realized the market there would be for such lights. Later they were machine manufactured in eight series incandescent,, seven and fifteen light multiples, and nine-light sparkling bubble sets, both inside and outside lighting.

The above facts were given to the world by the late Mr. Ripley in 1948, who investigated the matter before including it in one of his releases.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells came to Arlington Heights in 1920. They were married shortly after Miss Hertzog constructed that string of lights.

places today have coffee waiting for the men who operate the snow plows, but in the old days the persons plowed out appreciated the boys who did the work, sometimes working the entire night through.

Mr. Meyer lays claim to being the longest reader of this paper in Arlington Heights. He says that he remembers that when he was a boy of 15,—65 years ago, the Cook County Herald, then published by William Williams, entered their home. "The Paddocks have been publishers over 80 years," says Meyer, and I do not think that any subscriber reads more of it than do I."

● LIKE PIONEER DAYS

The big snow storm of a couple of weeks ago brought back memories of the days of the pioneers.

Not only did it bring back memories of those days, but it also brought back the conditions of those days with the big drifts, the blocked roads, the isolated homes and all the difficulties of travel.

With the modern snow fighting equipment of the present the pioneer conditions didn't last as long as in the old days; yet, even with all the modern snow plows of state, county and local governments it was several days before things got back to normal.

The high wind which piled up the drifts in such a way that reminded a person of the days of long ago made the clearing of roads and driveways a big job and a lot of people had a lot of trouble in getting through the snow.

Cars got stalled by the hundreds during the storm and people sought shelters in gas stations and farm houses.

Two Palatine men en route to work at Barrington turned over in the snow. Al De Pue who was ahead of them, suddenly missed them in his rear view mirror and went back to find them in a snow bank. A pie truck turned over between Palatine and Barrington to make a "Splattery" mix-up on that tough stretch of road.

An Arlington Heights doctor battled for eight miles through the drifts with a little light cub tractor to reach a patient and then had to make the last stage of the journey on foot through mountainous drifts.

People in the country were shut in in some cases for several days before their roads could be opened. In many cases the drifts were piled too high for the regular plows and had to be broken open by huge bulldozers.

It all took time and road crews were at it night and day until the roads were open and people could circulate again in a normal manner.

Ray Holtzee, highway commissioner of Palatine township, said that the storm and the resultant conditions were the worst in years and that it was more expensive to the road funds to fight off this early storm than it was to keep things in shape all last winter.

From the way in which this winter is starting in to be one of those real old fashioned winters, it's going to be a tough one on the budgets of all the taxing units that have to provide for snow clearing activities, some of them having been forced to already order new snow fighting equipment as the old goes to pieces under the strain of these storms that remind the old timers of the pioneer days of long ago.

● EMBER DAYS

Well, we have just had three more ember days that are supposed to forecast the weather for the first three months of the new year. Last Thursday, Saturday and Sunday were the ember days for the first quarter of 1951.

If the forecast of the ember days which have just passed aren't any more accurate than those for the final quarter of 1950, they can't be depended upon.

We were talking with August Rohde the other day and he had been talking with a friend who puts a lot of faith in the ember days.

August told his friend, "I've always thought that the weather would do just what it wanted to regardless of what the ember days forecast." To which his friend had to admit that the last forecast of the ember days sure got way off the track.

Those ember days last fall predicted that October, November and December would be fine mild weather.

Well, we had a marvelous October, but then along came a wintry November, and December so far has really been an "old timer," and these two months surely put the Indian sign on those ember day predictions.

Now we have just had another three month prediction from the ember days; let's see how close they come this time.

● DINNER

A Palatine business man who is temporarily "batching it" while his wife is on vacation decided the other evening that he wanted a good steak dinner, but be darned if he was going over to the restaurant and pay $2 or $2.50 for it. He'd get his own dinner, so he stopped in at the market on his way home and got himself a nice T-bone steak and some vegetables, bread, etc.

He went home and cooked himself a fine steak dinner with all the trimmings and just as he was dishing it out he saw a piece of paper lying on the table. It was his slip from the market for the things he'd bought for that dinner. His steak was $2.78 and with the other things he'd gotten his bill would make a five dollar bill look awfully sick.

"And there I was trying to be smart and not eat at a restaurant," said the gentleman, but anyhow, "I had a good dinner even if I did get it myself."

● VANISHED

Where did all the rabbits that used to be such a pest out in the east part of town go to we wonder.

All of this snow and we hardly see a rabbit track to say nothing of seeing any rabbits. Haven't seen but one this last three months and last summer a person couldn't go into the garden without seeing three or four scooting in all directions.

Something sure has happened to the big rabbit population out that way.

We thought maybe our trapping friend, Hank Cordes, had captured them all with that new fangled trap of his which is an expert at catching cats, but Hank says "No," that he hasn't even had the trap out lately and that he's only seen one rabbit himself in weeks and that he hopes they are gone for good. For with all this snow they surely would raise hob with the berry bushes and grape vines.

Another specimen of wild life also seems to have vanished from our neighborhood and that is the cardinals. There were a lot of the red birds and their less spectacular mates around all spring and summer, but they seem to have disappeared this winter.

We have been wondering what happened to the rabbits and cardinals. Like our friend, Hank, we hope those blamed rabbits never do come back, but we miss the bright flash of the cardinals around the feeding ground this winter.

● WINTER BUSINESS

Last summer Mrs. Knupper told her husband that she was going to start a sideline to their nursery business that would keep business going during the winter instead of just during the spring, summer and fall months.

That new side line in the form of an enlarged garden shop with all sorts of other accessories is now going full blast and the new enterprise is doing a rushing Christmas business.

There is just about everything you can think of in that shop; all shapes and sizes of bird feeding stations, bird food of all kinds and in all quantities, blooming Christmas plants, beautiful table decorations, chinaware and pottery of all descriptions, imported little novelties and Christmas cards, bright and attractive Christmas decorations and Christmas trees themselves of all sizes.

In the garden shop there are all sorts of tools, sprinklers, fancy baskets, packages of plant food and just about everything that a gardener could think of for the flower and vegetable garden.

In fact that winter side line of Mrs. Knupper's looks about like a main line and friend husband says that there is so much work now that there aren't any more long winter days to loaf around with nothing to do.

Of course pretty soon R. C. will have to get busy planting seeds for next year's crop of vegetable plants and the nursery will need attention, but meanwhile that nifty side line of the Mrs. will keep him busy.

And by the way, we at last raised a real crop of Burpee's hybrid tomatoes from Knupper's plants last summer. We had commented not too favorably in the past about that variety, but last summer we got a fine crop which by the way was a sort of accident for when we got around to get plants last spring all our favorite varieties were gone and we had to take what we could get which was Knupper's highly touted Burpee's hybrid and this time they did the business.

● CARELESS

Last Thursday about noon folks who were getting dinner suddenly found themselves without water and visions of the big wreck loomed up in people's minds.

But this time it was a broken water main. The workmen at the high school addition had broken a main while excavating despite the fact that they had a map of the area showing the location of the main and just how deep it was.

There was a hurried shutting off of valves that again put the north side out of water. Then that particular area was isolated by the closing of more valves and most folks had water again.

One fellow remarked when he found out what was wrong, "First a wreck, now a broken main—life's just one darn thing after another, isn't it?"

● MISSING

Have present day calendar makers forgotten that there is such a thing as a moon?

All calendars used to show the various phases of the moon, what dates the new moon arrived, the first quarter full moon, last quarter, etc., but now the calendars seem to have forgotten all about the moon and make no mention of it.

The old time almanacs which gave moon news information about eclipses, long range weather predictions and a lot of other useful information are also a thing of the past.

The disappearance of the old almanacs, the calendar information, etc., must be another sign of the changing times.

● THE OTHER SIDE

Received an announcement the other day that Jackson L. Boughner has joined the law firm of Temsey, Sherman, Rogers and Guthrie as a partner and that Mr. Boughner will specialize in federal tax matters.

Mr. Boughner was formerly a special attorney of the office of the chief counsel, Bureau of Internal Revenue. Jack who is a resident of Palanois Park, Palatine, will now have a chance to look at federal taxation from the other side of the table, first he represented the government, now he will represent the individual or corporation. Wonder how the picture will look?

● MERRY CHRISTMAS

We extend to all the readers of this column our best wishes for a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

May the holiday season and the coming year bring to you all the best of what life has to offer in these troubled times and may the real spirit of the Christmas season once again prevail in the world. May "peace on earth good will to men" at sometime in the near future be more than an empty phrase.

MOTHER'S DUTY

By the time a girl is 18 she is virtually on her own or fails, and whether she wrecks her life or saves it depends upon the principles her mother has bred into her.

All of the chaperoning a mother can do has to be done while her daughter is in the cradle. All of the protection a mother can give her daughter is to teach her how to protect herself.

So, I think the most important thing that a mother can do is to teach her daughter self-respect. Teach her to keep clean, physically and spiritually, and to value her body.

Every mother should teach her daughter to guard against her own weaknesses. She should teach her especially to guard herself against her own passions. All temptation comes from within. Teach a girl to guard herself against herself and you have done all that can be done to protect her.

In trying to protect your daughters, don't overdo it. A too-strict home is worse than a home that has no restrictions at all. Youth is going to have its pleasures. It prefers to take them decently at home, but if that is forbidden, it will find them abroad.

You can make boys welcome and see that they have a good time at your house and so know what sort of lads your daughters are associating with and what they are doing. Or, you can shut your door against them and have your girls lie to you about where they are going and pick up boys on the streets.

Give your daughters as good an education as they will take, but see to it that they are taught some way to support themselves. Teach them how to cook and how to sew, for on those two things depend not only her own convenience, but the wellbeing of her family.

Teach your girls good manners and the amenities of life. They are a woman's passport to every grade of society. If you will teach your daughters these things, the remainder will take care of itself.

NEWS OF VIOLATORS

You have asked for comments concerning people who are offenders of our laws, and whether to publish their names or not. It is common, in many communities to publish the names of even those who have violated traffic laws, with their fines. All thru our towns and cities there are parents doing their best to bring their children up with a wholesome regard for our laws; to teach them respect for others' rights and property. Without these sound values as a foundation, it is easy to understand why so many of our youngsters are in jail. The record to date is not too good.

Part of the penalty for those who violate our laws is exposure of their wrongs, and the disgrace it brings to both the violator and their families. This point is one of the main steps in helping to prevent even more crime, and I am sure that many parents instruct their children in this truth. However, when morons who endanger our women and children, and others who are known offenders are not put in the pitiless spotlight of public opinion, we shield them and their crimes, and make it impossible for innocent victims of their deeds to know and guard against their outrages in the future.

Is the thief who steals the things that honest people have worked and paid for, the one to be considered and protected, when he doesn't give a darn about anyone but his own selfish greed? Is the moron who wrecks the health and future life of some child, the one to be protected, or does the child have first call on our sympathies? In my opinion, the honest worker who pays the bill for police protection, for our courts, buys food and housing in the jail, and parole supervision after the criminal gets out, is getting hit with a heavy bill for it.

And he buys your newspaper, too. Certainly his interests must come first; repeated violators must be exposed, as a public service, to protect the innocent and punish the guilty.

MARCH OF DIMES

The 1951 March of Dimes campaign, from January 15 to 31, will be a most crucial one. Three successive years of record polio epidemics have severely drained the funds of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and its chapters throughout the nation. The year 1950 will be second only to 1949, the peak national polio year, for incidence of the disease. In Cook county there will be more cases this year than in 1949.

Of the more than 30,000 persons stricken this year in the United States, 24,000 have received financial assistance from the Foundation. Hold-over cases from the previous two years have boosted the total case-load to 54,000. The Foundation is depending, therefore, on a vigorous 1951 March of Dimes to enable it to continue its vital program of financing patient care, polio research and education.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

Your reader who objects to the Christmas carols, is one opinion. Personally, they bring comfort from out the frosty air.

However, one song that might be omitted is, "I'll be home for Christmas." It is too much isn't it, with all leaves being cancelled?

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Dear Jane:

Christmas greetings to you and your dear ones from all of us here at Manapisu Farm!

Because our grandchild's birth occurred one week before Christmas, we feel we must make special plans so that her birthday gifts and celebration will be observed separately and apart from Christmas.

So on last Saturday, the 16th, all her presents were wrapped in pink and white ribbons and papers, her cake, an angel food confection in pink and white, her first party dress, pink and white organdy, though she sat amid the holiday decorations of green and red throughout the house.

It was a gala occasion! Her Mama and Daddy brought her and two of her aunties (who were visiting from Indianapolis) to the farm in time for lunch. We served almost immediately, because her mother and I could hardly wait to have lunch over so that we might see our little one open her gifts. We brought her new rocking chair with the Swiss music box attachment and sat her in it. While she rocked, the little box played "Rock-a-bye Baby." Megan sat in wonderment for a few minutes, and then squirmed around and we helped her out of the chair, and stood, grasped the arms, and moved the chair back and forth, apparently enjoying the musical sounds. After that, we sat on the floor with her packages around her, and gave her a present to open. We soon discovered that she needed help, so Mama suggested "Grams and Gramps" assist her. Of course, you know how we loved this!

When it came time for the candle blowing ceremony, her Mama dressed her in her "party dress," a gift from her Daddy and Mama. Then Grams took her hand, and we walked down the corridor to meet her "guests."

In her other hand she carried a gift for her Mama. It looked very much like a diploma, for it was a sheet of music, wrapped in a roll of white tissue paper and tied with a pink satin ribbon. When we reached the living room, Megan handed her Mama the gift when Grams said "give it to Mama, sweetheart." (I think all of us were touched by her little gesture). The cover page of the sheet music read, "Page d'Album," by Claude Debussy. "To my dearest Mama, on my first birthday, with my love, Megan." Patty is particularly fond of Debussy. Previously she had come across this little gem of his in an old Etude issue. Lyon and Healy unearthed a copy for me last week when I was in the city Christmas shopping.

The world is in a sorry state, we know, but we must hold fast to the things that are dear to our hearts. They always have been dear and we must see to it that they always are. The home and the family mean everything that is good and worthwhile to us in our country, and we will work toward maintaining them as long as there is breath in us.

I leave you for now with the beautiful thoughts of Grace Noll Crowell:

"Peace On Earth"

"Our God will not be mocked.
The Angels' singing
Was not vain words flung on the empty air,
But vital prophecy, and truth set winging
That will not be denied. Today's despair
Is pierced by golden shafts. The sunlight breaking
Its way through clouds should bid our darkness cease,
And ease our anxious hearts long numbed by aching.
There shall be peace on earth, there shall be peace!

Men will give glory to their God, and nations
Will yet turn to Him, unified at last;
Class after class of high and lowly stations
And race after race will turn, their warring past,
And brother will kneel by brother, each tongue naming
One name, and like a spring flood thus release
Their pent up praise, too long withheld, proclaiming
Him Counselor, the mighty God, the Prince of Peace.

With love, Mary.

Weekly recipes

During the next few weeks there'll be many occasions when a good supply of Holiday Cookies might save the day—or evening. Your guests will be pleased with Santa Fruit Squares or Yule Tide Oatmeal Cookies. These cookies are unusually delicious and I like to serve them with glasses of Egg-Nog. Egg-Nog is a dairy product which you may buy from your milk salesman or at your neighborhood store.

Santa Fruit Squares

2 Warranted Eggs
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2 tbsp. rum flavoring
½ cup chopped candied cherries
¼ cup chopped candied pineapple
¼ cup chopped citron
½ cup white raisins
¼ cup candied orange peel
1 cup chopped pecans
1 cup and 2 tbsp all purpose flour
3/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. double acting baking powder

Method: Sift flour, salt and baking powder together and sprinkle over chopped fruit and nuts. Blend until all pieces are well coated with flour. Beat eggs until thick; add sugar and then rum flavoring. Add all to flour mixture. Pour into 7"x11" pan which has been lined with brown paper and well oiled. Bake in preheated oven at 325 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes. Cut in squares while warm and roll in powdered sugar and chopped cocoanut.

Yule Tide Oatmeal Cookies

1 cup sugar
½ cup butter
2 Warranted Eggs
6 tbsp. milk
1 cup pecans chopped
½ cup diced candied fruits
1½ cups rolled oats
1½ cups all purpose flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. cinnamon

Method: Cream butter and sugar together; add eggs and blend well; add oats. Sift flour, salt, baking powder and cinnamon together and sift over nuts and fruits. Add to first mixture alternately with milk. Mix well. Drop on buttered cookie sheet using a teaspoon, place 1 inch apart. Bake in preheated oven at 400 degrees for 12 minutes.

Yield: 3 dozen cookies.

THE MAILMAN'S CORNER

BY LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

The other day my son and I were discussing the ways of man. I suggested that men are naturally selfish, that everything they do is being done because of a selfish motive.

"Dad, I think you are using the wrong word," my budding pride replied with just a touch of mounting reddness in his cheeks. "Selfishness isn't a bad word in itself, but the way it is used now days it has a bad connotation. Perhaps self-centered is the word we need."

"Connotation — connotation?" I repeated inwardly, keeping up a poker face. "Now what does that word mean?"

My son continued talking about the meanings of the two words until he chanced to look at what I thought was my poker face, when he stopped suddenly and looked me straight in the eyes.

"Connotation is an emotion that a word arouses in the listener," he explained. "The word 'selfish', while originally meaning much the same as self centered, has come into disrepute because it now infers a disagreeable personality trait, and arouses a feeling of dislike. But of course, I didn't need to tell you that, dad!"

"Um—, no, of course not, son," I mumbled with a show at knowing. Inwardly, I thanked him for being so tactful about it.

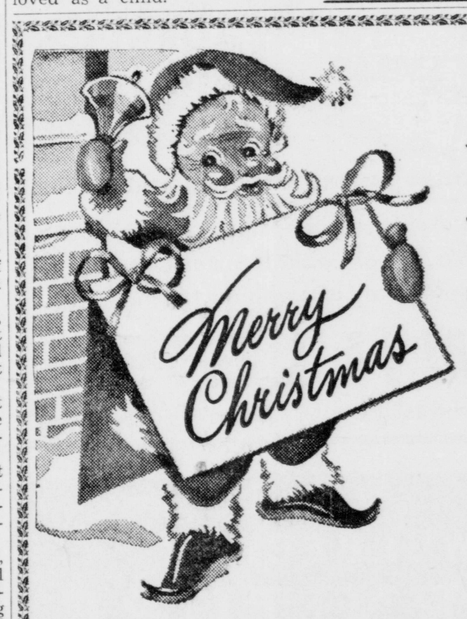

But he deftly showed me that we were talking about the same thing. Man is definitely self centered, but not always selfish.

And we finally concluded that environment, training and background were the three most important means of saving mankind.

Teach a child to love goodness, and his self-centered nature will tend to be pleased at the opportunity of doing and thinking good things. Teach him to find pleasure in badness, and that same anture will tend to take pleasure in doing and thinking things that are evil.

A person who has grown up in an environment where friends are important will value friendship. In an environment of honesty, he will tend to be honest. In an environment of selfishness, thievery or brutality, he will tend to become selfish, thievish or brutal.

Bring a child up in a christian family, and in the atmosphere of a church, teach him to believe in and read the Bible, and though he may stray for a while, he will almost always come back to the things he believed in and loved as a child.

Arlington Heights woman constructed first string of Christmas tree lights in 1903

Fighting snow storm 20 years ago

The men who operated the highway snow plows enjoyed their work 20 years ago. It was not all work in those days. Authority for that statement is William A. Meyer, 200 W. St. James, Arlington Heights, who has been a resident of that town ever since his birth 78 years ago. He has time these days to recall other days. He was by trade a carpenter, but when building stopped at the time of the depression he served for a time as a highway foreman.

He says that the story in last week's Herald about the big snow storm was good, but he remembers storms that were nearly as bad. His education was confined to St. Peter and the public elementary schools, but poetry comes natural to Mr. Meyer and he has sent us the following, which he composed 12 years ago.

The Patrolman's Delight — The Routine of Snow Plowing

When the north winds blow over the prairie
And the highways are covered with snow
Then I have my snowplow all ready
And hurray! Through the snowdrifts we go

And when we are tired and weary
At the first good old road house we stop
Where we load up on doughnuts and coffee
Till we're filled clean up to the top.

And again we go out on the highway
And plow through the snowdrifts deep
Till we get to good old La Bountys
Where we stay till we fall asleep.

While we sleep and have dreams of great pleasure
By chance somebody steps in
Nobody but good Joe Hinsberger
And then's when the fun begins.

"Get out! You sleepy old rascal
On the highway is where you belong,"
Are the orders we get from Hinsberger
And all our sweet dreams are gone.

So once more we go out on the highway
And plow our lanes all clear
That ends the patrolman's workday
And he has no more orders to fear.

William A. Meyer
January 1950

He does not know how many

Mrs. Leon N. Wells, 24 N. Belmont, Arlington Heights constructed the first string of electric lights for a Christmas tree 47 years ago. She was then Miss Bessie Hertzog of Schenectady, N. Y.

It was her husband, Leon Wells, who made possible that distinction. He was employed 33 consecutive years by the General Electric Co., the first 12 years in the Schenectady office, the remainder in Chicago.

It was while employed in the Schenectady office that a Mr. Lucas, a foreman told him that he wanted to make a certain little girl happy on Christmas by providing a string of electric lights for a Christmas tree.

He told Wells that he would like to have a young lady who had nimble fingers at his office by seven o'clock the next morning.

Mr. Wells told Lucas that he was keeping company with a young lady who was a milliner by trade and as it was the snow season for millinery work he would ask her to be at his office at 7 a. m. the next day and he would soon see that she had nimble fingers.

Miss Hertzog made the string of lights with sockets and attachment plug, fitting the socket with carbon filament lamps.

A tree was cut from the Mohawk Valley hills and the string of lights was placed upon it. That string was the forerunner of billions of other strings that have since graced Christmas trees throughout the world.

General Electric Co. and other organizations realized the market there would be for such lights. Later they were machine manufactured in eight series incandescent,, seven and fifteen light multiples, and nine-light sparkling bubble sets, both inside and outside lighting.

The above facts were given to the world by the late Mr. Ripley in 1948, who investigated the matter before including it in one of his releases.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells came to Arlington Heights in 1920. They were married shortly after Miss Hertzog constructed that string of lights.

places today have coffee waiting for the men who operate the snow plows, but in the old days the persons plowed out appreciated the boys who did the work, sometimes working the entire night through.

Mr. Meyer says claim to being the longest reader of this paper in Arlington Heights. He says that he remembers that when he was a boy of 15,—65 years ago, the Cook County Herald, then published by William Williams, entered their home. "The Paddocks have been publishers over 50 years," says Meyer, and I do not think that any subscriber reads more of it than do I."

● LIKE PIONEER DAYS

The big snow storm of a couple of weeks ago brought back memories of the days of the pioneers.

Not only did it bring back memories of those days, but it also brought back the conditions of those days with the big drifts, the blocked roads, the isolated homes and all the difficulties of travel.

With the modern snow fighting equipment of the present the pioneer conditions didn't last as long as in the old days; yet, even with all the modern snow plows of state, county and local governments it was several days before things got back to normal.

The high wind which piled up the drifts in such a way that reminded a person of the days of long ago made the clearing of roads and driveways a big job and a lot of trouble in getting through the snow.

Cars got stalled by the hundreds during the storm and people sought shelters in gas stations and farm houses.

Two Palatine men en route to work at Barrington turned over in the snow. Al De Pue who was ahead of them, suddenly missed them in his rear view mirror and went back to find them in a snow bank. A pie truck turned over between Palatine and Barrington to make a "Splattery" mix-up on that tough stretch of road.

An Arlington Heights doctor battled for eight miles through the drifts with a little light cub tractor to reach a patient and then had to make the last stage of the journey on foot through mountainous drifts.

People in the country were shut in in some cases for several days before their roads could be opened. In many cases the drifts were piled too high for the regular plows and had to be broken open by huge bulldozers.

It all took time and road crews were at it night and day until the roads were open and people could circulate again in a normal manner.

Ray Holtzee, highway commissioner of Palatine township, said that the storm and the resultant conditions were the worst in years and that it was more expensive to the road funds to fight off this early storm than it was to keep things in shape all last winter.

From the way in which this winter is starting in to be one of those real old fashioned winters, it's going to be a tough one on the budgets of all the taxing units that have to provide for snow clearing activities, some of them having been forced to already order new snow fighting equipment as the old goes to pieces under the strain of these storms that remind the old timers of the pioneer days of long ago.

● EMBER DAYS

Well, we have just had three more ember days that are supposed to forecast the weather for the first three months of the new year. Last Thursday, Saturday and Sunday were the ember days for the first quarter of 1951.

If the forecast of the ember days which have just passed aren't any more accurate than those for the final quarter of 1950, they can't be depended upon.

We were talking with August Rohde the other day and he had been talking with a friend who puts a lot of faith in the ember days.

August told his friend, "I've always thought that the weather would do just what it wanted to regardless of what the ember days forecast." To which his friend had to admit that the last forecast of the ember days sure got way off the track.

Those ember days last fall predicted that October, November and December would be fine mild weather.

Well, we had a marvelous October, but then along came a wintry November, and December so far has really been an "old timer," and these two months surely put the Indian sign on those ember day predictions.

Now we have just had another three month prediction from the ember days; let's see how close they come this time.

● DINNER

A Palatine business man who is temporarily "batching it" while his wife is on vacation decided the other evening that he wanted a good steak dinner, but be darned if he was going over to the restaurant and pay $2 or $2.50 for it. He'd get his own dinner, so he stopped in at the market on his way home and got himself a nice T-bone steak and some vegetables, bread, etc.

He went home and cooked himself a fine steak dinner with all the trimmings and just as he was dishing it out he saw a piece of paper lying on the table. It was his slip from the market for the things he'd bought for that dinner. His steak was $2.78 and with the other things he'd gotten his bill would make a five dollar bill look awfully sick.

"And there I was trying to be smart and not eat at a restaurant," said the gentleman, but anyhow, "I had a good dinner even if I did get it myself."

● VANISHED

Where did all the rabbits that used to be such a pest out in the east part of town go to we wonder.

All of this snow and we hardly see a rabbit track to say nothing of seeing any rabbits. Haven't seen but one this last three months and last summer a person couldn't go into the garden without seeing three or four scooting in all directions.

Something sure has happened to the big rabbit population out that way.

We thought maybe our trapping friend, Hank Cordes, had captured them all with that new fangled trap of his which is an expert at catching cats, but Hank says "No," that he hasn't even had the trap out lately and that he's only seen one rabbit himself in weeks and that he hopes they are gone for good. For with all this snow they surely would raise hob with the berry bushes and grape vines.

Another specimen of wild life also seems to have vanished from our neighborhood and that is the cardinals. There were a lot of the red birds and their less spectacular mates around all spring and summer, but they seem to have disappeared this winter.

We have been wondering what happened to the rabbits and cardinals. Like our friend, Hank, we hope those blamed rabbits never do come back, but we miss the bright flash of the cardinals around the feeding ground this winter.

● WINTER BUSINESS

Last summer Mrs. Knupper told her husband that she was going to start a sideline to their nursery business that would keep business going during the winter instead of just during the spring, summer and fall months.

That new side line in the form of an enlarged garden shop with all sorts of other accessories is now going full blast and the new enterprise is doing a rushing Christmas business.

There is just about everything you can think of in that shop; all shapes and sizes of bird feeding stations, bird food of all kinds and in all quantities, blooming Christmas plants, beautiful table decorations, chinaware and pottery of all descriptions, imported little novelties and Christmas cards, bright and attractive Christmas decorations and Christmas trees themselves of all sizes.

In the garden shop there are all sorts of tools, sprinklers, fancy baskets, packages of plant food and just about everything that a gardener could think of for the flower and vegetable garden.

In fact that winter side line of Mrs. Knupper's looks about like a main line and friend husband says that there is so much work now that there aren't any more long winter days to loaf around with nothing to do.

Of course pretty soon R. C. will have to get busy planting seeds for next year's crop of vegetable plants and the nursery will need attention, but meanwhile that nifty side line of the Mrs. will keep him busy.

And by the way, we at last raised a real crop of Burpee's hybrid tomatoes from Knupper's plants last summer. We had commented not too favorably in the past about that variety, but last summer we got a fine crop which by the way was a sort of accident for when we got around to get plants last spring all our favorite varieties were gone and we had to take what we could get which was Knupper's highly touted Burpee's hybrid and this time they did the business.

● CARELESS

Last Thursday about noon folks who were getting dinner suddenly found themselves without water and visions of the big wreck loomed up in people's minds.

But this time it was a broken water main. The workmen at the high school addition had broken a main while excavating despite the fact that they had a map of the area showing the location of the main and just how deep it was.

There was a hurried shutting off of valves that again put the north side out of water. Then that particular area was isolated by the closing of more valves and most folks had water again.

One fellow remarked when he found out what was wrong, "First a wreck, now a broken main—life's just one darn thing after another, isn't it?"

● MISSING

Have present day calendar makers forgotten that there is such a thing as a moon?

All calendars used to show the various phases of the moon, what dates the new moon arrived, the first quarter full moon, last quarter, etc., but now the calendars seem to have forgotten all about the moon and make no mention of it.

The old time almanacs which gave moon news information about eclipses, long range weather predictions and a lot of other useful information are also a thing of the past.

The disappearance of the old almanacs, the calendar information, etc., must be another sign of the changing times.

● THE OTHER SIDE

Received an announcement the other day that Jackson L. Boughner has joined the law firm of Temsey, Sherman, Rogers and Guthrie as a partner and that Mr. Boughner will specialize in federal tax matters.

Mr. Boughner was formerly a special attorney of the office of the chief counsel, Bureau of Internal Revenue. Jack who is a resident of Palanois Park, Palatine, will now have a chance to look at federal taxation from the other side of the table, first he represented the government, now he will represent the individual or corporation. Wonder how the picture will look?

● MERRY CHRISTMAS

We extend to all the readers of this column our best wishes for a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

May the holiday season and the coming year bring to you all the best of what life has to offer in these troubled times and may the real spirit of the Christmas season once again prevail in the world. May "peace on earth good will to men" at sometime in the near future be more than an empty phrase.

MOTHER'S DUTY

By the time a girl is 18 she is virtually on her own or fails, and whether she wrecks her life or saves it ,depends upon the principles her mother has bred into her.

All of the chaperoning a mother can do has to be done while her daughter is in the cradle. All of the protection a mother can give her daughter is to teach her how to protect herself.

So, I think the most important thing that a mother can do is to teach her daughter self-respect. Teach her to keep clean, physically and spiritually, and to value her body.

Every mother should teach her daughter to guard against her own weaknesses. She should teach her especially to guard herself against her own passions. All temptation comes from within. Teach a girl to guard herself against herself and you have done all that can be done to protect her.

In trying to protect your daughters, don't overdo it. A too-strict home is worse than a home that has no restrictions at all. Youth is going to have its pleasures. It prefers to take them decently at home, but if that is forbidden, it will find them abroad.

You can make boys welcome and see that they have a good time at your house and so know what sort of lads your daughters are associating with and what they are doing. Or, you can shut your door against them and have your girls tie to you about where they are going and pick up boys on the streets.

Give your daughters as good an education as they will take, but see to it that they are taught some way to support themselves. Teach them how to cook and how to sew, for on those two things depend not only her own convenience, but the wellbeing of her family.

Teach your girls good manners and the amenities of life. They are a woman's passport to every grade of society. If you will teach your daughters these things, the remainder will take care of itself.

Licking Envelopes

Envelopes and other gummed articles should not be licked for the purpose of sealing them. The tongue may be cut when wiped along the edge of the paper. If the tongue is used for this purpose it should be merely pressed against the gum in several places.

NEWS OF VIOLATORS

You have asked for comments concerning people who are offenders of our laws, and whether to publish their names or not. It is common, in many communities to publish the names of even those who have violated traffic laws, with their fines. All thru our towns and cities there are parents doing their best to bring their children up with a wholesome regard for our laws; to teach them respect for others' rights and property. Without these sound values as a foundation, it is easy to understand why so many of our youngsters are in jail. The record to date is not too good.

Part of the penalty for those who violate our laws is exposure of their wrongs, and the disgrace it brings to both the violator and their families. This point is one of the main steps in helping to prevent even more crime, and I am sure that many parents instruct their children in this truth. However, when morons who endanger our women and children, and others who are known offenders are not put in the pitiless spotlight of public opinion, we shield them and their crimes, and make it impossible for innocent victims of their deeds to know and guard against their outrages in the future.

Is the thief who steals the things that honest people have worked and paid for, the one to be considered and protected, when he doesn't give a darn about anyone but his own selfish greed? Is the moron who wrecks the health and future life of some child, the one to be protected, or does the child have first call on our sympathies? In my opinion, the honest worker who pays the bill for police protection, for our courts, buys food and housing in the jail, and parole supervision after the criminal gets out, is getting hit with a heavy bill for it.

And he buys your newspaper, too. Certainly his interests must come first; repeated violators must be exposed, as a public service, to protect the innocent and punish the guilty.

MARCH OF DIMES

The 1951 March of Dimes campaign, from January 15 to 31, will be a most crucial one. Three successive years of record polio epidemics have severely drained the funds of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and its chapters throughout the nation. The year 1950 will be second only to 1949, the peak national polio year, for incidence of the disease. In Cook county there will be more cases this year than in 1949.

Of the more than 30,000 persons stricken this year in the United States, 24,000 have received financial assistance from the Foundation. Hold-over cases from the previous two years have boosted the total case-load to 54,000. The Foundation is depending, therefore, on a vigorous 1951 March of Dimes to enable it to continue its vital program of financing patient care, polio research and education.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

Your reader who objects to the Christmas carols, is one opinion. Personally, they bring comfort from out the frosty air.

However, one song that might be omitted is, "I'll be home for Christmas." It is too much isn't it, with all leaves being cancelled?

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Dear Jane:

Christmas greetings to you and your dear ones from all of us here at Manapisu Farm!

Because our grandchild's birth occurred one week before Christmas, we feel we must make special plans so that her birthday gifts and celebration will be observed separately and apart from Christmas.

So on last Saturday, the 16th, all her presents were wrapped in pink and white ribbons and papers, her cake, an angel food confection in pink and white, her first party dress, pink and white organdy, though she sat amid the holiday decorations of green and red throughout the house.

It was a gala occasion! Her Mama and Daddy brought her and two of her aunties (who were visiting from Indianapolis) to the farm in time for lunch. We served almost immediately, because her mother and I could hardly wait to have lunch over so that we might see our little one open her gifts. We brought her new rocking chair with the Swiss music box attachment and sat her in it. While she rocked, the little box played "Rock-a-bye Baby." Megan sat in wonderment for a few minutes, and then squirmed around and we helped her out of the chair, and stood, grasped the arms, and moved the chair back and forth, apparently enjoying the musical sounds. After that, we sat on the floor with her packages around her, and gave her a present to open. We soon discovered that she needed help, so Mama suggested "Grams and Gramps" assist her. Of course, you know how we loved this!

When it came time for the candle blowing ceremony, her Mama dressed her in her "party dress," a gift from her Daddy and Mama. Then Grams took her hand, and we walked down the corridor to meet her "guests."

In her other hand she carried a gift for her Mama. It looked very much like a diploma, for it was a sheet of music, wrapped in a roll of white tissue paper and tied with a pink satin ribbon. When we reached the living room, Megan handed her Mama the gift when Grams said "give it to Mama, sweetheart." (I think all of us were touched by her little gesture). The cover page of the sheet music read, "Page d'Album," by Claude Debussy. "To my dearest Mama, on my first birthday, with my love, Megan." Patty is particularly fond of Debussy. Previously she had come across this little gem of his in an old Etude issue. Lyon and Healy unearthed a copy for me last week when I was in the city Christmas shopping.

The world is in a sorry state, we know, but we must hold fast to the things that are dear to our hearts. They always have been dear and we must see to it that they always are. The home and the family mean everything that is good and worthwhile to us in our country, and we will work toward maintaining them as long as there is breath in us.

I leave you for now with the beautiful thoughts of Grace Noll Crowell:

"Peace On Earth"

"Our God will not be mocked.
The Angels' singing
Was not vain words flung on the empty air,
But vital prophecy, and truth set winging
That will not be denied. Today's despair
Is pierced by golden shafts. The sunlight breaking
Its way through clouds should bid our darkness cease,
And ease our anxious hearts long numbed by aching.
There shall be peace on earth, there shall be peace!

Men will give glory to their God, and nations
Will yet turn to Him, unified at last;
Class after class of high and lowly stations
And race after race will turn, their warring past,
And brother will kneel by brother, each tongue naming
One name, and like a spring flood thus release
Their pent up praise, too long withheld, proclaiming
Him Counselor, the mighty God, the Prince of Peace.

With love, Mary.

Weekly recipes

During the next few weeks there'll be many occasions when a good supply of Holiday Cookies might save the day—or evening. Your guests will be pleased with Santa Fruit Squares or Yule Tide Oatmeal Cookies. These cookies are unusually delicious and I like to serve them with glasses of Egg-Nog. Egg-Nog is a dairy product which you may buy from your milk salesman or at your neighborhood store.

Santa Fruit Squares

2 Warranted Eggs
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2 tbsp. rum flavoring
½ cup chopped candied cherries
¼ cup chopped candied pineapple
¼ cup chopped citron
½ cup white raisins
¼ cup candied orange peel
1 cup chopped pecans
1 cup and 2 tbsp all purpose flour
3/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. double acting baking powder

Method: Sift flour, salt and baking powder together and sprinkle over chopped fruit and nuts. Blend until all pieces are well coated with flour. Beat eggs until thick; add sugar and then rum flavoring. Add all to flour mixture. Pour into 7"x11" pan which has been lined with brown paper and well oiled. Bake in preheated oven at 325 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes. Cut in squares while warm and roll in powdered sugar and chopped cocoanut.

Yule Tide Oatmeal Cookies

1 cup sugar
½ cup butter
2 Warranted Eggs
6 tbsp. milk
1 cup pecans chopped
½ cup diced candied fruits
1½ cups rolled oats
1½ cups all purpose flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. cinnamon

Method: Cream butter and sugar together; add eggs and blend well; add oats. Sift flour, salt, baking powder and cinnamon together and sift over nuts and fruits. Add to first mixture alternately with milk. Mix well. Drop on buttered cookie sheet using a teaspoon, place 1 inch apart. Bake in preheated oven at 400 degrees for 12 minutes.

Yield: 3 dozen cookies.

BY LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

The other day my son and I were discussing the ways of man. I suggested that men are naturally selfish, that everything they do is being done because of a selfish motive.

"Dad, I think you are using the wrong word," my budding pride replied with just a touch of mounting reddness in his cheeks. "Selfishness isn't a bad word in itself, but the way it is used now days it has a bad connotation. Perhaps self-centered is the word we need."

"Connotation — connotation?" I repeated inwardly, keeping up a poker face. "Now what does that word mean?"

My son continued talking about the meanings of the two words until he chanced to look at what I thought was my poker face, when he stopped suddenly and looked me straight in the eyes.

"Connotation is an emotion that a word arouses in the listener," he explained. "The word 'selfish', while originally meaning much the same as self centered, has come into disrepute because it now infers a disagreeable personality trait, and arouses a feeling of dislike. But of course, I didn't need to tell you that, dad!"

"Um—, no, of course not, son," I mumbled with a show at knowing. Inwardly, I thanked him for being so tactful about it.

But he deftly showed me that we were talking about the same thing. Man is definitely self centered, but not always selfish.

And we finally concluded that environment, training and background were the three most important means of saving mankind.

Teach a child to love goodness, and his self-centered nature will tend to be pleased at the opportunity of doing and thinking good things. Teach him to find pleasure in badness, and that same anture will tend to take pleasure in doing and thinking things that are evil.

A person who has grown up in an environment where friends are important will value friendship. In an environment of honesty, he will tend to be honest. In an environment of selfishness, thievery or brutality, he will tend to become selfish, thievish or brutal.

Bring a child up in a christian family, and in the atmosphere of a church, teach him to believe in and read the Bible, and though he may stray for a while, he will almost always come back to the things he believed in and loved as a child.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dickinson have returned from a week's honeymoon trip through the Southern states.

Next Sunday morning the Long Grove church will have a dedication service for the memorial gifts of chancel furniture, altar appointments, and new hymnals.

Members of the Women's Guild and their guests enjoyed a Christmas party Thursday afternoon at the church.

Joseph Dabner, who has been a patient at the Condell hospital in Libertyville for the past two weeks, underwent surgery Friday.

The traditional Candlelight Carol service of the Long Grove church will be held Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The church-time nursery will be available to parents who wish to leave their children in the Sunday school rooms during the service.

Mrs. Martin Wulff attended a Ladies Aid Christmas party at the Washburn church, Halfday, Thursday afternoon.

Kenneth and Charles Haseman have arrived home from Bradley college, Peoria, to spend their Christmas vacation with their parents.

Holy communion will be celebrated Christmas morning at 10 o'clock in the Long Grove church.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wulff attended a pot luck dinner at the Washburn church, Halfday, Sunday. After the dinner, those present helped decorate the church for the Christmas season.

Mrs. August LaMarche, daughters, Marilyn and Annette, were Waukegan shoppers Monday evening.

University of Illinois offers $450 scholarship for community survey

The University of Illinois announced a $450 scholarship to be awarded to the Illinois high school senior submitting the best survey—in the form of a written report—on a subject in the field of local government. The scholarship may be used in any kind of university study.

Established in 1949 by Charles J. Merriam through a gift to the U. of I. foundation, the scholarship bears the name of the donor's father, Charles E. Merriam, professor emeritus and former chairman of the department of political science at the University of Chicago.

Surveys are to be on one of these subjects: 1—Recent Improvements in Local Government in My Community (city, county, or general); 2—Needed Improvements in the Government of My City (or county); 3—Citizen Interest in Local Government in My Community (as reflected by recent elections and the work of civic organizations and other groups); or 4—A subject selected by the contestant dealing with some aspect of local government in his community.

Reports are to be submitted before next May 1 to Charles M. Kneier, chairman, Department of Political Science, 301 Lincoln Hall, University of Illinois, Urbana. The winning survey will be selected by a faculty committee, and the name of the winner will be announced June 1.

Lessons in English

Words often misused

Do not say, "I am most nearly ready." Say, "I am nearly (or, almost) ready."

Avoid saying, "He claimed that he knew nothing of the theft." It is better to say, "He declared (stated, maintained) that he knew nothing of the theft."

Do not say, "I am anxious to meet him." Avoid the use of anxious unless there is an implication of real anxiety, as, "I am anxious about his safety." Say, "I am eager to meet him."

Do not say, "He studied every night so he could make good grades." Say, "He studied every night so that he could make good grades."

Do not say, "You would have been delighted had you have gone." Omit the second have. Say, "You would have been delighted had you gone."

Do not say, "I think her father is going on seventy." Say, "I think her father is approaching seventy."

Words often mispronounced

Foyer. Pronounce fwa-ya, first a as in ah, second a as in way, accent second syllable.

Forecaster. Accent second syllable, not the first.

Accuracy. Pronounce the u as in cue, and not ak-er-a-si.

Cleanly (adjective and adverb). Pronounce the e in the adjective as men. Pronounce the e in the adverb as in lean.

Calm. Pronounce the a as in ah, and the l is silent.

Cairo (Egypt); pronounce ki-ro, i as in kite. Cairo (Illinois); pronounce ka-ro, a as in day.

Words often misspelled

Salary, ary; celery, ery. Contemptible (inspiring contempt); contemptuous (in a manner expressing contempt of). Eccentric, observe the ecc; exception, observe the exc. Palatable (agreeable to the taste); palpable (obvious). Accompaniment: observe the two c's and the i. Suit (of clothes); suite (of rooms).

Word study

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Insidious; treacherous; sly; lurking. "The insidious conspiracy was uncovered."

Impassioned; full of warm feeling; ardent. "His impassioned words aroused the listeners."

Mendacity; falsehood; prevarication; lie. "Any display of mendacity destroys faith and confidence."

Visualize; to construct an image of in the mind. "No one who has not seen these beauties of nature can possibly visualize them."

Stipulation; any condition in an argument. "He granted the favor with the stipulation that we assist him."

Creditable; sufficiently good to bring esteem; deserving of praise. "You have accomplished the work in a very creditable manner."

Benjamin hails 50 years of electrical progress

Back in 1901, when electricity was still in its infancy, four men who foresaw the great future of the electrical industry, founded the Benjamin Electric Mfg. Company. These men, Reuben B. Benjamin, Walter D. Steele, Keene H. Addington and Walter Clyde Jones, pioneered many of the important developments in lighting equipment.

Today, fifty years later, Benjamin with its large modern factory and offices in Des Plaines, proudly celebrates its Golden Anniversary. Leading the celebration is W. D. Steele, president, one of the original founders who still actively participates in the management of the company. His son, Hoyt P. Steele, now is executive vice-president of the company. Mr. Benjamin's son, R. Allen Benjamin, now is secretary of the corporation and sons of the other founders are members of the board of directors.

One of the major steps in the growth of the company was the consolidation with the Royal Enameling and Mfg. Company, then headed by J. H. Fall, Jr. His son, J. H. Fall, III, is now vice-president in charge of sales and on the board of directors. C. F. W. Alfvin is treasurer and also a director of the company.

PERHAPS THE first important Benjamin contribution to the electrical industry was the development of he Benjamin Wireless Cluster. This product was originally designed to provide economically higher levels of lighting from the old carbon filament lamps. The need and demand for these clusters has continued down through the years and during World War II large quantities of this product were supplied the Maritime Commission by Benjamin.

From this small beginning with one major item Benjamin has grown into one of the leading manufacturers of the industrial, incandescent and fluorescent lighting equipment, floodlights and industrial howlers, manufacturing over two thousand products. Benjamin also has a separate division engaged in the manufacture of porcelain enameled washing machine tubs.

Throughout its history the company has been actively identified with the growth of the electrical and lighting industries. It took part in the organization of the Industrial and Commercial lighting section of NEMA, of Illuminating Engineering Society, the RLM Specification and Certification program and has thrown its full support to all other significant activities which promote progress in the Art and Science of illumination.

sleeplessness

Many insomniacs have a negative attitude toward sleep. They are afraid that when they get to bed they won't be able to get to sleep, so they don't. If they would adjust their mental attitudes, and not worry about not sleeping, they might not have any trouble at all—unless their bedding has seen its best days.

The University of Illinois announced a $450 scholarship to be awarded to the Illinois high school senior submitting the best survey—in the form of a written report—on a subject in the field of local government. The scholarship may be used in any kind of university study.

Established in 1949 by Charles J. Merriam through a gift to the U. of I. foundation, the scholarship bears the name of the donor's father, Charles E. Merriam, professor emeritus and former chairman of the department of political science at the University of Chicago.

Surveys are to be on one of these subjects: 1—Recent Improvements in Local Government in My Community (city, county, or general); 2—Needed Improvements in the Government of My City (or county); 3—Citizen Interest in Local Government in My Community (as reflected by recent elections and the work of civic organizations and other groups); or 4—A subject selected by the contestant dealing with some aspect of local government in his community.

Reports are to be submitted before next May 1 to Charles M. Kneier, chairman, Department of Political Science, 301 Lincoln Hall, University of Illinois, Urbana. The winning survey will be selected by a faculty committee, and the name of the winner will be announced June 1.

Lessons in English

Words often misused

Do not say, "I am most nearly ready." Say, "I am nearly (or, almost) ready."

Avoid saying, "He claimed that he knew nothing of the theft." It is better to say, "He declared (stated, maintained) that he knew nothing of the theft."

Do not say, "I am anxious to meet him." Avoid the use of anxious unless there is an implication of real anxiety, as, "I am anxious about his safety." Say, "I am eager to meet him."

Do not say, "He studied every night so he could make good grades." Say, "He studied every night so that he could make good grades."

Do not say, "You would have been delighted had you have gone." Omit the second have. Say, "You would have been delighted had you gone."

Do not say, "I think her father is going on seventy." Say, "I think her father is approaching seventy."

Words often mispronounced

Foyer. Pronounce fwa-ya, first a as in ah, second a as in way, accent second syllable.

Forecaster. Accent second syllable, not the first.

Accuracy. Pronounce the u as in cue, and not ak-er-a-si.

Cleanly (adjective and adverb). Pronounce the e in the adjective as men. Pronounce the e in the adverb as in lean.

Calm. Pronounce the a as in ah, and the l is silent.

Cairo (Egypt); pronounce ki-ro, i as in kite. Cairo (Illinois); pronounce ka-ro, a as in day.

Words often misspelled

Salary, ary; celery, ery. Contemptible (inspiring contempt); contemptuous (in a manner expressing contempt of). Eccentric, observe the ecc; exception, observe the exc. Palatable (agreeable to the taste); palpable (obvious). Accompaniment; observe the two c's and the i. Suit (of clothes); suite (of rooms).

Word study

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Insidious; treacherous; sly; lurking. "The insidious conspiracy was uncovered."

Impassioned; full of warm feeling; ardent. "His impassioned words aroused the listeners."

Visualize; to construct an image of in the mind. "No one who has not seen these beauties of nature can possibly visualize them."

Stipulation; any condition in an argument. "He granted the favor with the stipulation that we assist him."

Creditable; sufficiently good to bring esteem; deserving of praise. "You have accomplished the work in a very creditable manner."

Benjamin hails 50 years of electrical progress

Back in 1901, when electricity was still in its infancy, four men who foresaw the great future of the electrical industry, founded the Benjamin Electric Mfg. Company. These men, Reuben B. Benjamin, Walter D. Steele, Keene H. Addington and Walter Clyde Jones, pioneered many of the important developments in lighting equipment.

Today, fifty years later, Benjamin with its large modern factory and offices in Des Plaines, proudly celebrates its Golden Anniversary. Leading the celebration is W. D. Steele, president, one of the original founders who still actively participates in the management of the company. His son, Hoyt P. Steele, now is executive vice-president of the company. Mr. Benjamin's son, R. Allen Benjamin, now is secretary of the corporation and sons of the other founders are members of the board of directors.

One of the major steps in the growth of the company was the consolidation with the Royal Enameling and Mfg. Company, then headed by J. H. Fall, Jr. His son, J. H. Fall, III, is now vice-president in charge of sales and on the board of directors. C. F. W. Alfvin is treasurer and also a director of the company.

PERHAPS THE first important Benjamin contribution to the electrical industry was the development of he Benjamin Wireless Cluster. This product was originally designed to provide economically higher levels of lighting from the old carbon filament lamps. The need and demand for these clusters has continued down through the years and during World War II large quantities of this product were supplied the Maritime Commission by Benjamin.

From this small beginning with one major item Benjamin has grown into one of the leading manufacturers of the industrial, incandescent and fluorescent lighting equipment, floodlights and industrial howlers, manufacturing over two thousand products. Benjamin also has a separate division engaged in the manufacture of porcelain enameled washing machine tubs.

Throughout its history the company has been actively identified with the growth of the electrical and lighting industries. It took part in the organization of the Industrial and Commercial lighting section of NEMA, of Illuminating Engineering Society, the RLM Specification and Certification program and has thrown its full support to all other significant activities which promote progress in the Art and Science of illumination.

Many insomniacs have a negative attitude toward sleep. They are afraid that when they get to bed they won't be able to get to sleep, so they don't. If they would adjust their mental attitudes, and not worry about not sleeping, they might not have any trouble at all—unless their bedding has seen its best days.

Consult

for the answer to this insurance problem.

My neighbor has replaced his Household Goods Fire Policy with all-risk Personal Property Insurance. He says this covers furs, jewelry, cameras, sporting goods, as well as furnishings from all kinds of loss or damage. Would this also cover Christmas presents of the family?

The famous F-1 Pickup . . . with new features for '51! Plus an important money-saving advancement . . . the Ford POWER PILOT, standard on ALL new Ford Trucks for '51, from 95-h.p. Pickups to 145-h.p. BIG JOBS!
The heavy duty champion! . . . the new F-5 for '51. This truck outsells any other truck in the 1½-ton field! New 5-STAR EXTRA Cab offers many extra comforts . . . available at extra cost on Ford Trucks, Series F-1 through F-8.

NEW FORD TRUCKS for '51
FEATURE POWER PILOT ECONOMY

FOR 1951, more than ever, economy-wise truck buyers are going to follow the trend to Ford!

New Ford Trucks for '51 give you step-ahead engineering advantages, such as America's only truck choice of V-8 or Six . . . a choice of over 180 models to fit your hauling job better . . . strength reserves that make Ford Trucks last longer.

You'll find these new features in engines, clutch, transmissions, axles, wheels, cabs, Pickup body—wherever there have been opportunities to make Ford Trucks do a better job for you, for less money!

Ford's POWER PILOT is especially important to you . . . for it's a PROVEN money-saver, on every hauling job.

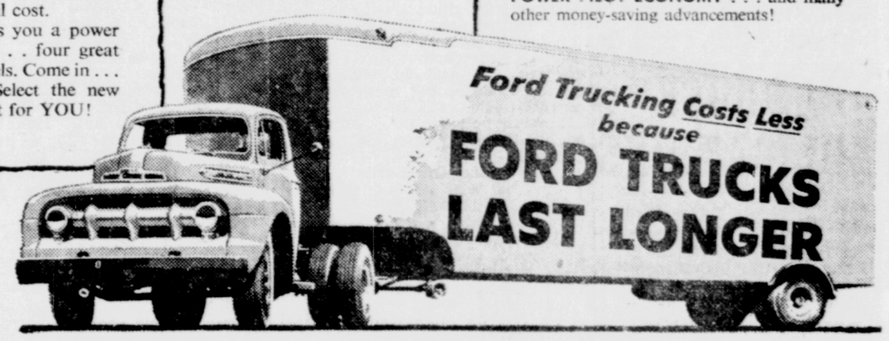

Driver comfort, too, gets plenty of attention in new Ford Trucks for '51. There is the new 5-STAR Cab and the optional 5-STAR EXTRA Cab featuring foam rubber seat padding, glass wool roof insulation, automatic dome light and many other comfort extras at only slight additional cost.

And only Ford gives you a power choice of V-8 or Six . . . four great engines! Over 180 models. Come in . . . Get ALL the facts. Select the new Ford Truck that's right for YOU!

All heavy duty F-5 and F-6 Fords for '51, like this Dump, give you easier, quieter shifting with new, 4-Speed Synchro-Silent transmission, optional at extra cost.

The Ford Truck Power Pilot is a simpler, fully-proven way of getting the most power from the least gas.
It automatically meters and fires the right amount of gas, at precisely the right instant, to match constantly changing speed, load and power requirements.
Unlike conventional systems, the Power Pilot uses only one control instead of two, yet is designed to synchronize firing twice as accurately.
You can use regular gas . . . you get no-knock performance. Only Ford in the low-price field gives you Power Pilot Economy!

NEW FEATURES THROUGHOUT
New massive, modern front end and exterior styling makes Ford the '51 favorite for "good looks"!
New 5-STAR Cabs feature bigger rear window—with up to 50% more safety vision.
New "grain-tight" Pickup body, new clutch disc, new transmissions, new wheels assure still longer life.
New autothermic pistons with chrome-plated top rings, new high-lift camshafts for top performance, longer engine life.
POWER PILOT ECONOMY . . . and many other money-saving advancements!

THE ARMY NEEDS YOU!!

The United States Army needs red-blooded men now as it never has before.

Your future, the future of your family and the future of the United States is at stake. You, American Youth, are the only ones who can do something about it with your enlistment now in the U.S. Army.

TEAM WORK NEEDED!

Hundreds of specialized operations must be filled by you young men, the backbone of our country. Radiomen, cooks, electricians, drivers, mechanics, radar operators, carpenters, etc. are needed, and men with qualifications along those lines will be given additional Army training to develop themselves, and build a career.

THE U.S. IS US!

The United States is you—us—all of us. If you believe in your country—a free democracy that gives you every advantage in the world—an Army that gives you the best food in the world, clothes you, houses you and provides free medical and dental care as you train and learn, then you will take advantage of the opportunities offered by the greatest Army in all history.

Stockholders approve public service merger

Stockholders have approved the merger of Western United Gas and Electric Company and Illinois Northern Utilities Company into Public Service Company of Northern Illinois and elected eight new members to the Public Service Company board of directors, it was announced today by Charles Y. Freeman, Public Service chairman.

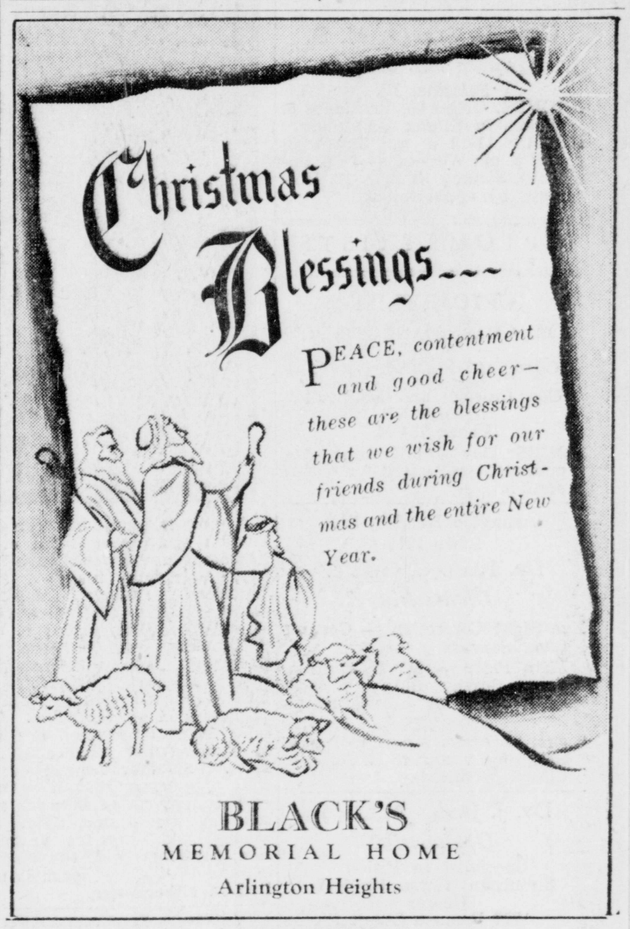

The eight new directors, all of whom formerly served on either the Western United or Illinois Northern boards, bring the total board membership of the enlarged corporation to seventeen. The new members are Preston A. Boyd, vice president, Henny Motor Company, Freeport; Harry E. Burkholder, general manager and treasurer (retired), Hardware Products Company, Sterling; R. F. List, executive vice president and director of sales, National Sewing Machine Company, Belvidere; Edward Vaile, president, Edward Vaile Clothing Company, Dixon.

L. S. Stephens, president, Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Company, Aurora; P. L. McPheeters, president, Wheaton National Bank, Wheaton; Walter I. Jones, president and treasurer, Farrell Manufacturing Company, Joliet; and Bernard E. Giertz, president (retired), Charles E. Giertz & Sons, and director, The First National Bank of Elgin, Elgin.

The nine continuing directors include Britton I. Budd, James D. Cunningham, Albert B. Dick, Jr., Stanley Field, Charles Y. Freeman, Willis Gale, William J. Kelly, Joseph H. King, and John Wentworth.

Mr. Budd, Public Service president, said that the merger of the three companies will be a distinct advantage to the public in meeting future gas and electric needs and provide a more efficient means of furnishing adequate service to the homes, farms and industries in the 11,000 square-mile area of northern Illinois to be served by the enlarged organization.

The merger previously had been approved by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

CHEERFUL VALUES for CHRISTMAS SAVINGS!
CHRISTMAS FOODS for CHEERFUL FEASTING!

THE ARMY NEEDS YOU!!

The United States Army needs red-blooded men now as it never has before.

Your future, the future of your family and the future of the United States is at stake. You, American Youth, are the only ones who can do something about it with your enlistment now in the U.S. Army.

TEAM WORK NEEDED!

Hundreds of specialized operations must be filled by you young men, the backbone of our country. Radiomen, cooks, electricians, drivers, mechanics, radar operators, carpenters, etc. are needed, and men with qualifications along those lines will be given additional Army training to develop themselves, and build a career.

THE U.S. IS US!

The United States is you—us—all of us. If you believe in your country—a free democracy that gives you every advantage in the world—an Army that gives you the best food in the world, clothes you, houses you and provides free medical and dental care as you train and learn, then you will take advantage of the opportunities offered by the greatest Army in all history.

Stockholders approve public service merger

Stockholders have approved the merger of Western United Gas and Electric Company and Illinois Northern Utilities Company into Public Service Company of Northern Illinois and elected eight new members to the Public Service Company board of directors, it was announced today by Charles Y. Freeman, Public Service chairman.

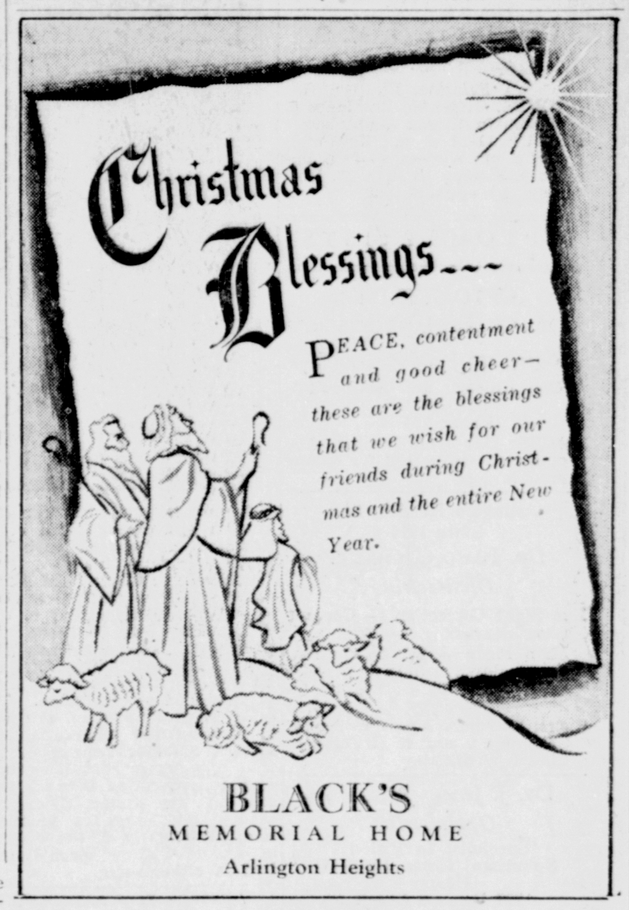

The eight new directors, all of whom formerly served on either the Western United or Illinois Northern boards, bring the total board membership of the enlarged corporation to seventeen. The new members are Preston A. Boyd, vice president, Henny Motor Company, Freeport; Harry E. Burkholder, general manager and treasurer (retired), Hardware Products Company, Sterling; R. F. List, executive vice president and director of sales, National Sewing Machine Company, Belvidere; Edward Vaile, president, Edward Vaile Clothing Company, Dixon.

L. S. Stephens, president, Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Company, Aurora; P. L. McPheeters, president, Wheaton National Bank, Wheaton; Walter I. Jones, president and treasurer, Farrell Manufacturing Company, Joliet; and Bernard E. Giertz, president (retired), Charles E. Giertz & Sons, and director, The First National Bank of Elgin, Elgin.

The nine continuing directors include Britton I. Budd, James D. Cunningham, Albert B. Dick, Jr., Stanley Field, Charles Y. Freeman, Willis Gale, William J. Kelly, Joseph H. King, and John Wentworth.

Mr. Budd, Public Service president, said that the merger of the three companies will be a distinct advantage to the public in meeting future gas and electric needs and provide a more efficient means of furnishing adequate service to the homes, farms and industries in the 11,000 square-mile area of northern Illinois to be served by the enlarged organization.

The merger previously had been approved by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Pass-through saves plenty of walking

JUST DOGS

Christmas Puppy

Every year about this time the dog editor brings up that old suggestion that you buy your Christmas puppy before the 25th in order that the pup and the family can become just a little better acquainted.

It is far better to get into the routine of taking care of the puppy before Christmas day inasmuch as on that day there always seems to be so much activity that sometimes the new puppy has a hard time keeping up with everyone, getting fed, plus that most important item of being housebroken. If a set method of taking care of the pup has been established then a lot of trouble can be eliminated.

Above all remember that the pup will be around the rest of the year so don't make a big fuss over him on one or two days and then sort of let things slide as far as his care and regular feeding are concerned.

Juvenile Jury

The "Juvenile Jury" radio program heard Sunday evenings over the Mutual network from 6:30 to 7:00 P. M. C.S.T. will feature the following dogs in their "Dog of the Week" spot during January.

For those of you who listen to the program here are the dogs. The Airedale is scheduled for January 7, the Miniature Pinscher for January 14, the Pointer for January 21 and the Bull-Mastiff for January 28.

Lost Dog

The following was heard in the course of a "Hunting and Fishing Club of the Air" program: If you lose your dog when out hunting, place an old hunting coat or some piece of your clothing on the ground where you last saw him. The next day simply go to where you left your old coat and usually you will find your dog curled up on it. A dog generally returns to the place he started from and will nearly always hang around where his master's scent is.

Barks and Bays

So you think you have trouble taking care of one dog — Harry Lawrence, Fairbanks, Alaska, for 38 years a mail carrier by dog team, has driven as many as 35 dogs in a single team.

And with that parting thought your dog editor wishes you a very Merry Christmas and a most prosperous and Happy New Year.

Springer meeting

The Great Lakes English Springer Spaniel Breeders Association held their final meeting for the year at Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Herwegs on Oakton st., Arlington Hts. Twenty-two members were present. A discussion on Springers filled the evening.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Christine Kumbera, Mrs. Broberg, and Mrs. Alice Herweg.

The next Springer meeting will be held Jan. 9, 1951, at Miss Janet Henneberry's home.

Dog wins honors

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Herweg of Elk Grove Kennels, have told us that the New English Springer Spaniel they have acquired, Frejax Firebrand Fluff, has taken one "best of Breed" and placed fourth in Sporting group at Albion, Mich., December 3. He also took Best of Breed and placed third in Sporting group December 10 at Danville, Ill. Richard Cooper, Elmhurst, handled the dog.

Wins championship at Navy Pier

Thurmers Neta, a nine month old chihuahua owned by Mrs. Tressa Thurmer, Rand rd., Palatine, recently won best in show at the Western Specialty show held at Navy Pier, Chicago.

This win gave Neta her championship, which she won in two months. She also took best of breed and best of winners over 122 chihuahua opponents. Neta received four large trophies, one of which is pictured here with Neta and Mrs. Thurmer. Neta weighs about 2 3/4 pounds, and has a friendly disposition.

One of Mrs. Thurmer's males, Staar Rusty, won best of opposite sex at this show, winning a $78 coffee server donated by the Toy Dog club of the Carolinas.

Mrs. Thurmer shows these dogs all over the United States and has some of the finest blue ones in the country. Blue is the rarest color and the color the Mexicans hold as sacred their dogs. This color is produced through years of selective breeding.

Mrs. Thurmer has been breeding chihuahuas since 1933, and now has a kennel of 100 registered dogs. She is president of the Chihuahua Club of America and has finished seven champions in 1950.

Pass-through saves plenty of walking

JUST DOGS

Christmas Puppy

Every year about this time the dog editor brings up that old suggestion that you buy your Christmas puppy before the 25th in order that the pup and the family can become just a little better acquainted.

It is far better to get into the routine of taking care of the puppy before Christmas day inasmuch as on that day there always seems to be so much activity that sometimes the new puppy has a hard time keeping up with everyone, getting fed, plus that most important item of being housebroken. If a set method of taking care of the pup has been established then a lot of trouble can be eliminated.

Above all remember that the pup will be around the rest of the year so don't make a big fuss over him on one or two days and then sort of let things slide as far as his care and regular feeding are concerned.

Juvenile Jury

The "Juvenile Jury" radio program heard Sunday evenings over the Mutual network from 6:30 to 7:00 P. M. C.S.T. will feature the following dogs in their "Dog of the Week" spot during January.

For those of you who listen to the program here are the dogs. The Airedale is scheduled for January 7, the Miniature Pinscher for January 14, the Pointer for January 21 and the Bull-Mastiff for January 28.

Lost Dog

The following was heard in the course of a "Hunting and Fishing Club of the Air" program: If you lose your dog when out hunting, place an old hunting coat or some piece of your clothing on the ground where you last saw him. The next day simply go to where you left your old coat and usually you will find your dog curled up on it. A dog generally returns to the place he started from and will nearly always hang around where his master's scent is.

Barks and Bays

So you think you have trouble taking care of one dog — Harry Lawrence, Fairbanks, Alaska, for 38 years a mail carrier by dog team, has driven as many as 35 dogs in a single team.

And with that parting thought your dog editor wishes you a very Merry Christmas and a most prosperous and Happy New Year.

Springer meeting

The Great Lakes English Springer Spaniel Breeders Association held their final meeting for the year at Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Herwegs on Oakton st., Arlington Hts. Twenty-two members were present. A discussion on Springers filled the evening.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Christine Kumbera, Mrs. Broberg, and Mrs. Alice Herweg.

The next Springer meeting will be held Jan. 9, 1951, at Miss Janet Henneberry's home.

Dog wins honors

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Herweg of Elk Grove Kennels, have told us that the New English Springer Spaniel they have acquired, Frejax Firebrand Fluff, has taken one "best of Breed" and placed fourth in Sporting group at Albion, Mich., December 3. He also took Best of Breed and placed third in Sporting group December 10 at Danville, Ill. Richard Cooper, Elmhurst, handled the dog.

Wins championship at Navy Pier

Thurmers Neta, a nine month old chihuahua owned by Mrs. Tressa Thurmer, Rand rd., Palatine, recently won best in show at the Western Specialty show held at Navy Pier, Chicago.

This win gave Neta her championship, which she won in two months. She also took best of breed and best of winners over 122 chihuahua opponents. Neta received four large trophies, one of which is pictured here with Neta and Mrs. Thurmer. Neta weighs about 2 3/4 pounds, and has a friendly disposition.

One of Mrs. Thurmer's males, Staar Rusty, won best of opposite sex at this show, winning a $78 coffee server donated by the Toy Dog club of the Carolinas.

Mrs. Thurmer shows these dogs all over the United States and has some of the finest blue ones in the country. Blue is the rarest color and the color the Mexicans hold as sacred their dogs. This color is produced through years of selective breeding.

Mrs. Thurmer has been breeding chihuahuas since 1933, and now has a kennel of 100 registered dogs. She is president of the Chihuahua Club of America and has finished seven champions in 1950.

Make over small, inefficient lamps

If you've ever wondered if a small size lamp does an efficient lighting job, just study the before and after photographs above for a minute.

As you can see in the "before" picture on the lower right, a short lamp gives a small, confined circle of light that can only light about one-half of the book or magazine you are reading.

Helping a short lamp grow up to the size recommended by lighting experts for good lighting equipment is a fairly easy job once you know what to do.

First of all, you must give the lamp height. The small hobnail base in the "after" picture above was raised with the aid of a six-inch wooden base turned out in a basement workshop. Raise the base enough to bring the lamp socket and bottom edge of the shade 15 inches above the desk or table top.

Notice how the small, overly-bright shade was replaced with a larger shade 15 inches in diameter at the bottom. This is important not only for better appearance but for a wider spread of light.

Although you can't see it in the photographs, the lighting unit under the shade was modernized too for better lighting results. The 60-watt bare bulb was replaced with a 150-watt inside frosted bulb and an eight-inch plastic diffusing bowl was added to soften the light.

When remodeling a small lamp for a study desk keep in mind that the new shade should not be too dark in color nor too transparent to light.

Many GIs do not name wives as beneficiaries

It is always a shock to widows of war veterans to learn that the departed spouses did not name them as beneficiaries in their G. I. insurance policies, the Illinois Veterans Commission said.

Many veterans guilty of such neglect are those who were not married at the time they took out National Service Life Insurance in the armed forces and following discharge and subsequent marriage failed to change the beneficiaries in their policies. Most of them named their mother or father to be recipient of insurance payments..

In many instances, the IVC said, parents have voluntarily turned over the insurance to the widow or children of the veteran's family. But there have been some cases where the beneficiary, other than the widow or children, claimed the money.

Service officers of the Illinois Veterans Commission have been urged to ascertain that veterans with G. I. insurance have not neglected to change beneficiaries. It has been estimated that several hundred thousand veterans have never done so.

IVC offices are located at 164 N. Marion, Oak Park; 213 Liberty building, Wheaton; and 634 Davis, Evanston.

Bits o' business

The manpower situation is expected to be the most critical defense problem faced by the U. S., far exceeding our material and production problems. By next summer the civilian labor force is expected to be under industry's requirements.

Republican women of 13th district form permanent campaign organization

At a recent victory luncheon meeting held in Evanston, the Republican women of the 13th Congressional District made permanent a special purpose campaign organization which operated so effectively in the last campaign. This organization, whose charter has now been granted, is, and will be knokn as, the Women's Republican club, 13th Congressional District of Illinois. The 13th Congressional District includes 13 townships in Cook county and all of Lake county, covering an area from W. North ave. to Elgin, to Barrington, all of the north shore and up thru all of Lake county, and in the past election cast a vote of over 170,000 for the office of congress.

It's representative in Congress is Marguerite Stitt Church of Evanston.

The Women's Republican club, functioning specially since February of this year, promoted many successful rallies for the GOP candidates and is credited with having much to do with the smashing GOP victories on November 7. It's efforts to stimulate and co-ordinate the work of the women in the district is recognized and is highly commended by the Central committees of both Lake and Cook county. It's planning committees and leadership have been responsible for the formation and organization of sturdy new, fast growing community Republican clubs and for directing the efforts of the volunteer women workers in the precincts.

The purpose of the newly organized Women's Republican club is to continue the militant drive thus far advanced toward 1952 to elect a Republican president, to at all times, aid the Republican candidates in the district, to form an all-out working organization to effectively promote Republicanism, to keep the women informed of the great need of their continuous efforts, to spread Republicanism to the younger women especially, who have never known a Republican administration and to inspire them to work toward that goal, and to advise and impress upon them their sacred responsibility in governmental affairs.

In concluding her remarks to the ladies at the luncheon meeting, Mrs. Church, newly elected congresswoman of the district said: "I believe that unity as well as union can produce untold and wonderful results and that the election in November definitely proved that women working shoulder to shoulder with each other and with the men, could produce Republican victory. That our goal now is a Republican president in 1952 and I take delight in seeing this informal association of undaunted Republican women who have proved what they can do, now banding together without any loss of momentum or enthusiasm into a permanent association which will work every moment of every day to bring about a complete Republican success in 1952."

The club unanimously agreed that its mission is to stop communist appeasement at home and abroad, high government spending and the high cost of living, high taxes, socialistic policies such as the Brannan Plan and socialized medicine, waste and the incompetence and corruption at national and state levels.

Officers elected for the coming year are: Mrs. Alverta Stewart, River Grove, chairman; Mrs. William L. Winters, Highland Park, co-chairman; Mrs. George Hieber, Arlington Heights, vice-chairman; Mrs. Willard Wiard, Waukegan, vice-chairman; Mrs. Daniel Boyer, Lake Villa, recording secretary; Mrs. Melvin Z. Bennett, Evanston, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Florence Luckner, Mt. Prospect, treasurer; Mrs. James Cathcart, Lake Forest, program chairman; Mrs. Dean Lake Traxler, Evanston, by-laws chairman; Mrs. Irl Marshall,

That our goal now is a Republican president in 1952 and I take delight in seeing this informal association of undaunted Republican women who have proved what they can do, now banding together without any loss of momentum or enthusiasm into a permanent association which will work every moment of every day to bring about a complete Republican success in 1952."

The club unanimously agreed that its mission is to stop communist appeasement at home and abroad, high government spending and the high cost of living, high taxes, socialistic policies such as the Brannan Plan and socialized medicine, waste and the incompetence and corruption at national and state levels.

Arlington man to speak to career group

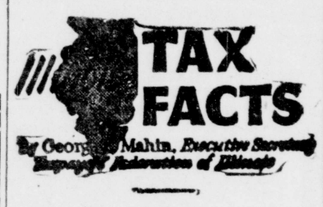

H. W. Dotts, of 600 Banbury rd., Arlington Heights, will discuss "Careers in Sales and Sales Promotion" during the third annual Chicago Area Career conference December 27, 28, and 29 at Illinois Institute of Technology.

Counselling by 200 experts in more than 60 fields of business, education, and industry will be offered during the three-day meeting.

Sponsored by the Chicago Sun-Times, the Chicago Technical Council, and Illinois Tech, the sessions are free and open to all public and parochial high school and junior college students.

The purpose of the conference is to acquaint students with various fields of work—emphasizing requirements, advantages, and disadvantages of each.

Dotts is vice president and sales manager for Jewel Tea Co., Inc.

A large truck and tractor loaded with steel from Pennsylvania bound for the Waukegan area, when checked for overloading recently by the Illinois State Highway police, was found to have an excess weight reported to be 22,000 pounds, or 11 tons.

The driver was fined $100 plus $4 in court costs and was required to lighten his load to the prescribed gross maximum of 72,000 pounds stipulated for his truck which was a tractor semi trailer towing a two-axel trailer.

The truck freight rate for flat steel between Pennsylvania and Waukegan is 76 cents per hundred pounds. On the 22,000 pound overload the trucker could have made $167.20 if he had not been caught. After his fine, however, he still had a profit of $63.20 on the overload, which could be lessened by the expense and delay of lightening his load and reloading on a second vehicle.

When the trucker avoids arrest, his overload is all extra profit. Thus, it is a good business for the trucker to violate the load limit laws if he can consistently get away with it. Chiseling truckers try. But the majority of the legitimate operators believe it is extremely bad business and should be halted.

Under the present law, the maximum fine for a first offender is $150, with no minimum; the second fine runs from $50 up to $250; and the third fine is from $150 to $350, all in the same year, and involving the same driver and the same vehicle. An illegitimate operator, deliberately overloading, can stay within the "first offense" category simply by alternating trucks and drivers interminably.

The Illinois law needs to be strengthened. It seems fair that funds collected for violating the truck load limit laws should be used exclusively for highway repair, maintenance, and construction. Now, if the trucker is arrested in a municipality, he is tried by a police magistrate and the fine goes to the corporate fund for street purposes. This doesn't mean, however, that there actually is more money for street purposes, because officials can divert other corporate funds originally designated for streets to other uses.

If the trucker is arrested on a country road, he is tried by the justice of the peace in the township where the arrest is made and the fine goes to the treasurer of the township road district for expenditure on township roads. If the offense is committed on a state highway outside a municipality, the fine goes to the county treasurer without stipulation as to its ultimate disposition.

During the Illinois campaign against overload trucks the state police have made 1,416,762 inspections and made 53,548 arrests for an overall average of 3.78 per cent. At the outset, the percentage of offenders was about 13 per cent, and more recently it has been under 2 per cent.

It is estimated that fines have run about half a million dollars annually.

Sentiments expressed at recent Taxpayers' Town Meetings held in Aurora, Elgin, and Joliet under auspices of the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois show the average citizen wants a stronger overweight truck law, which undoubtedly will be considered by the 1951 session of the General Assembly.

TOWN SUIT FOR FALL

A town suit of cotton corduroy is a must in the wardrobe of both school girl and career girl this fall. A new cotton corduroy, sheer and soft like chamois cloth, is used by Stephanie Koret of California for this all-purpose corduroy suit. Its style details include a wrist-length jacket with belted back and slim, flattering skirt, according to National Cotton Council fashionists.

Nation faces higher prices and more taxes

Americans are faced with higher prices, greatly increased taxes, and a sharp drop in real income, a Northwestern University economist said.

Dr. Kenyon E. Poole, professor of economics, said this will be true whether the United States gets into World War III or simply continues its program of partial mobilization.

Prof. Poole predicted personal income taxes starting at at least 25 per cent and corporation taxes substantially higher than the 45 per cent enacted last fall. The latter would provide most of the revenue for increased military spending.

"If we assume that we face a period of years during which the mobilization effort will be substantially below that of 1942-45, but at levels much above those of 1946-49, every attempt should be made to balance the federal budget," he declared.

"This means," Prof. Poole emphasized, "that we will have tax rates higher than we have ever had, even during World War II."

In addition, the Northwestern faculty member said he forsees the possibility of an increase in the number of selective excise taxes, with rates in some instances above the present 15 per cent. These would be intended to discourage competition for scarce goods on the part of individual consumers who are enjoying high money incomes.

Q. Is it all right for an unmarried woman to attach the title "Miss" to her name when signing a letter?

A. Only if the title is enclosed in parentheses, as, "(Miss) Ruth Thompson." Generally, if the writer signs her name merely "Ruth Thompson," it is taken for granted that she is unmarried. However, if she wishes to be sure that the reply to her is addressed properly, she will include the title as above.

Q. Is it necessary, when taking leave of a group to which one has been introduced, to bid each one "good-by" separately?

A. No. A cordial "good-by" with a smile that includes everyone is all that is necessary.

Q. Who provides the boutonnieres for the ushers and best man at a wedding?

A. The bridegroom.

Q. When a young married woman is introducing her unmarried sister to another person, does she refer to her sister merely as "Miss Barnes?"

A. The best procedure is to state the relationship, as, "Mrs. Harris, this is my sister, Ethel Barnes."

Q. When one is a guest at a small dinner, should one accept a helping of every dish offered?

A. Yes. We all have our likes and dislikes, but at a small dinner it is embarrasing to the hostess when a guest refuses a dish. One can always manage at least a small quantity.

Q. Should a man apologize for his glove when he is wearing them and shakes hands with a woman?

A. No, this is not required.

Q. Is it proper to sip coffee, tea or water at the table to help wash down the food?

A. Never; the mouth should always be empty before taking any drink. The only exception to this rule is when one has accidentally taken unbearably hot food into the mouth — then one is privileged to take a quick sip of water.

Q. If a man is walking with a woman and someone who is a stranger to him speaks to his companion, should he also return the salutation?

A. Yes, always, by lifting his hat.

Q. Is it proper to mail engraved announcements of an engagement?

A. This is not customary. Usually the engagement is announced by the girl's parents at a tea or party, or by way of a newspaper announcement.

Q. When leaving a person to whom one has just been introduced, is it proper to say, "Good-by, Mr. Carter, I am very glad to have met you?"

A. Yes, this is all right. Or, "Good-by, Mr. Carter; I hope I shall see you again sometime."

Parking meter report shows $1,000 profit

Park Ridge netted more than $1,000 from its parking meters during November.

The city probably will realize a profit every month now that the meters are paid for. The last payment on almost 400 meters was made last month.

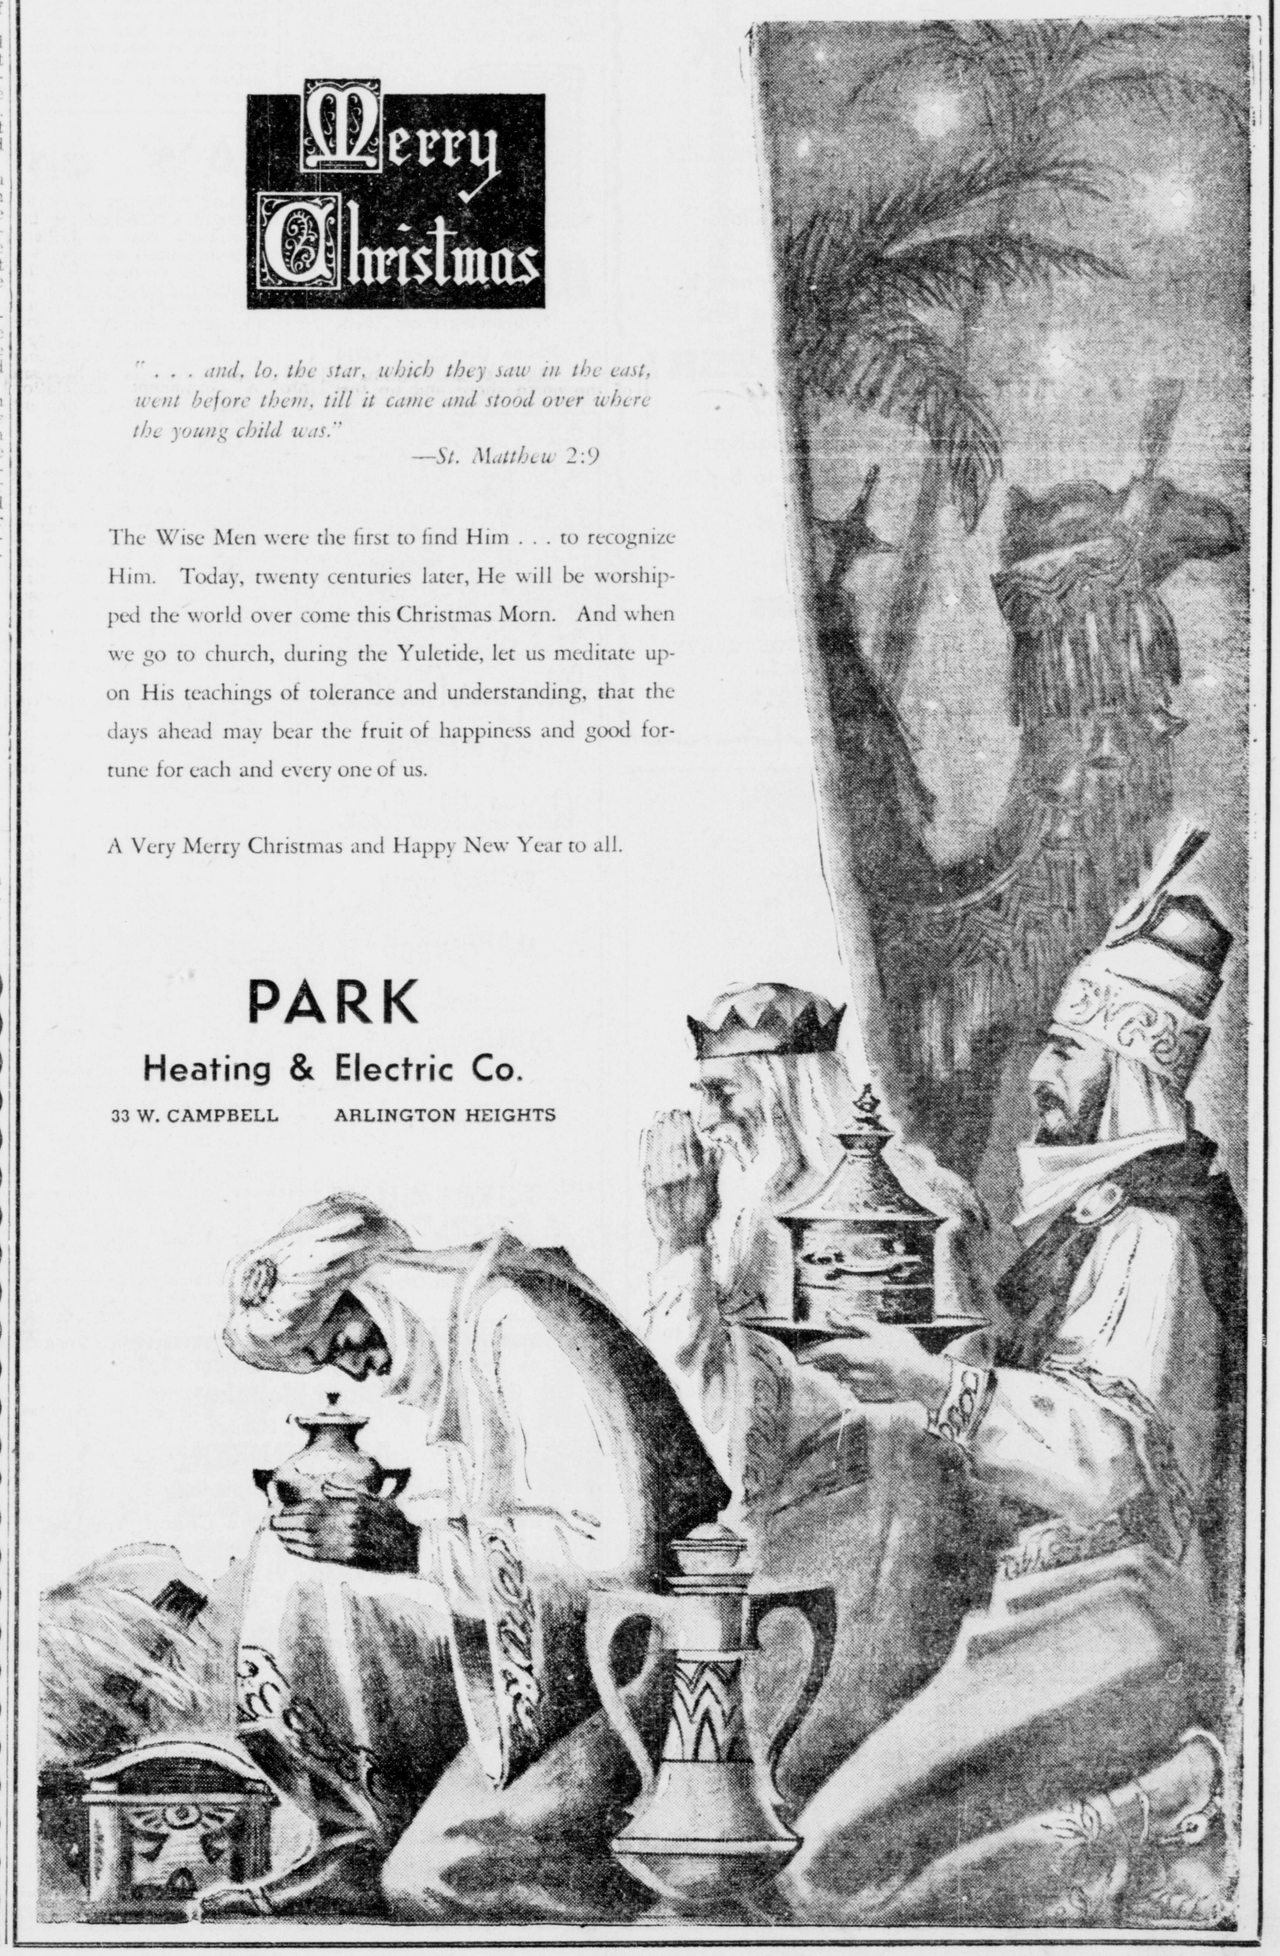

Total income for the month totaled $1,935.25. Expenditures totaled $843.93 including $400 for school crossing protection and $290 for a patrolman's salary. The profit amounts to $1,091.32.

Income for the fiscal year totals $13,110.84, with $10,922.12 paid out in expenses. Cash on hand amounts to $2,992.20 including $803.48 from last year.

Wide differences found in dairy farm earnings

Why was there almost a 4-1 difference in returns above feed per milk cow on two groups of Illinois dairy farms in 1949?

A. G. Mueller, F. J. Reiss and J. B. Cunningham, farm management men in the Illinois College of Agriculture, report today that 63 dairy farms averaged $211 returns over feed costs per cow, while 52 others averaged only $55 per cow.

They point out that production of the higher earning group averaged 3,900 pounds of milk per cow, 332 pounds of butterfat and 135,000 total pounds of milk during the year.

In contrast, the other group averaged only 7,300 pounds of milk per cow, 272 pounds of fat, and 94,000 total pounds of milk.

Besides having larger production, the higher earning farms also had lower feed costs and sold their milk for a slightly higher price. Feed costs were $2,753 and $2,834 for high— and low-earning groups, and selling price per hundredweight was $3.44 and $3.01 respectively.

Accidental Discovery Leads to Winter Farming—Hotbed Style

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

How it came about, nobody seems to know. But, about 1922, a Norwegian farm specialist discovered a new principle for heating hotbeds electrically. The first heaters were crude affairs. And, although perfected to some extent later, were not what farmers needed as a replacement for the old manure beds.

EASY DOES IT—the electric hotbed way.

Agricultural engineers went to work. Out of their experiments came soil heating cable, complete with thermostatic controls to provide clean, precise, convenient warmth. The installation of such a system, and the construction of a suitable hotbed are neither difficult, nor expensive. Here's how it's done:—

First, select a location where the bed faces south to take advantage of the southern sun. This location should be on high ground to provide good drainage. Dig a pit 16 inches deep, extending it out 1 foot beyond the sides of the sashes. A typical 2-frame bed (36 square feet) would require an 8x8-foot pit.

Fill the bed with cinders to a depth of 8 inches. Place the two 3x6-foot frames in the center of the bed and fill in around them with cinders to the level of the frames. Build the frames of boards ⅞-inches thick, making them 16 inches high on the north side and 12 inches high on the south side. To conserve electricity, all four sides may be of double thickness, with insulation between the boards. Be sure, too, that the corners fit snugly—a strip of rubber inner tubing at each joint will help reduce heat losses.

With the frames in place on the cinders, cover bottom with an inch of soil or fine sand. Then arrange the cable on this base, placing it in parallel loops across the bed, keeping it about 3 to 4 inches from each of the 4 sides of the frame. Cable loops should be spaced about 7 inches apart. Cover the cable with 1 inch of soil or sand, and on this place a protective, wire screen. Place 5 to 6 inches of rich soil on the screen. The bulb element of the thermostat should be partly buried in the soil and located midway between two turns of cable. Provide a covering, such as reed mats or burlap bags, for the frames at night. Now you're ready to plant.

Electric hotbeds offer automatic and dependable control of heat, regardless of weather changes. Also they are permanent and seeds germinate in them from 20 to 30% faster than in other types.

In cold climates, well-constructed hotbeds will use from 100 to 130 kwhrs per 3x6-foot sash, per month during the January-February period. Power consumption drops sharply in warmer weather, falling to about 30 kwhrs per sash, per month in April.

LAW on the FARM

Landlord's liability to the tenant's hired man

Assuming that a farm employee has been wrongly injured, who is the employer that is responsible? Since liability is based on negligence and our courts have long ago stated that a landlord cannot be held liable for injuries caused by the negligence of a tenant, it would seem that the landlord might be held responsible only in three general situations:

1. Where the landlord pays all or a portion of the hired man's salary and actively engages in supervising the work which results in injury (Master-Servant Relationship).

2. Where the tenant (or operator) and his employee are new to the farm and there is a latent dangerous condition on the farm which causes the injury. This assumes that:
   a. The landlord has knowledge of the danger;
   b. The tenant recently moved to the farm;
   c. The tenant does not know of the dangerous condition and would not discover it upon reasonable inspection of the premises;
   d. The employee of the tenant is not aware of the danger.

3. Where the relationship between landlord and tenant (or operator) is held by a court to be a partnership. Then each partner is an agent of the partnership to conduct the farm business and the negligence of an agent becomes the negligence of the partnership.

Except for the above-stated situations, only the tenant (or operator) is generally liable for negligence to his employee.

One other relationship should be mentioned briefly—that of the farm manager to the landlord and to the tenant. The farm manager is an agent of the landlord, and in addition to the powers which are expressly given him, he has implied authority to bind the landlord contractually for the purpose of carrying on the business in the usual and customary way. Also, when the manager is exercising such authority, any negligent act of his is treated by law as the act of the landlord, thus making it possible for one person to become liable in damages for another's negligent act.

However, the same rules of liability apply as stated above. If the hired man is an employee of the tenant and is injured, generally neither the landlord nor manager can be held liable unless negligence can be shown. On the other hand, if a man is employed by the manager to put up a permanent fence or construct a corn crib (those things for which the landlord is responsible), wrongful injury to such employee might easily lead to liability on the part of the landlord.

Applying principles of agency, the manager will not incur liability so long as he acts within authority which has been expressly given or can be implied. However, there may be situations in which the manager could be classified as an independent contractor (responsible only for a result) and would then be solely liable for any negligence toward an employee. Such a position can be visualized, for example, when a farm management corporation employs painters to paint buildings on all the farms which it manages.

How much daily gain per head can you expect from feeding steer calves various types of wintering rations?

G. R. Carlisle, extension livestock specialist at the Illinois College of Agriculture, gives three daily rations, each of which will put on 1.25 to 1.3 pounds every day during the wintering period.

Ration 1: full-feed of corn silage, plus one pound of soybean oil meal and two to three pounds of legume hay.

Ration 2: full-feed of legume-grass silage, plus three to four pounds of grain and two to three pounds of legume hay.

Ration 3: full-feed of good-quality legume hay, plus three to four pounds of grain.

YOU MAY CHOOSE any one of these three rations to fit your own particular feed situation, Carlisle says. It depends on whether you have, or prefer to feed, corn or legume-grass silage, or have grain and hay to feed. The rations are made up to fit a feeding program where you are going to feed grain on pasture next spring or pasture steers without grain.

Carlisle says an even more efficient ration for you to use if you are planning to pasture your steers next spring on grass alone would be a full feed of good-quality legume hay with no grain at all. You can expect daily gains of about .9 pound with this fourth ration.

But your calves will be a little thinner next spring than if they had one of the first three rations. And they will be in a position to make faster gains on pasture alone for at least 90 days.

Tractor needs for winter operation

Change to a winter oil in your tractor crankcase and you'll have lots less trouble operating the tractor in cold weather.

A. R. Ayres, extension agricultural engineer at the Illinois College of Agriculture, says you'll have to change your crankcase oil oftener in winter, too. "Sweating" on the inside of the engine gets more water in the oil. Water mixed with fuel soot and dirt in the crankcase combine to make that old familiar "sludge" that fouls up your oil.

Check to be sure that the valves are being lubricated. If they aren't, check your oil pressure system. Be sure you have a clean oil filter.

Ayers says one of the most frequent causes of hard tractor starting in cold weather is a dirty ignition system. Be sure the plugs are clean, and clean out all dirt around the engine. Clean and adjust the magneto points, and check to see that all wires are well insulated. To work efficiently, the magneto impulse should give a loud click.

Keep the battery well charged and the cells filled with distilled water. After the refill the battery cells run the tractor to bring up the charge.

Replace the summer lube oil in the tractor transmission with winter oil. Heavy transmission oil will channel and will not lubricate. It is a "power robber." You can dilute summer lube oil to winter use by adding 10 to 15 per cent by volume of kerosene. But you'll have to drain that mixture out next spring.

Use winter grade gasoline, too, Ayers suggests. Keep the gas tank full as much of the time as you can to keep moisture from condensing on the inside of the gas tank.

Use a Bleach

Hydrogen sulfide fumes from sewage, industrial plants and other sources tend to darken some paints to a metallic gray resembling graphite. By sponging the surface with hydrogen peroxide or other bleaches—or a dilute solution of muriatic acid—the discoloration may be made to disappear quickly.

Wide differences found in dairy farm earnings

Why was there almost a 4-1 difference in returns above feed per milk cow on two groups of Illinois dairy farms in 1949?

A. G. Mueller, F. J. Reiss and J. B. Cunningham, farm management men in the Illinois College of Agriculture, report today that 63 dairy farms averaged $211 returns over feed costs per cow, while 52 others averaged only $55 per cow.

They point out that production of the higher earning group averaged 3,900 pounds of milk per cow, 332 pounds of butterfat and 135,000 total pounds of milk during the year.

In contrast, the other group averaged only 7,300 pounds of milk per cow, 272 pounds of fat, and 94,000 total pounds of milk.

Besides having larger production, the higher earning farms also had lower feed costs and sold their milk for a slightly higher price. Feed costs were $2,753 and $2,834 for high— and low-earning groups, and selling price per hundredweight was $3.44 and $3.01 respectively.

Here's feed that helps keep rabbits at high speed production—putting on flesh and fur—and builds up sturdy, vigorous health. Economical, too! That's why you'll find CRITIC Rabbit Feeds tops for producing profitable results. High grade, laboratory-tested ingredients, heavily fortified with vitamins and minerals. LAW on the FARM

Assuming that a farm employee has been wrongly injured, who is the employer that is responsible? Since liability is based on negligence and our courts have long ago stated that a landlord cannot be held liable for injuries caused by the negligence of a tenant, it would seem that the landlord might be held responsible only in three general situations:

1. Where the landlord pays all or a portion of the hired man's salary and actively engages in supervising the work which results in injury (Master-Servant Relationship).

2. Where the tenant (or operator) and his employee are new to the farm and there is a latent dangerous condition on the farm which causes the injury. This assumes that:
   a. The landlord has knowledge of the danger;
   b. The tenant recently moved to the farm;
   c. The tenant does not know of the dangerous condition and would not discover it upon reasonable inspection of the premises;
   d. The employee of the tenant is not aware of the danger.

3. Where the relationship between landlord and tenant (or operator) is held by a court to be a partnership. Then each partner is an agent of the partnership to conduct the farm business and the negligence of an agent becomes the negligence of the partnership.

Except for the above-stated situations, only the tenant (or operator) is generally liable for negligence to his employee.

One other relationship should be mentioned briefly—that of the farm manager to the landlord and to the tenant. The farm manager is an agent of the landlord, and in addition to the powers which are expressly given him, he has implied authority to bind the landlord contractually for the purpose of carrying on the business in the usual and customary way. Also, when the manager is exercising such authority, any negligent act of his is treated by law as the act of the landlord, thus making it possible for one person to become liable in damages for another's negligent act.

However, the same rules of liability apply as stated above. If the hired man is an employee of the tenant and is injured, generally neither the landlord nor manager can be held liable unless negligence can be shown. On the other hand, if a man is employed by the manager to put up a permanent fence or construct a corn crib (those things for which the landlord is responsible), wrongful injury to such employee might easily lead to liability on the part of the landlord.

Applying principles of agency, the manager will not incur liability so long as he acts within authority which has been expressly given or can be implied. However, there may be situations in which the manager could be classified as an independent contractor (responsible only for a result) and would then be solely liable for any negligence toward an employee. Such a position can be visualized, for example, when a farm management corporation employs painters to paint buildings on all the farms which it manages.

Parents should encourage child as an artist

Most parents dream of a brilliant future for their offspring whether in business, the professions or the arts. They have varying success, however, in encouraging the child to realize this dream.

If they find need for expert help, they can consult a book such as Arthur Zaidenburg's provocative Your Child is an Artist which discusses the potentialities of artistic expression in the average child.

Mr. Zaidenburg believes that the imagination of the child provides a rich source of expression which is often lost before adolescence. He hopes by his book to encourage parents and teachers to help the child retain and cultivate this imagination. He believes that as we all learn to write to express ourselves, so we can also learn to express unexplored facets of our personalities in drawing and painting if the practice is started in childhood. He feels that many potential Titians and Picassos have been lost to the world because they were never properly encouraged.

The book is divided into short pointed chapters discussing such topics as talent, sketch habits and subject matter. There are suggestions for the parent who wishes to motivate his child, telling him what supplies to provide and how to sustain his interest. Reproductions of many fascinating examples of child art are included, a number of them compared to that of modern greats—Picasso, Klee, Braque, Matisse. By comparison one can see the same unspoiled vision in both the trained and untrained.

A psychiatrist Dr. S. Z. Orgel has made critical commentaries on a number of the drawings to indicate how the trained physician can evaluate the mental health of the child through his artistic expressions.

Those interested in reading this book will find it on the bookshelves of the Palatine Public Library.

Chewing Gum Helps

If a speck of matter falls on a painted surface which is still wet, it can be removed by touching it lightly with a stick of wood tipped with a ball of fairly dry chewing gum. The speck will stick to the gum and the paint will flow together again.

Shoot 'Em On The Run

"Be a sport and shoot your rabbits on the run," Dr. Roland R. Cross, state Director of Public Health, has implored hunters. This is good advice, he added, not so much from the standpoint of good sportsmanship as for your own well-being.

SPRINGFIELD — A rabbit which doesn't want to run—one who acts sluggish—might well be infected with tularemia, more commonly known as "rabbit fever."

"But just because the rabbit you bagged took off like it was jet-propelled doesn't mean that you should ignore the simple precautions which are almost 100 per cent effective in preventing this serious disease," Dr. Cross continued.

Explaining that about 95 per cent of tularemia is contracted from handling of wild rabbit, he offered these rules for persons hunting, handling or cooking the game:

1. Avoid shooting rabbits that are inactive or appear ill.
2. Do not handle rabbits that are found dead.
3. Wear rubber gloves when dressing game.
4. Destroy all rabbits whose internal organs are studded with small white spots — it may be tularemia.
5. Thoroughly cook wild game, especially rabbits, to destroy germs of tularemia.
6. Avoid bites of ticks and fleas.

While the principal source of this disease is the wild rabbit, other animals including ground squirrels, rats and mice, muskrats, opossums, pocket gophers, beavers, woodchucks and sheep have been found to harbor it.

Some game birds, including quail and pheasant, have been reported infected with tularemia. Biting insects such as wood ticks, dog ticks, fleas and deer flies can also spread this disease indirectly.

Pointing to the severity of tularemia, Dr. Cross said that most cases last more than two months, while recovery may take more than six months.

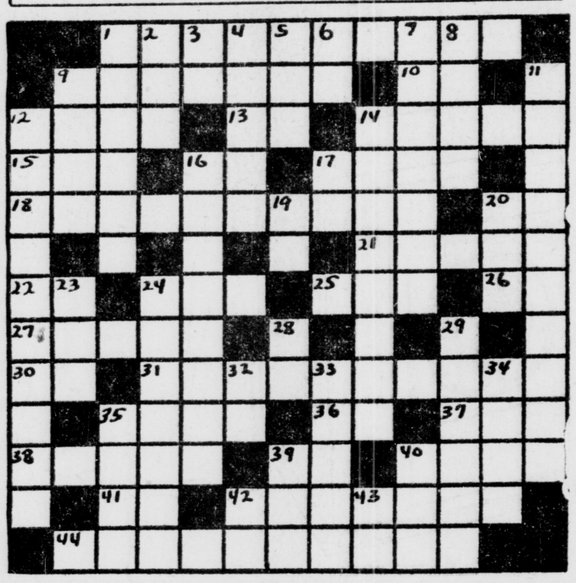

Recent statistics reveal few deaths in Illinois from this ailment, but the disease is usually painful and of long duration, and the treatment costly.

Parents should encourage child as an artist

Most parents dream of a brilliant future for their offspring whether in business, the professions or the arts. They have varying success, however, in encouraging the child to realize this dream.

If they find need for expert help, they can consult a book such as Arthur Zaidenburg's provocative Your Child is an Artist which discusses the potentialities of artistic expression in the average child.

Mr. Zaidenburg believes that the imagination of the child provides a rich source of expression which is often lost before adolescence. He hopes by his book to encourage parents and teachers to help the child retain and cultivate this imagination. He believes that as we all learn to write to express ourselves, so we can also learn to express unexplored facets of our personalities in drawing and painting if the practice is started in childhood. He feels that many potential Titians and Picassos have been lost to the world because they were never properly encouraged.

The book is divided into short pointed chapters discussing such topics as talent, sketch habits and subject matter. There are suggestions for the parent who wishes to motivate his child, telling him what supplies to provide and how to sustain his interest. Reproductions of many fascinating examples of child art are included, a number of them compared to that of modern greats—Picasso, Klee, Braque, Matisse. By comparison one can see the same unspoiled vision in both the trained and untrained.

A psychiatrist Dr. S. Z. Orgel has made critical commentaries on a number of the drawings to indicate how the trained physician can evaluate the mental health of the child through his artistic expressions.

Those interested in reading this book will find it on the bookshelves of the Palatine Public Library.

Yule trees can increase fire hazard

That Christmas tree you are planning to set up in your home could be a major fire hazard unless you take a few precautions, the National Board of Fire Underwriters warns.

Tests made by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., demonstrated that Christmas trees of average size are easily ignited and burn furiously. The blaze could easily start a dangerous fire in the home.

Engineers of the National Board offer the following suggestions for making your Christmas tree safe:

1. Choose a small tree. It will be less hazardous.
2. Wait until a few days before Christmas to set up your tree.
3. Keep the tree outdoors until ready to set it up.
4. Place the tree in the coolest part of the house.
5. If a radiator is near the tree, shut it off.
6. Do not use cotton or paper decorations unless they are flameproofed.
7. Do not place electric trains around the tree.
8. Do not use candles. Use electric lights instead.
9. Make certain wires are not frayed. Choose lighting sets bearing marking which indicates listing by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.
10. Do not plug or unplug the lights beneath the tree.
11. Do not leave the tree lights burning when no one is in the house.
12. If needles near the lights turn brown, change the location of the lights.
13. When needles start falling, take the tree down and discard it.

Five divisions of Xmas seal dollar

Cook county's Christmas Seal dollar is divided into five parts, according to a statement issued today by Herbert C. De Young, president of the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook county, which currently is conducting its annual drive for funds.

Out of every dollar contributed to the Institute to carry on its tuberculosis control program, 41 cents is spent on health education which teaches the facts about the disease.

Thirty-one cents of the Seal dollar is devoted to diagnosis and treatment of tuberculosis.

In the search for unknown cases of tuberculosis, 15 cents of every dollar expended by the Institute goes for chest X-raying.

Eight cents out of every Christmas Seal dollar goes for medical research and the cost of maintaining the Institute's statistical department.

The balance of five cents is used for administrative costs.

A total of $366,177.54— more than two-thirds of the goal of $500,000 — had been received through Thursday, December 14, at the Institute's offices at 1412 W. Washington Blvd. in Chicago. The receipts are running six per cent ahead of last year, for a comparable period.

Persons who did not receive Seals in the mail or who wish additional Seals may obtain them by calling Christmas Seal headquarters, at Taylor 9-1222.

Northbrook, Glenview talk two schools to solve problem

Important steps toward settlement of the dispute over where the new Northfield township high school will be located were reported by resident John Woods of the High School Board of Education, and Mark Clayton, President of the Glenview Elementary School Board.

The plan, as worked out by the school leaders, it was stated, has brought favorable reaction in Glenview. This plan calls for two high schools in Northfield township, one in Glenview and the other in Northbrook.

Under the proposed plan there would be two High School Districts, one in the Northbrook area and the other in the Glenview area. The Northbrook Area District could build its school on the Oldfield site, while the Glenview Area District could build its school at Lake avenue and Sunset Ridge or any other site chosen.

Already the school presidents have worked out plans for Glenview. There would be a Junior-Senior high school. This combination school, it was pointed out, would, through joint use of facilities, afford great savings.

A Christian will find it cheaper to pardon than to resent. Forgiveness saves the expense of anger, the cost of hatred, the waste of spirits.

'Messiah' concert Dec. 26 at Orchestra Hall

The Apollo Musical club of Chicago opens its season with a Christmas-time performance of Handel's "Messiah" Tuesday evening, December 26, at Orchestra Hall. Edgar A. Nelson conducts chorus, soloists and the Chicago Symphony orchestra; and Robert Birch, the club's accompanist and associate conductor, will be at the organ.

Louis Sudler, baritone, who first appeared with the club in its performance of "Elijah" last spring; Maud Nosler, soprano; Ralph Nylund, tenor; and Grace Hoffman, contralto honors-winner in WGN's Career Performance series, form the quartet of soloists for the performance.

The Apollo club chorus, drawn from all parts of the city and neighboring towns and suburbs, includes on its roster: Charles H. Johnson, 216 E. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights, member of the Board of Directors; Dorothy King, 1221 Walnut, Western Springs; and W. R. Lawler, Mt. Prospect.

For its Spring concert, the Apollo club will present Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius," with Harold Haugh, tenor, singing the role of Gerontius.

Yule trees can increase fire hazard

That Christmas tree you are planning to set up in your home could be a major fire hazard unless you take a few precautions, the National Board of Fire Underwriters warns.

Tests made by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., demonstrated that Christmas trees of average size are easily ignited and burn furiously. The blaze could easily start a dangerous fire in the home.

Engineers of the National Board offer the following suggestions for making your Christmas tree safe:

1. Choose a small tree. It will be less hazardous.
2. Wait until a few days before Christmas to set up your tree.
3. Keep the tree outdoors until ready to set it up.
4. Place the tree in the coolest part of the house.
5. If a radiator is near the tree, shut it off.
6. Do not use cotton or paper decorations unless they are flameproofed.
7. Do not place electric trains around the tree.
8. Do not use candles. Use electric lights instead.
9. Make certain wires are not frayed. Choose lighting sets bearing marking which indicates listing by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.
10. Do not plug or unplug the lights beneath the tree.
11. Do not leave the tree lights burning when no one is in the house.
12. If needles near the lights turn brown, change the location of the lights.
13. When needles start falling, take the tree down and discard it.

Five divisions of Xmas seal dollar

Cook county's Christmas Seal dollar is divided into five parts, according to a statement issued today by Herbert C. De Young, president of the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook county, which currently is conducting its annual drive for funds.

Out of every dollar contributed to the Institute to carry on its tuberculosis control program, 41 cents is spent on health education which teaches the facts about the disease.

Thirty-one cents of the Seal dollar is devoted to diagnosis and treatment of tuberculosis.

In the search for unknown cases of tuberculosis, 15 cents of every dollar expended by the Institute goes for chest X-raying.

Eight cents out of every Christmas Seal dollar goes for medical research and the cost of maintaining the Institute's statistical department.

The balance of five cents is used for administrative costs.

A total of $366,177.54— more than two-thirds of the goal of $500,000 — had been received through Thursday, December 14, at the Institute's offices at 1412 W. Washington Blvd. in Chicago. The receipts are running six per cent ahead of last year, for a comparable period.

Persons who did not receive Seals in the mail or who wish additional Seals may obtain them by calling Christmas Seal headquarters, at Taylor 9-1222.

Northbrook, Glenview talk two schools to solve problem

Important steps toward settlement of the dispute over where the new Northfield township high school will be located were reported by resident John Woods of the High School Board of Education, and Mark Clayton, President of the Glenview Elementary School Board.

The plan, as worked out by the school leaders, it was stated, has brought favorable reaction in Glenview. This plan calls for two high schools in Northfield township, one in Glenview and the other in Northbrook.

Under the proposed plan there would be two High School Districts, one in the Northbrook area and the other in the Glenview area. The Northbrook Area District could build its school on the Oldfield site, while the Glenview Area District could build its school at Lake avenue and Sunset Ridge or any other site chosen.

Already the school presidents have worked out plans for Glenview. There would be a Junior-Senior high school. This combination school, it was pointed out, would, through joint use of facilities, afford great savings.

A Christian will find it cheaper to pardon than to resent. Forgiveness saves the expense of anger, the cost of hatred, the waste of spirits.

'Messiah' concert Dec. 26 at Orchestra Hall

The Apollo Musical club of Chicago opens its season with a Christmas-time performance of Handel's "Messiah" Tuesday evening, December 26, at Orchestra Hall. Edgar A. Nelson conducts chorus, soloists and the Chicago Symphony orchestra; and Robert Birch, the club's accompanist and associate conductor, will be at the organ.

Louis Sudler, baritone, who first appeared with the club in its performance of "Elijah" last spring; Maud Nosler, soprano; Ralph Nylund, tenor; and Grace Hoffman, contralto honors-winner in WGN's Career Performance series, form the quartet of soloists for the performance.

The Apollo club chorus, drawn from all parts of the city and neighboring towns and suburbs, includes on its roster: Charles H. Johnson, 216 E. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights, member of the Board of Directors; Dorothy King, 1221 Walnut, Western Springs; and W. R. Lawler, Mt. Prospect.

For its Spring concert, the Apollo club will present Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius," with Harold Haugh, tenor, singing the role of Gerontius.
